PREFACE

The Bulkeley Genealogy owes its inception to Mrs. Benjamin Patterson Bole, of Cleveland, Ohio, and its completion and publication to another descendant of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, to whose preference to remain anonymous the compiler reluctantly accedes. To their splendid coöperation, the compiler is indebted more than he can say. To them and to all others who, in whatever degree, have aided and encouraged the undertaking, the compiler expresses his deepest gratitude.

A large amount of research has been done in record sources, most of it personally, but we take pleasure in acknowledging the aid of Mrs. Mary Lovering Holman, of her daughter, Miss Winifred Lovering Holman, and of Miss Reed in covering certain Massachusetts sources, and we acknowledge very special indebtedness to Mr. Clarence A. Torrey, of Dorchester, Mass., for his generosity in supplying several valuable pieces of information relative to the early generations. We are also under obligation to Mr. Torrey for aiding in the solution of problems affecting the connection between the Bulkeley and Mellowes families. Mr. Frank Farnsworth Starr of Middletown, Conn., supplied some information on Middletown branches.

To Hon. George S. Godard, State Librarian, and to Hon. Lucius B. Barbour, Examiner of Public Records, we are indebted for their kind and helpful attitude in permitting the fullest possible use of the facilities afforded by the Connecticut State Library. As it was impossible to visit every town in the State where Bulkeley descendants ever resided, many of our dates are based on the copies of vital statistics in the Barbour Collection. To Mr. Andrew Keogh, Yale Librarian, to Miss Ethel Lord Scofield, Librarian of the New Haven Colony Historical Society, and to Mr. Albert C. Bates, Librarian of the Connecticut Historical Society, our thanks are due for courtesies extended in the use of their respective libraries.

The arrangement of material is simple and follows standard forms. Each child and descendant of Rev. Peter Bulkeley has been assigned a reference number, and the plus sign between the number and the name indicates that that child is carried forward where (identified by the reference number and the line of descent following his name) further information is given and his own children set forth.

The attempt has been made to trace all descendants of Rev. Peter Bulkeley through all male and female lines as far as the seventh generation. This should enable a great majority of the living descendants to connect their Bulkeley ancestry. The book has one defect, or what many will consider a defect: no effort has been made to state the parentage of the husbands and wives of Bulkeley descendants. We believe that this decision is wise. The bulk of the errors in most family histories are found in the data concerning those not bearing the family surname, where the knowledge of the compiler is limited. Since the plan of the present volume necessitated tracing the descendants through hundreds of differing surnames, we perforce assumed considerable risk of error on that score; and it would have been challenging fate to add to this the risk of attempting to state the parentage of the thousands of husbands and wives of the descendants.

Acknowledgment must be made, in general, to hundreds of volumes,—genealogies, town histories, county histories, printed town statistics, and so forth. Some have supplied us with a single item, others with entire pages of information. Like Kipling's Homer, the compiler must admit that "what he thought he might require, he went and took." Full references are given in the section of this volume which relates to English origins, but in a volume of this size it was found impractical to make acknowledgment to the very large number of printed sources utilized in tracing the Bulkeley descendants. So far as possible, we checked with original record sources; nevertheless, there is much—very much—which is based on printed sources, and if inaccuracies have crept into this volume, they will be traceable in large measure to the acceptance of printed statements which we were unable to verify. This is chiefly true of the sixth and seventh generations, for the first five generations are based very largely on research in record sources.

We have used Chapman's "The Bulkeley Family," published in 1875, and wherever we differ from statements made therein, it is because we have found evidence refuting those statements. Mr. Chapman was a capable genealogist, but his work on the Bulkeley family was done in his old age and when in poor health, and he died without having the opportunity to revise and proof-read his book. It contains, however, much of value. Dr. James Franklin Bulkley published a booklet, "A Genealogical Record of the Bulkley Family," at La Plata, Mo., in 1911. It contains many errors, but some valuable information obtained from descendants. Genealogies of the Emerson, Whitman, Treat, Deming, Kilbourn, Dwight, Prescott, Hall, Boardman, Leavenworth, Phelps, Talcott, Everett, Burr, and Stratton families have been especially helpful, but hardly more so than some not mentioned. In fact, when a Bulkeley descendant married into a family which possesses a published genealogy, it may usually be taken for granted that we have consulted it.

In presenting abstracts of original records, we have usually followed the spelling of names there employed, even when incorrect.

The standard English spelling of the family surname is Bulkeley, and this was employed by certain branches for generations and in a very few lines to the present day. The Fairfield branches adopted the spelling Bulkley as early as the third American generation, and this form was also common in some of the other branches. In this volume, we have somewhat arbitrarily used the spelling Bulkeley for descendants of Edward[2] and Gershom[2], branches which did retain this form for a considerable period, and the spelling Bulkley for the Fairfield branches descended from Thomas[2] and Peter[2].

We are indebted to Mrs. Louis C. Bulkley, of Shrevesport, La., for the print of the coat-of-arms, which is reproduced as the frontispiece.

THE BULKELEY FAMILY

Arms: Sable a chevron between three bull's heads cabossed silver armed gold.
Crest: Out of a crown gold a bull's head silver armed gold.

The Bulkeley family is of great antiquity in England, and derives its name from the town of Bulkeley in Cheshire County, where as early as 1200 they were lords of the manor.* "Bulkeley is a sequestered and beautiful township, situated about twelve miles south-east of Chester, in the line between Bunbury and Malpas, shaded on the north-west by the Bickerton Hills."

Robert de Bulkileh was lord of the manor of Bulkeley, it is said, and father of William who received a quitclaim from his sisters in 1233. William is then assigned a son Robert who is said to have married a daughter of Butler, lord of Warrington.†

The last-named Robert is given three sons, William (living 1302), Peter, and Thomas, and the claim is sometimes made that this Peter was the one who married Nichola Bird and became the ancestor of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.‡

The early Bulkeleys were numerous, and the exact connection of Peter (the husband of Nichola) with the main Cheshire stem is uncertain. William (son of Robert, and brother of Peter, above) married Maud, daughter of Sir John de Davenport, and to them are assigned six sons:

i. William, whose share of the manor of Bulkeley went to his daughter and heiress, Alice, wife of Thomas de Holford.

ii. Robert, of Oteworth, had Eaton in Davenham, co. Cheshire; children:
   (1) Robert, ancestor of the Bulkeleys of Eaton.
   (2) Richard, married Agnes de Chedle; ancestor of the Bulkeleys of Chedle, Barons Bulkeley of Beaumaris.
   (3) Peter, of Broxton, whose male line is said to have become extinct with his granddaughters.

iii. Roger, adopted the surname of Norbury; line ended with his granddaughters.

* The term 'lord' in the sense of feudal owner of a manor is often ignorantly interpreted as 'Baron.' Lords of the manor were not ordinarily and never ipso facto, Barons.

† Jane, daughter of Sir William Butler, according to some authorities. The Butlers of Bewsey in Warrington, co. Lancaster, were an important family, and the most thorough account of them in print does not mention the wife of Robert de Bulkeley [Lancaster and Cheshire, pub. by the Chetham Society, vol. 87 (1873)].

‡ Ormerod's History of Cheshire, vol. 2, p. 652; Publications of the Harleian Society, vol. 19, p. 164.

iv. Richard, adopted the surname of Prestland, and left descendants.
vi. David, ancestor of the Bulkeleys of Bulkeley and Bickerton; the remaining lands in Bulkeley were sold under the will of his descendant, Thomas Bulkeley of Bulkeley, Gent., who died in 1802, after they had been in possession of this family for the remarkable period of 600 years.

It will be observed that Robert, the second son of William, is also said to have had a son Peter, who was grandnephew of the Peter mentioned above. Ormerod's History of Cheshire, contrary to the pedigree (vol. 2, p. 652), affirms under the account of Haughton (vol. 2, p. 290) that this was most likely the Peter who married Nichola Bird. We quote: "This Peter de Bulkeley appears, from a careful comparison of the jarring evidence relative to the connection of the Birds and Bulkeleys, to have been the third son of Robert Bulkeley of [Oteworth, qy. in] Davenham, a second son of William de Bulkeley lord of the manor of Bulkeley in 1322."

The facts in the matter are that Nichola daughter of Thomas le Brid [or Bird] and wife of Peter Bulkeley was found next of kin and heir to William de Haughton by the latter's Inquisition post mortem, 39 Edward III (1366). Now a man who was married in 1366, but presumably far from elderly at that date, can with difficulty be assigned as grandson to a man who had attained his majority before 1233. He obviously belongs about two generations further on in the pedigree, hence the theory that the husband of Nichola Bird was identical with the younger Peter is the more probable of the two theories, though his identity is not established with certainty.*

I. Peter Bulkeley, a scion of the Bulkeleys of Bulkeley, co. Cheshire, held Haughton, co. Cheshire, in right of his wife Nichola, daughter of Thomas le Bird. Letters Patent granting annuity of 100 shillings to Peter de Bulkeley of Halghton by King Richard II, 28 Sept. 1390.

II. John Bulkeley, of Haughton, son of Peter, married Audrey, daughter and heir of John Titley of Woore, co. Shropshire. He died 1450. Letters Patent granting John son of Peter de Bulk-ley six pence pension as archer of the Crown, 1399.

* It might easily require several months' intensive research in England to collect the evidence necessary for definite conclusions regarding the relationship of the early Bulkeleys. We have done what could be done with the imperfect data offered by printed authorities, and regret that our statements require so much of caution. A number of early Bulkeley deeds published in The Ancestor, vol. 6, pp. 23-31, indicate that the sons of Robert were named Robert, Richard, and Roger; which makes Peter's parentage even more uncertain.

III. Hugh Bulkeley, of Woore, married Helen, daughter of Thomas Wilbraham of Woodley, Esq.

IV. Humphrey Bulkeley, of Woore, married Cecily, daughter and heir of John Moulton, of Moulton.

V. William Bulkeley, of Oakley, married Beatrice, daughter and coheir of William Hill, of Buntingsdale, Shropshire, by his wife Alice, sister and heir of Richard de Bunbury. He died 4 Mar. 1571. Arms of Hill: Gules, a chevron between three pheons argent.

VI. Thomas Bulkeley, of Woore, b. say 1515-20, lived in Buntingsdale in the parish of Market Drayton, Shropshire, died in 1591 and buried at Market Drayton; married Elizabeth Grosvenor, b. say 1520, daughter of Randall Grosvenor of Bellaport, co. Shropshire. See The Grosvenor Line, below.

Children:

i. Rowland, of Woore, living 1596; m. Elizabeth Barker, dau. of George Barker of Coulshurst, Shropshire, by his first wife. Rowland had a son William, who was father of Richard.

+ii. Edward, D.D., father of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. An account of him and his family will be found following The Grosvenor Line below.

iii. Margaret, m. Thomas Smith, of Longstowe, Shropshire, yeoman. His will (P. C. C. 32 Kidd), made 24 July 1597, proved 12 May 1599, named his wife Margaret, unmarried daus. Elizabeth and Margaret, another dau. Jane Smith, dau. Dorathie, dau. Ann Phillipps, dau. Katherine Heynes, and dau. Alice Dresser; appointed as Executors, daus. Elizabeth and Jane, his wife, his "brethren-in-law" Edward Bulkeley and George Barker, and as Overseers, the right worshipful Robert Nedham the Elder of Shavington, Esq., and "my cousin" William Bulkeley of Woore, Esq.; witnesses, Roger Daker, John Cartwright, and John Grococke.

iv. Anne, m. William Greene.

v. Catherine, m. (as his second wife) George Barker, of Coulshurst, Shropshire, perhaps the George Barker whose will was proved at Lichfield in 1599. Children:*

---

* George Barker m. (1) a Steventon of Rowton, by whom he had four surviving children: i. Andrew, m. (1) Constance, dau. of George Smith of Longstowe, and (2) Isabel, dau. of Francis Kinaston of Oteley. ii. Robert, m. Catherine, dau. of George Ackworth of co. Kent. iii. Elizabeth, m. Rowland Bulkeley, vide supra. iv. Margaret, m. William Gruffeth.

(1) John, m. Joan, dau. of George Southerne of Fitz, and had a son George.
(2) Anne, m. Thomas Umpton.
(3) Isabel, m. Arthur Ward.

THE GROSVENOR LINE

Arms: Azure, a Garb, Or.
Ancient arms: Azure, a Bend, Or.

Rev. Peter Bulkeley's paternal grandmother, Elizabeth Grosvenor, belonged to a distinguished family which originated in co. Cheshire, England. This entire county, with its earldom, was granted by William the Conqueror to Hugh Lupus, and according to the formerly accepted account that Earl was uncle of Gilbert le Grosvenor, whose son Sir Robert received the lordship of Over-Lostock.

Critical study of contemporary documentary sources has demolished that pleasing fancy. Gilbert le Grosvenor is a myth evolved out of the name Gilbert "Venator," which was merely the Latin form of the name of Gilbert de Venables, baron of Kinderton. We follow the account given by W. H. B. Bird in "The Grosvenor Myth" published in 1902 in The Ancestor, vol. 1, pp. 166-188.

I. Robert le Grosvenor is the earliest member of this family of whom contemporary mention is found. He received a grant of Budworth in Cheshire from a later Earl of Chester, Hugh Kevelioc (1153-1181). His wife was Alice, who m. (2) William de Stretton, and the indications are that they had sons, Randle and Robert.

II. Randle le Grosvenor, d. before 1232, in the lifetime of his mother. He appears to have had two sons:

i. Robert, of Budworth, d. by 1241; m. Margery, and left issue.
+ii. Richard.

III. Richard le Grosvenor, in 1234 received a grant of Hulme, Cheshire, from Gralam de Lostock, and was living in 1269.

IV. Robert le Grosvenor, of Hulme, d. before 1293, buried at Friar Minors; m. Margery.

V. Robert le Grosvenor, of Hulme, a minor in 1293, did homage 1305, dead by 1328; served in the Scotch war under Edward II; m. Margery.

VI. Robert le Grosvenor, of Rudheath, afterwards of Hulme, did homage 1328, d. before 1342, and buried at Great Budworth; m. before 1323, Emma, dau. and coheir of William de Modburlegh, by his wife Maud, dau. and heir of Robert Downes; she was living as late as about 1366, and brought to her husband lands in Chorlegh and Werford. Children:

+i. Ralph.
ii. Robert.

VII. Ralph le Grosvenor, mentioned in documents in 1342 and 1346, d. before 1356, and buried at Nether Peover; m. Joan.

VIII. Sir Robert le Grosvenor, b. about 1342, d. 22 Apr. 1396; did homage 1373; served in France, 1359-60, under his father-in-law, Sir John Danyers, and in 1369-70 under the Black Prince; m. (1) Margaret Danyers, who d. June 1370; m. (2) Joan, dau. of Robert de Pulford, widow of Thomas de Belgrave, and heir to her brother, John de Pulford.

In 1385 an English army under the king invaded Scotland. Sir Richard Scrope, first Baron Scrope of Bolton, was incensed to find in the camp a knight of the Palatinate (Cheshire), Sir Robert Grosvenor, bearing the same coat (azure, a bend, or) as his own. A dispute followed; Grosvenor maintained his right; and the matter was referred to a court of chivalry, composed of the constable and marshal of England with other nobles. Many sittings were held, and much evidence collected. A contemporary record of the suit survives. Among those who testified for Scrope were John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster; the Earl of Derby (afterwards King Henry IV); the Duke of York; Sir John Holand, the king's half-brother; the Earl of Northumberland and his son Sir Henry de Percy (then aged twenty, later famed as "Harry Hotspur"); and the poet, "Geffray Chaucere esquier, del age de xl ans & plus." Grosvenor's witnesses were drawn chiefly from the gentry of Cheshire and Lancaster.

Wild claims were made on both sides. Grosvenor claimed the coat was granted to his ancestor by the Domesday Earl of Chester, though actually that was earlier than the age of hereditary coat armour. Mention was made of a third claimant to the same arms,

Thomas Carminowe, an esquire of Cornwall, who carried his claim back to King Arthur's legendary "round table."

Not a word is found in the suit about the office of "Le Grosvenour" or "Grand Huntsman" to the Dukes of Normandy, which later Grosvenors claimed as the origin of their name. The earlier generations mentioned by the witnesses were entirely traditional, and no evidence was presented for them at the trial. It was claimed that the Grosvenor ancestor held Over-Lostock at the time of Domesday; but Domesday Book contains no mention of Grosvenor nor of either Lostock, and it is known that both Lostocks were later members of the capital manor with which King Edward endowed his abbey of Vale Royal. Grosvenor, for his moiety, paid the abbey a rent of seventeen shillings a year and two pigs.

It is quite clear, therefore, that the mention of the earlier Grosvenors made at the trial (perhaps the most famous heraldric trial in English history) was entirely traditionary, and while true in part, cannot be accepted in all particulars.

IX. Sir Thomas Grosvenor, son and heir by the second wife, b. in 1377, d. in 1429; m. Joan Venables of Kinderton, Cheshire. They had four sons:

i. Robert, b. abt. 1405; of Hulme, whose large properties were divided among his six daughters and coheirs.
ii. Ralph, ancestor of the Grosvenors of Eaton; this branch received a baronetcy in 1622, a barony in 1761, an earldom in 1784, and is represented by the Duke of Westminster to-day.
+iii. Thomas, see below.
iv. Randall, ancestor of the Grosvenors of co. Warwick.

X. Thomas Grosvenor, of Drayton, third son, b. [say 1415]; m. Isabella, dau. and coheir of Richard Peshall of Chetwynd and Bellaport, Shropshire.

XI. Randall Grosvenor, of Bellaport, b. [say 1450], d. 1 Mar. 1521/2; m. Margaret, dau. of Randall Mainwaring, of Carincham, Cheshire.* See the Documentary Evidence below.

* The first Randall Mainwaring of Carincham or Kermincham, Cheshire, died 1487/8, and his son, the second Randall, was born 1469 and died 1547. We cannot suppose that our Margaret was much younger than her husband; and her son was old enough to marry in 1500. Hence, she was probably born as early as 1455. The first Randall Mainwaring, by wife Margaret Davenport, is said to have had a dau. Margaret who m. John Wynnington of Hermitage. Our Margaret may have been sister of the first Randall, and dau. of Ralph le Mainwaring by his wife Margaret Savage, but we have not seen a pedigree which credits Ralph with such a daughter. See Ormerod's History of Cheshire, vol. 3, p. 80.

XII. Randall Grosvenor, of Bellaport, b. [say 1480], d. in 1559/60; m. in 1500, Anne, dau. of Richard Charlton, of Apley, Shropshire. See the Documentary Evidence below. Children:

i. THOMAS, eldest son and heir; had a dau. Elizabeth in 1558.
ii. GEOFFREY.
iii. KATHERINE, m. ——— Nash.
+iv. ELIZABETH, b. [say 1515]; m. Thomas Bulkeley, of Woore, b. [say 1510-15], d. in 1591; parents of Rev. Edward and grandparents of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.
v. ROBERT, had a son Thomas in 1558.
vi. MARGERY.
vii. RANDALL.
viii. HENRY.

Documentary Evidence

I. Inquisitions on estate of Randall Grosvenor [Generation XI above].

[1] Inquisition upon Ranulph Gravenor esq. Writ of diem clausit extremum directed to Sheriff of Staffordshire to inquire as to lands of Roulandus Gravener esq. 8 July 14 Hen. VIII [1522].

Inquisition at Lichfield 13 Oct. 14 Hen. VIII [1522]. The jurors say that long before the death of the said Ranulph Gravener esq. he was seised of six messuages, 100 ac. meadow, 60 ac. pasture, 40 ac. wood, and 40s. yearly rent in Meyre Weston by Staundon and Hyll near Adbaston, co. Staff., and enfeoffed Thomas Adams, rector of the church of Mukleston, Richard Johnson, rector of Norton, John Tytley of Tytley, gent., and Roger Manwaring of Wick Malban [de Wico Malbano]* esq., of all his lands and tenements in Staffordshire and Shropshire to the use of an indenture between (1) Richard Chorlton of Apley esq., and (2) Ranulph Gravenor esq., dated 26 Oct. 16 Hen. VII [1500], namely, (A) to the use of the said† Ranulph Gravenor, then son and heir apparent of Ranulph Gravenor the father, and [to the use of] Anne wife of the said Ranulph, the son, and the heirs of their bodies, (so far as concerned 10 marks yearly of the premises), and

* Wich Malbank, in Nantwich, Cheshire.
† The term, "the said," is obviously in error here.

(B) (so far as concerned the remaining lands), (1) to the use of Ranulph Gravenor the father for life, (2) the said Ranulph Gravenor the son, and the heirs of his body. The feoffees being so seised granted to Ranulph Gravenor the son and his wife Anne and to the heirs of their bodies, all the messuages and lands in Hyll, co. Staff., to the yearly value of five marks, and all the lands in North Clebory, co. Salop, to the value of five marks, with the advowson of the church of the same.

Ranulph the son and Anne his wife are seised thereof and survive.

Ranulph the father died 1 March last [1521/2].

Ranulph the son is heir to his father and was aged at his father's death 40 years and more.

[Chan. Inquisition p. m. (Series 2) (C 142) 39/63]

[2] Inquisition taken at Sheffenhall, co. Salop, Monday before the Nativity of St. John Baptist 13 Hen. VIII [Aug. 1521], after the death of Rondolphus Gravenor late of Beulaport esq.

The jurors say that the said Ranulph before his death enfeoffed Thomas Adamce [and the other three, as named in the foregoing inquisition] of his manor of Northclebury with the advowson to the use of Ranulph Grosvenor the son and heir of the said Rondulph Grosvenor the elder, and [to the use of] Anne his wife daughter of Richard Chorleton esq. and the heirs of their bodies, with remainder to the right heirs of the said Rondulph the elder.

By charter, the said Rondulph the elder enfeoffed the same feoffees of his manor of Beulaport with the township of Beerston belonging thereto, to hold to the use of the said Rondulph the elder for his life, with remainder to the use of Rondulph his son and the heirs of his body, certain lands and tenements, parcel of Beulaport manor, having been assigned by the said Rondulph the father for two life-annuities, (A) 40s. yearly to John Grosvenor his younger son [filio juñ], (B) 40s. yearly to whomsoever it should please him to nominate, with remainder to (1) the said Rondulph the elder for life, and (2) to Rondulph the younger and the heirs of his body.

Rondulph the elder died 1 March last past [1520/1].

Ranulph Gravenor the younger, his son and heir, is of full age.

[Escheators' Inquisition, (E 150), 842/1, Salop]

It will be noted that there is an error in date in one inquisition or in the other. The Staffordshire inquisition has the writ, 8 July 14 Hen. VIII, attached, and is not in the form usual after a delay; we can only conclude that there was a mistake in dating the Salop record, and that it should have been 14, not 13, Hen. VIII.

DESCENT OF REV. PETER BULKELEY

From a Magna Charta Baron

1. Saher de Quincy (c. 1155-1219), first Earl of Winchester, and a surety of Magna Charta; m. between 1168 and 1173 Margaret de Beaumont (d. 1236), daughter of the third Earl of Leicester, and descended from the Capetian kings of France.

---

* The will is now at Birmingham, with other Lichfield wills.

2. Roger de Quincy (d. 1264), Earl of Winchester; m. Helen, daughter of Alan, Lord of Galloway, by his first wife, a daughter of Reginald, Lord of the Isles.*
3. Elena de Quincy (d. 1296); m. Alan la Zouche (d. 1269), first Baron Zouche, a descendant in the male line of the Vicomtes de Porhoet in Brittany.
4. Sir Roger la Zouche (d. 1285), Baron Zouche; m. Ela Longespée, a granddaughter of William de Longespée (1176-1226), Earl of Salisbury (a natural son of King Henry II of England), by his wife Ela Devereux (1188-1261), a descendant of the Capetian kings of France, Dukes of Burgundy, and Dukes of Brittany.
5. Alan la Zouche (1267-1314), Baron Zouche of Ash, co. Leicester; m. Eleanor de Segrave.
6. Elena la Zouche (1288-); m. (1) Nicholas St. Maur; m. (2) abt. 1317 Alan de Charlton, of Apley, Shropshire, who d. 3 Dec. 1360, probably brother of John, first Baron Charlton of Powys.
7. Alan de Charlton (b. abt. 1318/9, d. 3 May 1349); m. Margery fitzAer (b. 4 Apr. 1314, dead by 1349). She was descended in the male line and in the eighth generation from Alcher, Domesday Lord of Aston Aer, Harcott, Middleton, Great Withyford, and Albrighton, in Shropshire.† Children:

   i. John, b. 2 Feb. 1340; d. s. p. 25 Dec. 1380; m. Joan de Langley.
   +ii. Thomas, b. [say 1345].

15. Rev. Edward Bulkeley, D.D. (b. abt. 1540, bur. 5 Jan. 1620/1); m. Olive Irby (b. say 1547, bur. 10 Mar. 1614/5).
16. Rev. Peter Bulkeley, M.A., b. 31 Jan. 1582/3.

NOTES

An utterly preposterous pedigree, Harleian 1241, is printed in Publications of the Harleian Society, vol. 28 (Shropshire), p. 107, which makes the first Alan de Charlton (generation 6 above) a younger brother of the last Baron Charlton of Powys. But Edward, the last Baron of Charlton blood, was born in 1371, and his father was born in 1334; whereas our Alan de Charlton married about 1317 a widow who was born in 1288. Alan's birth may therefore be placed as around 1290, hence it is ridiculous to suppose that he could be younger brother of a man born about eighty years after himself. We find R. W. Eyton's account in Antiquities of Shropshire, vol. 9, pp. 309-320, much more trustworthy. There are other serious errors in the Harleian pedigree above mentioned.

In Publications of the Harleian Society, the same vol. 28, at pp. 100-101, appears a much more reliable pedigree of the Charltons of Apley, based on Harleian 1396, fo. 65, and 1241, fo. 5.

The only difficult point in the above descent of Rev. Peter Bulkeley from Saher de Quincy is at generation 13. In the preceding account of the Grosvenor family we have presented the evidence which proves that Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Bulkeley, was daughter of Randall Grosvenor by his wife Anne Charlton. The Grosvenor pedigree in The Herald and Genealogist called Anne the daughter of William Charlton of Apley. The Grosvenor inquisition hereinbefore printed in full proves that she was daughter of Richard Charlton of Apley. That agrees better with all the known dates, and it makes her sister of William Charlton instead of his daughter. This William (d. 1532) was born presumably about 1480-85, for he served in 1513 in the French wars, where his courage won him the appellation of "Stout William." The children of William were named in the 1623 Visitation, viz.: Richard, William (d. s. p. 1567), John, Robert, Alice (wife of Robert Cresset), Cecilia (wife of Richard Morton), and Elizabeth (wife of Thomas Eyton). While such lists of children in Visitation pedigrees are not always complete, it will be noted that William was not credited with a daughter Anne; the pedigree does not state the names of his brothers and sisters, the children of Richard.

We have tried in vain to locate a will of Richard Charlton (d. 1522). In the absence of that evidence, and with the proof that Anne was daughter of a Richard of Apley, fortified by the harmony of dates and lack of mention of any other Richard of Apley at that period, we submit that our identification is more than probable and short only of absolute proof.

The fact that the Grosvenor pedigree erroneously calls Anne a daughter of William Charlton is really a point in favor of our conclusion. The contemporary inquisition refers to the marriage settlement of 1500, then doubtless in existence, which called her daughter of Richard, and that evidence is conclusive. The only Richard of Apley, so far as we have been able to find, of proper age to be father of Anne, was certainly the father of William. Now the Grosvenor pedigree, which called Anne daughter of William, was likely based in part on tradition; and what is more probable than that Anne's brother William, a noted soldier, and nearer in age to the following generations, was more prominently mentioned in the Grosvenor tradition than was her father Richard? It was doubtless reported that Anne was of the family of "Stout" William Charlton, and it is easy to understand how the name William replaced that of her actual father, Richard.

It is proper to call attention to Publications of the Harleian Society, vol. 29 (Shropshire), p. 519, where it is stated that Francis Yonge of Kenton, Shropshire, married Anne daughter of Richard Charlton of Apley and had an incredible number of children. Since their eldest grandson was Sheriff in 1548, this Anne may have been born as early as 1460, which would indicate that she may have been sister instead of daughter of Richard. Or it is possible, as often happened, that her Christian name was erroneously stated in the pedigree.

REV. EDWARD BULKELEY

(Rev.) Edward Bulkeley, D.D., second son of Thomas Bulkeley of Woore, Shropshire, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Randall Grosvenor, was born not far from 1540. He matriculated pensioner from St. John's College, Cambridge, Michaelmas, 1555; Scholar, 1555; B.A., 1559/60; M.A., 1563; B.D., 1569; D.D., 1578; Fellow, 1560. He obtained the rectorship of Odell in Bedfordshire, probably in 1571. He "compounded" for the living at Odell, 6 Mar. 1571/2, as is shown by the Bishops' Certificates of the Diocese of Canterbury.* This means that he then paid to his superior his first year's salary, as was then the established practice in the English Church.

He married, probably about 1566, OLIVE IRBY, born say 1547, buried at Odell, 10 Mar. 1614/5, daughter of John and Rose (Overton) Irby, by whom he had three sons and twelve daughters. Her family will be found in The Irby Line, below.

It is very difficult to learn much of the personal history of a minister who lived in the sixteenth century and who, by the very nature of his calling, did not figure in the political annals of his generation. He was Prebend of Chester, 1574; of Westminster, 1583; of Lichfield, 1594; and was Vicar of St. Mary, Shrewsbury, 1578-82. We know that he was one of the commissioners appointed by the Bishop of Lincoln in 1608 for the "Levye of Armour" in Bedfordshire among the clergy.*

We owe to the late Col. C. E. Banks the following interesting item, from Shrewsbury Corporation Record, Burgess Roll, 1580: Edward Bulkeley of Shrewsbury, professor of theology, son of Thomas, admitted burges and has issue: Nathaniel, aged 6; Mary, aged 13; Frances, aged 12; Judith, aged 10; Martha, aged 8; Deborah, aged 5; Dorcas, aged 3; Elizabeth, aged 1.

Rev. Richard Madockes of Woodhall [Odell], co. Bedford, in his will dated 15 Aug. 1606, proved 27 Nov. 1606, after providing for his relatives in Shrewsbury, gave legacies to Mr. Doctor Bulkley, Mistress Olive Bulkley, and their daughter Mistress Elizabeth Bulkley, and appointed Edward Bulkley, D.D., and pastor, sole executor.†

Dr. Bulkeley's daughter, the "Mistress Elizabeth" referred to above, married Richard Whittingham, of Sutterton, co. Lincoln. He in his will, dated 6 Mar. 1615, proved 18 Apr. 1618, made provision for his wife Elizabeth, by whom he then had no children, and his own heirs, and then gave legacies to his "brother" Mellowes' children, to William Ingoldsbie, a son of brother Ingoldsbie, clerk, and the rest of sister Ingoldsbie's children, and to Olive Welbie and all the rest of her brothers and sisters; also to his father-in-law, Mr. Doctor Buckley, his brother-in-law Mr. Peter Buckley, and the latter's son Edward; and made Mr.

† Waters' Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 2, p. 1061.

Dr. Bulkeley was a moderate Puritan; he resigned his pastorate in 1609, probably because of increasing age, and died at Odell early in Jan. 1620/1. His burial on 5 Jan. 1620/1 was entered in the Odell registers by his son Peter, who had succeeded him as Rector.†

The will of Edward Bulkley late of "Woodhall," co. Bedford, doctor of theology, deceased, was proved Jan. 1620/1, and a commission to administer was granted to Peter Bulkley, son of the said deceased, and executor named in the will [Westminster Act Book, No. 3, fo. 59]. The will does not exist, either filed or in the register.

‡ There were also four more daughters, whose history has not been ascertained. A guess made years ago, and still repeated by the ignorant, to the effect that Mrs. Dorothy Lord, who with her family came to America in the same ship with the Bulkeleys, was a sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, has been positively disproved; she was Dorothy Bird, proved by the marriage license and her father's will.

THE IRBY LINE

Irby of Gosberton, co. Lincoln. Arms: Argent, fretty sable.

The family of Irby, from which the mother of Rev. Peter Bulkeley descended, was of great antiquity in Lincolnshire, and probably derived its name from Irby-on-Humber. As early as 1412, the will of John Irby of Cleve, co. Lincoln, was probated. The name appears under many spellings, as for instance Erby, Earby, and even Harby.

In 1517 one Ambrose Irby, Gent., purchased from the churchwardens of the Church of Moulton, co. Lincoln, certain lands which he proved at a court held by Sir Robert Ratcliffe, Lord Fitzwalter, for the manor of Moulton Fitzwalter, where the lands were located. They passed from Ambrose Irby at his death in 1531 to his daughter Beatrice. The widow of Ambrose, Maud, married second, John Shepard. Beatrice Irby married ——— Durbage, and had daughters Joan, who married John Newton, and Alice, who married John Mylyton. Joan left a son John, and a daughter and eventual heiress, Beatrice Newton, who married Robert Frauncys. Mr. Frauncys and his wife sold their interest to Downhall Burgess, Gent., who proved his right in 1607 at a court held for the manor of Moulton Fitzwalter by Anthony Irby, Esq.

The last-named Anthony Irby was first cousin of Olive Irby, wife of Rev. Edward Bulkeley and mother of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. Mr. Irby had probably become lord of the manor of Moulton Fitzwalter by inheritance from his mother, and the documents concerning the descent of certain lands from Ambrose Irby in 1517 to Downhall Burgess in 1607 came into his possession as lord of the manor when Mr. Burgess proved his claim. It was perhaps only coincidence that an Irby was the original owner of these lands, though Ambrose may have been distantly connected with Anthony's family. This matter has been misunderstood by some of the peerage writers, who supposed that these documents pertained to the purchase of the manor by Anthony Irby.

The earlier ancestry of this Irby family is not clearly established, and the pedigree found in the Visitation of Lincoln is unsatisfactory. We therefore begin our account with the grandfather of Olive (Irby) Bulkeley and of the above-mentioned Anthony Irby, whose name was also Anthony.

Anthony Irby, of Gosberton, co. Lincoln, born presumably by 1490, died 21 June 1552; married Alice Bountayne, daughter of John Bountayne [or Bunting], Esq., who died in 1557. His will was dated 20 Apr. 1548.

In 1522 he witnessed the will of John Tempest of Gosberton, Gent.; was supervisor of the will of John Chilton of Gedney, 1523; supervisor of the will of Thomas Bronde of Frampton, 1529; and supervisor of the will of Sare Edmund of Sutton, husbandman, 1530.

xii. DOROTHY, m. JOHN DOMESDAY.

JOHN IRBY, son of Anthony and Alice (Bountaine) Irby, born presumably before 1520, died 10 Apr. 1553; married ROSE OVERTON, daughter of Cutler Overton. She married second, Richard Buckland, Esq., of Clerkenwell, co. Middlesex, who died in 1558; and third, Richard Beawe, Gent., of London, whom she survived; and she died in 1579.

In 1544 John Irby, Gent., witnessed the will of Humphrey Purey of Kirton, co. Lincoln. According to the Visitation pedigree, he was lord of the manor of Leighthorpe in Cawthorpe and of lands in Beston, Sutterton and Bicker.

The will of Richard Buckland, made 24 Aug. 1558, proved 12 Oct. 1558, named his [first] wife Mary deceased; my wife Rose; gave to the poor of Shepton Mallett, co. Somerset, "where I was born"; mentioned my mansion house at Clerkenwell, my manor of Shipton Mallett, my manor of Melston, co. iii. Kellam.
iv. Edward.†

Thomas Irby, of Whaplode, co. Lincoln, born presumably by 1515, was buried there, 30 Apr. 1561, though administration on his estate was not taken out until May 1573; married Elizabeth Serjeant, daughter and coheiress of Thomas Serjeant, Esq., of Moulton, co. Lincoln. Mr. Irby was uncle of Olive (Irby) Bulkeley.

Children:

i. Audrey, m. at Whaplode, 22 Apr. 1560, Thomas Terril, and had issue.
ii. Dorothy, m. at Whaplode, 25 June 1565, John Brison, and had issue.

v. Beatrice, bur. at Moulton, 30 Dec. 1598; m. at Whaplode, 3 Aug. 1586, George Walcot.

Anthony Irby, of Whaplode and Moulton, born about 1550, buried at Whaplode, 6 Oct. 1625; married at Whaplode, 22 Dec. 1575, Alice (Welby) Tash, daughter of Thomas Welby, Esq., of Moulton; she was buried at Whaplode, 21 Apr. 1602.

* Waters' Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 2, p. 1048.

† An Edward Earebie, householder and free of the Grocers, bur. at St. Michael, Cornhill, London, 22 Mar. 1616. Perhaps he was father of Edward Irby of the parish of All Hallows, grocer, who was a witness in a law case, 1624 (Middlesex County Records, vol. 2, p. 184).

Mr. Anthony Irby was first cousin of Olive Irby, the wife of Rev. Edward Bulkeley, and mother of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. Mr. Irby's wife, Alice Welby, was sister of Richard Welby who was married at Whaplode in 1595 to Frances Bulkeley, daughter of Edward and Olive and sister of Peter. Hence, Peter Bulkeley not only was cousin of the Irbys of Whaplode, but his brother-in-law (Richard Welby) was brother of Mrs. Anthony Irby, the wife of the head of that house.

Mr. Irby studied law, was a member of Lincoln's Inn, and was admitted to the bar, 10 Feb. 1577/8. He represented Boston, co. Lincoln, in Parliament three times during Elizabeth's reign, and in 1603 (1 James I), and was one of the Masters in Chancery in the reign of King James I.

It has been foolishly asserted in Thompson's History of Boston, in Collins' Peerage, and other works, that he purchased the manors of Moulton, Fitzwalter and Medietas Dominorum from Robert Radcliffe (Lord Fitzwalter and Earl of Sussex) on 13 Oct. 1538. This date was at least several years before he was born. The purchase could apply to his grandfather Anthony Irby (died 1552), but it seems quite evident that the Moulton lordship came by inheritance through the later Anthony's mother from the Serjeant family.*

Children, born at Whaplode:

i. Anthony, bapt. 9 Jan. 1577/8; d. in 1632; m. Feb. 1603/4, Elizabeth Peyton, daughter of Sir John Peyton, Bart., of Iselham, co. Cambridge. He was knighted at Whitehall, 23 July 1603, and was member of Parliament in 1628. His son, Sir Anthony, was father of Anthony, who was father of Edward, created a Baronet, 13 Apr. 1704; and Edward's son, Sir William, was created, 10 Apr. 1761, Lord Boston, Baron of Boston, co. Lincoln.

ii. Thomas, bapt. 5 Mar. 1579/80; m. (license 30 May 1609), Anne Dunn.

iii. Leonard, bapt. 27 June 1582.

Note on the Overton Family

The maternal grandmother of Rev. Peter Bulkeley was Rose Overton, wife of Mr. John Irby. The authorities quoted above call her daughter of Cutler Overton, but the editor of the Visitation of Lincolnshire suggests that the name may have been intended for Cuthbert. Her own will and that of her second husband prove that she had a brother, Dr. John Overton. The Goodlake Overton, of London, Gent., mentioned in her second husband's will, was probably a relative; not a brother, but perhaps an uncle.

There were families named Overton in several of the English counties. The family to which Rose belonged appears to have resided in Clerkenwell, co. Middlesex, near London. Her parents were Cutler [or Cuthbert] and Olive, and her mother's will gives us the names of her brothers and sisters. The will* of "Olyve Overton," widow, made 19 Dec. 1545, proved 7 June 1546, directed that she be buried in the parish church of Clerkenwell, and named her daughters Katherine, Rose, Mary Martha, and Isabel wife of John Cordall, her son John Overton, and "my three children at school," William, Clement, and Harry. She appointed her son Edward [Overton], daughter Isabel Cordall, and daughter Katherine [Overton], Executors.

THE WELBY-FARWELL CONNECTION

Richard Welby, second son of Thomas Welby by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Richard Thimbleby, Knt., baptized at Moulton, co. Lincoln, Eng., in 1564, married at Whaplode, co.

* Waters' Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 2, p. 1050.

Lincoln, in 1595, FRANCES[1] BULKELEY, born about 1568, buried at Moulton, co. Lincoln, in 1610, daughter of Rev. Edward and Olive (Irby) Bulkeley, and sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

Children:

i. THOMAS, bapt. at Whaplode, 1597; m. (license 15 Feb. 1619/20), ELIZABETH PARKE. Probably he was the Thomas Welby who was Mayor of Boston, co. Lincoln, in 1643.
ii. ANN, bapt. at Moulton, 1600.
iii. ANTHONY, bapt. at Whaplode, 1602; bur. in 1603.
+iv. OLIVE, bapt. at Moulton, 1604.
v. EDWARD, bapt. at Moulton, 1609.

OLIVE[2] WELBY (Frances[1]), baptized at Moulton, co. Lincoln, Eng., in 1604, died at Chelmsford, Mass., 1 Mar. 1691/2; married at Boston, co. Lincoln, Eng., 16 Apr. 1629, HENRY FARWELL, a tailor, born about 1605, died at Chelmsford, 1 Aug. 1670. They settled in Concord, Mass., and removed about 1655 to Chelmsford, where Mr. Farwell was made deacon of the church in 1660.

Children, first three born at Boston, co. Lincoln, last three at Concord, Mass.:

i. ELIZABETH[3], bapt. 27 May 1630; d. at Taunton, Mass., 9 Nov. 1670; m. abt. 1651, JOSEPH WILDBORE,* who d. at Taunton, 27 Aug. 1691.

THE MELLOWES CONNECTION

Mr. Abraham[1] Mellowes, born [say 1570], died in 1639, before coming to New England invested £50 in the stock of the Massachusetts Bay Company. He owned an interest in property in Cambridge, Eng., which he sold shortly before 1607.* He was admitted to the church at Charlestown, with his wife Martha and son Edward, 19 Aug. 1633. He received a grant of 200 acres, Sept. 1638. He died before 4 June 1639, when his will was mentioned in the General Court.†

His wife was Martha[1] Bulkeley, born about 1572, daughter of Rev. Edward and Olive (Irby), and sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. This is proved by the cumulative force of several pieces of evidence. The will of Richard Whittingham of Sutterton, co. Lincoln, the husband of Elizabeth Bulkeley, in 1615, named his father-in-law Mr. Doctor "Buckley," brother-in-law Mr. Peter "Buckley" and Edward his son, and gave ten shillings apiece to "brother Mellowes' children."‡ There was no Mellowes relationship on the Whittingham side, so it must have come through his Bulkeley wife. The widow of Edward[2] Mellowes, son of Abraham, with her second husband, and with the consent of "Mr. Petter Buckley their unkell," sold in 1652 certain real estate for the benefit of her children by Edward Mellowes. One of Edward Mellowes' children, Hannah, married John Bunker, who by his will in 1672 left their son Edward Bunker to the care of "cousin Mr. Edward Bulkeley" [the son of Rev. Peter].§ Of the children, Edward[2] Mellowes was obviously named after his grandfather, Rev. Edward Bulkeley, and Oliver[2] was probably named after his aunt Sarah Bulkeley's husband, Oliver St. John.

Children:

+i. Oliver[2], b. abt. 1598.

ii. Elizabeth, bur. at Boston, Eng., 8 Feb. 1618/19, described as "spinster."

MR. OLIVER[2] MELLOWES (Martha[1]), born about 1598, died at Braintree, Mass., in 1638; married first, at Boston, co. Lincoln, 3 Aug. 1620, MARY JAMES, baptized 13 Oct. 1597, daughter of John James;† married second, at Boston, 1 Jan. 1633/4, ELIZABETH (HAWKREDD) CONEY, who married third, before 25 July 1641, Thomas Makepeace. She was baptized at Boston, 8 Dec. 1605, died after 1670; married first, 16 Dec. 1624, John Coney.‡

Mr. Mellowes and his wife were admitted to the church in Boston, 20 July 1634; he was made freeman, 3 Sept. 1634. He was one of the followers of Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, and, with others, was disarmed by the General Court in 1637. Administration on his estate was granted to his widow, 5 Dec. 1638. Mr. Atherton Haugh, Mr. Thomas Leverett, and Mr. Thomas Colebron, were appointed overseers.§

The will of Thomas Makepeace of Dorchester, dated 30 June 1666, proved 1 Aug. 1667, gave legacies to his wife's three daughters, Mary wife of James Dennis of Boston, Martha wife of Joseph Walters of Milford, and Mary wife of Emanuel Springfield in old England.

† The first wife of Mr. Mellowes belonged to a ministerial family, with American connections. Rev. John James, graduated from Cambridge, preached in Lincolnshire, Eng., lived in Boston some years, and was rector of Skirbeck, co. Lincoln, from 1607 until his death in 1612. The following children were recorded in Boston, co. Lincoln: Thomas, bapt. 5 Oct. 1595; Mary, bapt. 13 Oct. 1597; Daniel, bapt. 1 Feb. 1598/9; Samuel, bapt. 21 Feb. 1600/1; and Jeremy, bapt. 15 Aug. 1605 (one Jeremy was bur. 22 Apr. 1611). There were probably older children. The daughter Mary m. at Boston, 3 Aug. 1620, Oliver Mellowes, nephew of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, and has many descendants in the United States. Mary's brother Thomas James, bapt. 5 Oct. 1595, was educated at Emmanuel College, Cambridge (B.A. 1615, M.A. 1618), came to New England 1632, returned to England about 1648 and became minister at Needham, co. Suffolk, where he d. Feb. 1682/3. His son, Thomas James, Jr., was minister at Easthampton, L. I., and m. about 1647 Ruth Jones, daughter of Rev. John Jones of Fairfield, Conn., and sister of Sarah Jones who m. Thomas Bulkeley, son of Rev. Peter. The children of Thomas James, Jr., married into prominent Long Island families; see Families of Old Fairfield, vol. 1, pp. 327-329.

vii. MARY, bapt. at Boston, 26 Aug. 1638; m. at Boston, 13 Sept. 1655, EMANUEL SPRINGFIELD; they were living in England in 1666.

(SERGT.) EDWARD[2] MELLOWES (MARTHA[1]), baptized at Odell, 10 Sept. 1610, died at Charlestown, Mass., 5 May 1650; married HANNAH SMITH. She married second, 24 June 1651, Joseph Hills, Sr., of Malden, Mass., and died before Jan. 1655/6.

He was a student at Cambridge University in 1627.

Mr. Mellowes was freeman, 4 Mar. 1633/4, Constable in 1637, and in May 1646 was chosen Clerk of the Writs for Charlestown. His will, made 4 May 1650, devised one-half of his estate to his wife, the other half to his daughters Hannah and Elizabeth.

Children, born at Charlestown:

+i. HANNAH[3], bapt. 22 Nov. 1636.
ii. MARY, bapt. 21 July 1638; d. young.

ELIZABETH[3] MELLOWES (Oliver[2], Martha[1]), baptized at Sutterton, co. Lincoln, 10 Dec. 1625, died at Concord, Mass., 15 Feb. 1690/1; married first, [say 1647], THOMAS BARRETT, who was drowned at Concord in 1652; married second, about 1653, EDWARD WRIGHT, born at Castle Bromwich, co. Warwick, Eng., about 1626, died at Concord, 28 Aug. 1691. He was son of Francis and Mary (Wiggins) Wright, and grandson of Edward Wright of Castle Bromwich.‡

At a court case in connection with Thomas Barrett's estate, Joseph Hills (husband of the widow of Edward[2] Mellowes) appeared, and a letter from Rev. Peter[1] Bulkeley was presented, addressed "Loving Cosens," in which he refers to "my Cosen Barrett here" [Elizabeth[3] (Mellowes) Barrett].§

* We are indebted to Mr. Clarence A. Torrey, of Dorchester, Mass., for information on the family of John[3] Mellowes which corrects several conclusions hitherto accepted. Elizabeth married Thomas Messinger [Suffolk Deeds and Messinger Genealogy]. John Chantrell's wife was named Mary; in a court case she was referred to as "Mr. Messengers wifes sister." Martha, Elizabeth, Oliver, Sara, and Mercy, children of Jno. and Martha Mellows, were bapt. at Boston, 8 May 1670. See also Collections of the Mass. Hist. Society, 5th Series, vol. 6, p. 210.

† Their son, Thomas, was founder of the noted Lee family of Boston, to which Alice-Hathaway Lee, first wife of (Pres.) Theodore Roosevelt, belonged; a detailed account of this family was published in the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 76, pp. 197-218.

‡ For much of the account of this family, we are indebted to the researches of Mr. Clarence A. Torrey, of Dorchester, Mass.

§ This letter, quoted in the Boston Evening Transcript, 25 June 1917, was dated 6 June 1653, reads in part as follows: "Loving Cosens . . . . . it is to desire you to consider together . . . . . a case concerning my Cosen Barrett here in this town whoe hath a bill of a debt of 16 pounds left by her husband, the bill being from one Nicholas Wood of Dorchester to her husband . . . . . my design is that you will consider together of it, and one of you undertake the pleading of her cause in case it doe come to a suit . . . . . Loving remembrance of myself to yow both & to both my loving cosens. [Signed] Pet. Bulkeley." The letter was probably addressed to Joseph Hills, Sr., and his wife Hannah ("yow both"), said Hannah being widow of Bulkeley's own nephew, Edward Mellowes, and "both my loving cosens" refers to Hannah's two surviving Mellowes children, Hannah and Elizabeth.

Children by first husband:

THE ST. JOHN CONNECTION

The St. Johns were a family of long lineage, and the elder line was seated at Bletsoe, co. Bedford, from the time of the marriage of Sir Oliver St. John (d. 1437) to Margaret Beauchamp (d. 1482), daughter and heiress of Sir John Beauchamp of Bletsoe. This Margaret Beauchamp married, for her second husband, John Beaufort, Duke of Somerset, by whom she had an only daughter, Margaret, who became the wife of Edmund Tudor, Earl of Richmond, and the mother of King Henry VII. This close relationship to the Tudor monarchs was propitious to the advancement of the St. John family, and the representative of the eldest line was raised to the peerage in 1624 with the title of Earl of Bolingbroke.

The descent of the Keysoe branch, which was so closely connected with Rev. Peter Bulkeley, from the main stem of the family, has often been misstated, and it will therefore be of value to state it here correctly. Sir Oliver St. John and Margaret Beauchamp were parents of Sir John St. John* of Bletsoe, who married Alice Bradshaw; and they became the parents of another Sir John of Bletsoe (d. 1525), who married Sybil, daughter or granddaughter of Morgan ap Jenkyn ap Philip.

The third son of the last-named was Alexander St. John, of Thurley, co. Bedford, who married Jane, daughter of George Dalyson of Cranesley, co. Northampton, and widow of Thomas Lenthroppe of Shinglehall, co. Herts. They had two sons, Oliver, who died in 1586, and Henry.

Henry St. John, of Keysoe, co. Bedford, died in 1598, and by his wife Jane (died 1618), sister of John Neale of Wollaston, had the following children:

+Oliver, see below.
Thomas.
Margaret, m. ——— Wakes.
Agnes, m. ——— Weles.
Frances, m. ——— Weles.
Judith, m. ——— Gray.

Oliver St. John, of Keysoe, co. Bedford, Gent., born presumably about 1575, buried at Keysoe, 23 Mar. 1625/6; married first, presumably by 1597, Sarah[1] Bulkeley, born presumably by 1580, died by 1611, daughter of Rev. Edward and Olive (Irby) Bulkeley, and sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley; married second, at Goldington, co. Bedford, 16 Aug. 1611, Alice Haselden, baptized at Goldington, 3 Aug. 1577, buried there 15 Mar. 1641, daughter of William and Mary (Fairclough) Haselden, stepdaughter of Mr. Thomas Allen, and half-sister of Jane Allen, first wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

This double connection with the Bulkeleys has not always been clearly understood and we therefore emphasize the facts. Peter Bulkeley was own uncle to the children of Oliver St. John by his first wife (Sarah Bulkeley), including Chief Justice Oliver St. John and Elizabeth St. John, wife of Rev. Samuel Whiting of Lynn, Mass. The first wife of Peter Bulkeley was aunt to the children of Oliver St. John by his second wife.

Oliver St. John in his will† made 13 Mar. 1625/6, proved

* Some authorities omit this John, and identify the next John with the son of Oliver and Margaret, but a close study of the chronology seems to necessitate the intermediate generation.

† Waters' Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 2, p. 1420.

1 May 1626, named my wife Alice, brother Mr. Robert Haselden, eldest son Oliver (sole Executor), daughter Dorothy Westland, daughter Judith (unmarried), daughter Elizabeth St. John (lease of a farm at Ripton, to be kept by my brother-in-law Mr. Peter Bulkley, her uncle), daughters Mary and Anne, my father-in-law Mr. Thomas Alleyne of Goldington, brother Mr. William Haselden, sons John and Edward, sister Frances Weales, my mother-in-law Mrs. Mary Alleyn; money for the poor of Heyshoe [Keysoe] and Blettsoe; and appointed for overseers Mr. Thomas Alleyn of Goldington (my wife's father-in-law), Mr. Peter Bulkley, Mr. William Haselden, and my loving nephew Mr. Samuel Browne.

Children by first wife, born probably at Keysoe:

i. Oliver, b. abt. 1598; d. 31 Dec. 1673; m. (1) Johanna Altham, whose grandmother Joan Cromwell (daughter of Sir Henry Cromwell of Hinchinbroke) was aunt both of Oliver Cromwell, the Protector, and of John Hampden; m. (2) 21 Jan. 1637/8, Elizabeth Cromwell, daughter of Henry Cromwell of Upwood, the Protector's uncle; m. (3) 1 Oct. 1645, Elizabeth, widow of Caleb Cockcroft, and sister of Rev. John Oxenbridge, the nonconformist divine. He was admitted pensioner of Queen's College, Cambridge, 1615; entered Lincoln's Inn, 1619, and was called to the bar, 1626. He was made Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, 12 Oct. 1648; for details of his career, see the Dictionary of National Biography.

Note on the Whiting Family

Cotton Mather, writing of Rev. Samuel Whiting, tells us that, after the death of his first wife, "he married the daughter of Mr. Oliver St. John, a Bedfordshire gentleman, of an honourable family, nearly related unto the Lord St. John of Bletso. This Mr. St. John was a person of incomparable breeding, vertue, and piety; such that Mr. Cotton, who was well acquainted with him, said of him, 'He was one of the compleatest gentlemen, without affectation, that ever he knew.' And this his daughter was a person of singular piety and gravity; one who by her discretion freed her husband from all secular avocations; one who upheld a daily and constant communion with God in the devotions of her closet; one who not only wrote the sermons that she heard on the Lord's days with much dexterity, but lived them, and lived on them all the week. The usual phrase for an excellent woman among the ancient Jews was, 'one who deserves to marry a priest': even such an excellent woman was now married unto Mr. Whiting. This gentlewoman having stayed with her worthy consort forty-seven years, went in the seventy-third year of her age unto Him to whom her soul had been some scores of years espoused. Mr. Whiting had by her four sons and two daughters. Three of the sons lived unto the estate and stature of men; and had a learned education. Samuel is at this day a reverend, holy, and faithful minister of the gospel in the New-English town of Billerica: John was intended for a physician, but became a preacher, first at Butterwick, then at Leverton in Lincolnshire, where he died a godly conformist: Joseph is at this day a worthy and painful minister of the gospel at Southampton upon Long-Island."

* See note on the Whiting family below. An Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Oliver Seint John, was baptized at Bletsoe, co. Bedford, 12 Jan. 1604/5.

The above description of Rev. Peter Bulkeley's brother-in-law, Mr. St. John, and of his niece, Mrs. Whiting, who was half a Bulkeley by blood, will be found of great interest by all Bulkeley descendants. Mrs. Whiting became the ancestress of a noted family of ministers. Not only were her three sons clergymen, but her daughter Elizabeth became the wife of Rev. Jeremiah Hobart of Hempstead, L. I., and Haddam, Conn.

THE WHITTINGHAM-HAUGH CONNECTION

Rev. Peter Bulkeley in his will called Rev. Samuel Haugh his cousin [i.e., nephew], and Samuel Haugh was called brother in the will of John Whittingham. These relationships came about in the following way.

Mr. Richard Whittingham, of "Sutterton in the parts of Holland, in the County of Lincoln," Gent., was a son of Mr. Baruch Whittingham, and grandson of William Whittingham, the distinguished reformer in the English church. Born about 1580, Richard Whittingham was married, after Aug. 1606 and probably about 1614 or 1615, to ELIZABETH[1] BULKELEY, born about 1579, daughter of Rev. Edward and Olive (Irby), and sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

Mr. Whittingham's will, made 6 Mar. 1615/6, proved 18 Apr. 1618, has already been quoted in the account of the Bulkeley family in the present volume. It will be noted that, in addition to mention of various relatives of his wife (which prove her identity as Elizabeth Bulkeley), he made provision for his heirs by his wife Elizabeth if he had any, in terms which imply that a child was expected ("if wife be with child"). That such a child was born, after the will was made, but before Mr. Whittingham's death, is proved by the parish registers of Boston, co. Lincoln.

On 9 Jan. 1617/8, ELIZABETH (BULKELEY) WHITTINGHAM was married at Boston, co. Lincoln, to MR. ATHERTON HAUGH, by whom also she had a single child, a son Samuel. It will thus be seen that John Whittingham and Samuel Haugh were half-brothers, and that both were nephews of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

MR. ATHERTON HAUGH was Mayor of Boston, co. Lincoln, in 1628, and an Alderman there in 1633. Resolving to come to New England with his minister, the noted John Cotton, he arrived 4 Sept. 1633 in the Griffin with his wife Elizabeth and presumably accompanied by his son and stepson. He was freeman of Mass. Bay Colony, 4 Mar. 1633/4, and was chosen an Assistant in 1635, but after 1637 was omitted from the higher legislative body, probably because of his sympathy with the Antinomian tendencies of Rev. John Wheelwright. He did, however, serve in 1637 and thereafter, as Deputy for Boston, Mass., to the General Court. In 1646 he married a second wife, Susanna, who survived him; and he died at Boston, 11 Sept. 1650.

Mrs. Elizabeth (Bulkeley) (Whittingham) Haugh was born about 1579, and died at Boston, Mass., 14 Oct. 1643.

The Allen family from which Jane Allen, first wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley descended, was long seated at Thaxted, co. Essex, and the name was spelled Aleyn in the earlier generations. From this family sprang two Lord Mayors of London, and a line of Baronets at Hatfield Peverell, Essex; the first Baronet was Jane's own cousin. These relationships will be shown in the following account of the family.

Richard Allen (or Aleyn), of Thaxted, co. Essex, appears to have died 23 June 1527;* and directed that his body should be buried "before Saint Kateryn's aulter." He married Agnes ———. She survived him and married second, Walter Pateshall, of Thaxted.†

Children:

Thomas Allen, Gent., second son of John and Elizabeth (Alabaster) Allen of Thaxted, co. Essex, settled in Goldington, co. Bedford, where he resided until after 1625, but not long before his death took up his residence at Little Waltham, co. Essex, where he died in 1635. He married at Goldington, 30 July 1582, Mary (Fairclough) Haselden, widow of Mr. William Haselden, and daughter of Thomas and Millicent (Barr) Fairclough. She was presumably the Mary Allen buried at Goldington, 30 Apr. 1631. Her five children by her first husband will be found below in the section called "The Haselden Connection."

The will* of Thomas Aleyn of Little Waltham, co. Essex, Gent., made 5 Jan. 1634/5, proved 14 Apr. 1635, gave property in Goldington, Bedford, to his youngest son Richard; to son William Aleyn of London, grocer, £100 "which he owes me," for William's sons Thomas and William; to daughter Ursula Mathew, widow, of Harlington, Bedford, £10; to daughter Joane Stable wife of John Stable of Hatfield, Essex, clerk, £50; to daughter-in-law† Mrs. Alice St. John, widow, of Goldington, Bedford, £10; to son-in-law Peter Buckley, clerk, £20; and to son-in-law‡ Robert Haseldine, Esq., £5.

Bulkeley; she died some years before her father, and Mr. Bulkeley was on the point of marrying again when Mr. Allen remembered him in his will. Cotton Mather in *Magnalia Christi Americana, published in 1702, stated that the first wife of Mr. Bulkeley was "the daughter of Mr. Thomas Allen, of Goldington: a most vertuous gentlewoman, whose nephew was the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Thomas Allen." Her identity is confirmed, and her ancestry consequently established, by her father's will above, by the record of her baptism and marriage at Goldington, and by the verification of the statement that Jane's nephew was Mayor of London.

THE FAIRCLOUGH LINE

Fairclough of Fairclough Hall and Weston, co. Herts. Arms: Or a lion sable between three fleurs de lis azure.

About a mile to the south-east of Weston village, in Hertfordshire, stands Fairclough Hall or Faircloth Hall, now known as Halls Green Farm, the present building being a seventeenth century tenement of timber and plaster with a tiled roof and a central chimney stack.

The Fairclough family was seated here at least as early as 1461, and probably much earlier. The first four generations, for which we have only the evidence of a county history, were Lawrence, Richard, Ralph, and a second Ralph. The last-named was succeeded by his son Lawrence, who follows.

LAWRENCE FAIRCLOUGH, with wife Elizabeth, was head of the family in 1461, and still living in 1469. They had sons John (who died without issue) and RALPH, living in 1497, who was father of LAWRENCE. The last-named married and had sons:

+i. THOMAS, b. probably in or before 1520.

THE HASELDEN CONNECTION

The first wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, Jane Allen, was born in the parish of Goldington, Bedfordshire, and through her mother's first marriage was half-sister of Robert Haselden, Gent., who owned a manor in that parish. It is, indeed, probable that she was born in the mansion of the Haseldens.

The manor of Goldington Bury was purchased in 1381 by Thomas Haselden. The line of descent is uncertain until the time of Hugh Haselden (will made 1517), father of Robert Haselden (died Feb. 1547/8), who by Alice his wife left a son and heir, William Haselden.

The manor was held by the Haseldens until 1712 and perhaps later, but we are concerned only with the immediate family of the last-named William Haselden, Gent. Born in 1547, he succeeded as lord of the manor at the age of nine months, and on 8 Dec. 1573 was married, at Goldington, to Mary Fairclough, daughter of Thomas and Millicent (Barr) Fairclough of Weston, co. Hertford. Mr. Haselden did not long survive, and was buried at Goldington 27 Aug. 1581, having had four children; and a fifth child was born posthumously. Mary (Fairclough) Haselden married second, at Goldington, 30 July 1582, Thomas Allen, Gent., and by him had ten children, one of whom, Jane Allen, was the first wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

The will* of William Haselden, made 25 Aug. 1581, proved 3 Oct. 1581, named his son Robert, wife Mary, sons William and Thomas, and daughter Alice; appointed for Executors, his wife Mary and brother-in-law John Fairclough; and for overseers, his father-in-law† Mr. Robert Hatley, and brother-in-law Thomas Fairclough.

The Haselden children, Mrs. Bulkeley's half-brothers and half-sister, were born at Goldington, and their record follows:

i. Robert, bapt. 1 Jan. 1574/5.
ii. William, bapt. 4 Mar. 1575/6.
iii. Alice, bapt. 3 Aug. 1577; buried at Goldington, 15 Mar. 1641; m. at Goldington, 16 Aug. 1611, Oliver St. John, Gent., of Keysoe, co. Bedford, who was buried at Keysoe, 23 Mar. 1625/6. She was his second wife, his first having been Sarah Bulkeley, sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. By Alice Haselden, he had three children, Mary, Anne, and John. See the section herein entitled "The St. John Connection."
iv. Thomas, bapt. 27 Dec. 1579; d. young.
v. Eustace, bapt. 1 Apr. 1582; buried 20 Oct. 1582.

Robert Haselden, Gent., half-brother of Mrs. Jane (Allen) Bulkeley, was baptized at Goldington, co. Bedford, 1 Jan. 1574/5, died there 29 May (and buried 1 June) 1640; married first, Mary Castell, eldest daughter of Robert Castell of East Hatley, co. Cambridge, who was buried at Goldington, 21 June 1623; married second, at Goldington, 3 Dec. 1628, Margaret Johnson, who was buried at Goldington, 19 Mar. 1640/1.

The will‡ of Robert Haselden, made 6 Apr. 1638, proved 10 June 1640, directed that he be buried at Goldington, and named

The will* of Margaret Haselden, made 20 Jan. 1640/1, proved 27 Apr. 1641, directed that she be buried at Goldington, and named her son-in-law John Haselden; god-daughter Margaret, daughter of Nicholas Mawe deceased, Robert son of said Nicholas Mawe, and Martha, mother of said children; husband Robert Haselden deceased; daughters-in-law, Elizabeth, Alice, and Mary Haselden; son-in-law William Haselden of Amsterdam; sister-in-law, Alice St. John; cousins John and Mary St. John; John Knapp, Vicar of Goldington, and my cousin Anne his wife.

Children by first wife, born at Goldington:

i. Robert, b. abt. 1602; bur. at Goldington, 21 Apr. 1632; m. Mary Wright, dau. of John Wright of Wrightsbridge, co. Essex. His nuncupative will,† made 9 Apr. 1632, proved 20 July 1632, named his wife Mary and children; father Robert, overseer. Children, born at Goldington: Mary, bapt. 20 Feb. 1624/5, d. young; Benjamin, bapt. 19 Dec. 1627; Mary [Margaret?], bapt. 24 Apr. 1630.

William Haselden, Gent., half-brother of Mrs. Jane (Allen) Bulkeley, was baptized at Goldington, co. Bedford, 4 Mar. 1575/6, died not long before 5 Jan. 1635/6, when his will was proved. He called himself in the will,† which was made 22 Mar. 1632/3, merchant, citizen and grocer of London; made provision, "if I should die in Holland or Amsterdam" for burial there, and stated "I am an Adventurer, trading to the East Indies." He gave to the poor of the English church of Amsterdam, and to the poor of Goldington, "where I was born." He gave legacies to his brother Robert Haselden of Goldington, and the latter's son John of London, grocer; niece Constance, eldest daughter of said Robert, and wife of Mr. John Knapp, minister of Goldington; god-daughter Mary Haselden, and Alice, Elizabeth, and Martha, other daughters of said Robert; sister Mrs. Alice St. John, widow of Mr. Oliver St. John; Mary, Anne, and John, minor children of sister Alice; sister Ursula wife of Lawrence Mathewe; brother Mr. William Alleyn, grocer, and Elizabeth his wife; sister Johan wife of Mr. Staple, minister of Hatfield Peverell, Essex; godson William Johnson at Amsterdam, and his mother Janikyn Danielles, and my son-in-law Anthony Johnson, husband of the said Janikyn; and to Anthony Johnson he gave "his mother's picture, now hanging in my house at Amsterdam."

It would appear from the terms of the will that, although he left no widow or children, he had been married to a widow Johnson, mother of his "son-in-law" [stepson] Anthony Johnson.

THE CHETWOOD LINE

Chetwode of Chetwode, co. Buckingham. Arms: Quarterly argent and gules, four crosses pattee countercharged.

Rev. Peter Bulkeley's second wife, Grace Chetwood, was descended from an ancient family of Buckinghamshire. It has not been feasible to undertake research in unpublished English sources, and we rely chiefly on the pedigree from the parchment roll which some years ago was in the possession of Sir George Chetwode, Bart.,* checking this pedigree wherever possible with Visitation pedigrees and other printed sources. The generations immediately preceding Grace are well established; the earlier generations should be accepted subject to possible correction as to details.

I. John de Chetwode, Knt., lord† of Chetwode in co. Buckingham, founder of the Priory of Chetwode.

II. Robert Chetwode, lord of Chetwode.

III. Raufe de Chetwode, Knt.

IV. Robert Chetwode, lord of Chetwode, flourished 1105;‡ m. Sibyl, dau. of Thomas Strange and Annabel his wife.

V. John de Chetwode, Knt.; m. Olive.

VI. Robert de Chetwood, lord of Chetwood, Knt., flourished 1282-1286; m. Lucy, lady of Hoclive.

VII. John Chetwoode, Knt., lord of Chetwoode and Hoclive, flourished 1282-1313; m. Johanna, first wife, living 1282-1286.

VIII. John Chetwode, younger son and heir, living 1299-1317; m. Lucy, living 1313-1322.

IX. John Chetwode, Knt., living 1332; m. Johane, living 1332. There are two lines of descent, from his sons (1) John and (2) Robert.

X. (1) John Chetwode, Knt., living 1346-1349; m. Lucy.

(2) Robert Chetwode, second son, received lands in Chetwode from his father, 1332.

XI. (1) Nicholas Chetwode, Knt., son of John, lord of Chetwood and Hoclive, living 1347-1357; m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of John de Lions, lord of Warkworth, co. Northampton, by his

(2) John Chetwode, son and heir of Robert, living 1363; m. Elizabeth, sister and heir to William de Okeley, and daughter of Stephen de Okeley, lord of Okeley, co. Stafford, by Maud his wife. Arms of Okeley: Sable, three leopards' heads jessant de lis argent.

XII. (1) John Chetwode, Knt., son and heir of Nicholas, lord of Warkworth, Chetwode, and Hoclive, died in 1412; m. for his second wife, in 1392/3, Amabel, daughter of Sir Thomas Greene (1344-1391/2), of Green's Norton, by his wife Margery Mablethorpe, and granddaughter of Sir Henry de Greene, Lord Chief Justice 1353, by his wife Catherine de Drayton. Amabel m. (2) Sir Thomas Strange, and died in 1430.

(2) John Chetwode, son of John, was of Okeley, co. Stafford, living 1396; m. Margery. Arms, Chetwode of Okeley: a crescent or for difference.

XIII. (1) Elizabeth Chetwode, daughter and eventual heiress of Sir John, b. [say 1391], d. at Warkworth, 24 Aug. 1475; m. before 1411, Thomas Wodhull, Knt., who d. Mar. 1421. She carried the estates of the elder Chetwode line into the Wodhull family, an account of which will be given in the next section. The direct Wodhull line from Elizabeth ran through Thomas, John, Fulk, Nicholas, and Anthony, to the daughter and heiress of the last, Agnes Wodhull, who married Richard Chetwood (see XVIII below), thus bringing ownership of Warkworth to the junior branch of the Chetwood family.

(2) Roger Chetwood, of Okeley, son and heir of John and Margery; m. Margery, dau. and one of the heirs of David Crew of Pulcroste.

XIV. Thomas Chetwood, of Okeley and Worleston, living 1455-1485, son of Roger, m. Margaret Sound, of Sound, co. Cheshire.

XVI. Thomas Chetwood, of Worleston, co. Cheshire, living 1526-1531, son and heir of Roger; m. (first wife) Ellen, dau. of Thomas Beresford, lord of Bently, co. Derby.

XVII. Roger Chetwood, of Worleston, co. Cheshire, m. in 1522, Ellen, dau. of Thomas Masterson of Nantwich, co. Cheshire.

XVIII. Richard Chetwood, third son of Roger, m. Agnes, dau. and heir to Anthony Wodhull of Warkworth, co. Northampton [see XIII (1) above]. She was born in 1542, died in 1575/6, and m. (2) Sir George Calveley.

XIX. Sir Richard Chetwood, born abt. 1560, died after 1631; married first, Jane, daughter and one of the heirs of Sir William Drewerie; married second, Dorothy, daughter of Sir Robert Needham of Shaventon, co. Shropshire. She was living in 1629.

Mr. Chetwood became a member of the Inner Temple, and was knighted in 1603. In 1613 he presented a petition to King James I, claiming the ancient barony in fee of Wahull [Wodhull], as being heir lineal and sole of his several ancestors who had been summoned to attend, and had attended, the king as barons. The claim was allowed to drag, and was put forward again by his fourth descendant, Knightley Chetwood, in 1739; by his sixth descendant, Jonathan Chetwood, in 1831; and by his eighth descendant, Constantia Elizabeth (Chetwood) Aiken (died 1892) in 1890. Decision was finally rendered against her son, John Chetwood Chetwood-Aiken, on technical grounds, the descent being recognized as valid.

In Sept. 1629, conjointly with his son Richard and grandson Knightley Chetwood, in consideration of £14,000, he sold the manor of Warkworth.

The marriage of Grace Chetwood to Rev. Peter Bulkeley was stated by Cotton Mather in 1702 in Magnalia Christi Americana,† who wrote that after his first wife's death "he lived eight years a widdower, and then married a vertuous daughter of Sir Richard Chitwood." The first wife was buried at Odell, 8 Dec. 1626,‡ which would place the date of the second marriage between Dec. 1634 and May 1635, when Peter and Grace sailed for New England. Recently, contemporary evidence has come to light in a letter from John Blackiston to William Morton, 22 May 1635. referring to departures for New England, in which the writer stated, "m^{r} Buckley is gone wth his wife m^{rs} Grace Cheetwood whom he married a month agoe."§ This quite definitely fixes the marriage in April 1635.

Not only did Mather call Mrs. Bulkeley the daughter of "Sir Richard Chitwood," but her name is found with those of her brothers and sisters in the Visitation of Bedford,‖ in the parchment pedigree of the Chetwood family from which much of the foregoing history of the family was drawn, and unquestionably she was the "sister Backley in New England" mentioned in the will of her sister Jane Chetwood, quoted above. Mr. Bulkeley was Rector, was the original home of the Wodhulls, the family to which the grandmother of Grace belonged; the Chetwoods had inherited the Wodhull estates in that parish; and one sister of Grace was baptized at Odell, while in 1619 Mr. Bulkeley himself had officiated there at the marriage of her sister Frances Chetwood. Mr. Bulkeley was doubtless well acquainted with the Chetwood family, and had known Grace since her girlhood.

THE WODHULL LINE

Wahull of Odell, co. Bedford. Arms: Or, three crescents gules.

The parish of Odell in Bedfordshire, anciently known as Wahull or Wodhull, gave its name to the family which held the manor from the days of William the Conqueror. The heads of this family were styled "Barons of Wahull" (later Wodhull), because in early days they had been summoned to attend the King as barons, and ordinarily this constituted the creation of a barony. However, the heiress of the family (Agnes Wodhull) left a son and heir, Sir Richard Chetwood (father-in-law of Rev. Peter Bulkeley), who petitioned for recognition of the claim; and after some three hundred years, decision was finally rendered against the claim, on purely technical grounds. It may be suspected that this decision, and the long delay of nine generations before it was made, may have been influenced by the fact that recognition of the claim would have given the Chetwood claimants precedence over most of the barons in the House of Lords, such precedence being based on the date of creation of the baronage. But in the following account, we have accepted the official decision by omitting the title of "Baron of Wahull" from the heads of the house, some of whom employed the title de facto, doubtless in the belief that it was theirs de jure.

The first six generations are inaccurately given in the parchment roll of the Chetwood family,* and we have followed for them the account given in the Bedfordshire Historical Record Society Publications.† Since this important work is not available in most American libraries, and in order to straighten out the tangles found in most accounts, we shall give these early generations in some detail.

I. Saher the Fleming, had a brother Walter.

II. Walter Fleming, son of Saher, attested in 1068, and held Wahull [Odell] in 1086 (Domesday Book). He was probably brother of Hugh Fleming, who held Thurleigh in 1086; and Hugh was probably father of Stephen de Lega, ancestor of the Thurleigh family.

III. Simon I de Wahull, probably son of Walter Fleming, died about 1147-51; m. Sibil. A grant to Thorney Abbey was made by Adeliza wife of Gilbert fitz Richard,‡ three of his sons and his daughter Roheise and was attested by Simon "de Wadhell" and [his kinsman] Stephen "de Leghia" [Thurleigh]. § It has been suggested that she was Roheise de Clare, one of the grantors of the charter previously mentioned which was attested by Simon de Wahull; but according to other authorities, this Roheise de Clare is said to have married Baderon de Monmouth.

V. Walter II de Wahull, died before 1209; m. Albreda Taillebois; she m. (2) Guy de St. Walery.

VI. Saher I de Wahull, son of Walter II, succeeded 1240 after the extinction of the elder branch and died 1250; m. Alice, living 1261/2.

XVIII. Agnes Wodhull, only child and heir, b. 1542, d. in 1575/6; m. (1) Richard Chetwood, third son of Roger Chetwood of Worleston, co. Cheshire; m. (2) Sir George Calveley.

Sir Richard Chetwood, son and heir of Agnes Wodhull by her first marriage, was father of Grace Chetwood, second wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley. It is a remarkable circumstance that Mr. Bulkeley was Rector of Odell, and that his wife's family through her grandmother, Agnes Wodhull, had been lords of the manor at Odell since Domesday Book (1086), the earliest record of the ownership of lands in England. This ancient lineage is shared by all who descend from the second marriage of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

THE NEEDHAM LINE

Needham, of Shavington, co. Shropshire. Arms: Argent a bend engrailed azure between two bucks' heads cabossed sable.

The Needham family is said to have originated in co. Cheshire, but for a number of generations was seated in co. Derby, and obviously derived its name from Needham in that county.

* Sir John Smith, son of Hugh Smith of Witham, co. Essex, was one of the barons of the Exchequer in 1540. He was a "Tudor upstart," his ancestry not certainly known back of his father, but a pedigree was manufactured for the family and it was alleged that the name was originally Carington. Sir John's great-great-grandson was raised to the peerage in 1643 with the title of Viscount Carington. J. Horace Round, in Peerage and Pedigree, vol. 2, pp. 134-257, in a paper called "The Carington Imposture," exposed the fabricated nature of the pedigree back of Sir John. Attention is called to this, as the pedigree is found in the older county histories and works on the peerage.

William Needham, a younger son of Thomas Needham, of Needham, co. Derby, married Alice, heiress of Cranage, co. Cheshire, and daughter probably of William de Cranage of that place. He was living in 1375, and is said to have been Justice of Cheshire.

Robert Needham, of Cranage, son of William, died 1406/7; father of—

Robert Needham, of Cranage, died 1448; is said to have married Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Savage, Knight of the Garter, but this seems uncertain. There were several sons, of whom the third, Sir John Needham (d. 1480) was Judge of Common Pleas, 1457, M. P. for London, 1450, and Judge of the King's Bench, 1472. The eldest son—

Thomas Needham, of Cranage, married Maud, daughter of Sir William Brereton. Their son—

Sir William Needham, of Cranage, married Isabel, daughter and coheiress of Sir John Bromley of Badington, co. Cheshire, by his wife Jane, daughter and heiress of William Hexstall. He was sergeant-at-law of Cheshire, 1461, and bailiff of Drakelowe and Rudheth, 1461 and 1472-76. His elder son, Sir William, ward of Sir John Savage, was found heir to his great-uncle, Sir John Needham, in 1485. The younger Sir William died in 1505 and was succeeded by his younger brother:

Sir Robert Needham, of Cranage, Sheriff of Shropshire, 1529 and 1540, and Sheriff of Cheshire, 1538; died 4 June 1556; married Agnes Manwaring, who died 2 May 1560, daughter of John Manwaring of Over-Pever, co. Cheshire.* He bought Shavington (sometimes called Shenton) in Adderley, co. Shropshire, in 1506, but his great-uncle, Sir John Needham, the Judge, owned an interest in Shavington, and perhaps the ownership of a moiety came to Sir Robert by inheritance.†

Thomas Needham, died in the lifetime of his father (before

* There is no question that he m. Agnes Manwaring, dau. of John of Pever, for her monument so states, as well as the Visitation of Shropshire (1623), but the dates hardly admit of her being the dau. of the John to whom she is assigned in Ormerod's History of Cheshire, vol. 1, p. 482, footnote b. The History of Cheshire under the Needham and Savage families states that he m. Isabel, dau. of Sir John Savage, K. G.; see also the Visitation of Cheshire (1580). Perhaps he married twice; but see above, the alleged wife of his great-grandfather, Robert Needham.

† Adderley is a small village and parish in the extreme north of Shropshire, four miles from Market Drayton, and includes the townships of Adderley, Spoonley, and (ecclesiastically) Shavington. The manor of Shavington was in possession of the Needhams from the early sixteenth century until the late eighteenth century.

1556); he is said to have married first, Agnes Hope, by whom he had an only child, Agnes. He married Anne, daughter of Sir John Talbot of Grafton, co. Worcester, by whom he had:

Robert Needham, of Shavington, Sheriff of Shropshire, 1565, 1587, and 1596; a distinguished Commander in Ireland; died 18 Dec. 1603; married Frances, daughter of Sir Edward Aston of Tixall, co. Stafford, by his first wife Joan, daughter of Sir Thomas Bowles of Penho, co. Carnarvon.

The pedigree in the Visitation of Shropshire, 1623, assigns the following children to Robert and Frances (Aston) Needham: Sir Robert; Thomas; Jane wife of James Collyer of Stonne; Ann wife of Robert Powell of Parke; Margery wife of Thomas Onslow, and second of Sir Robert Vernon; Mawde wife of John Aston of Aston; and Elizabeth, without issue.*

Dorothy Needham, second wife of Sir Richard Chetwood, and mother of Grace Chetwood, second wife of Rev. Peter Bulkeley, is omitted in this pedigree from among the children of Robert and Frances (Aston) Needham, though other sources assign that parentage to her.† Fortunately, positive proof is found in the will of Dorothy's sister Elizabeth Needham, who was listed in the Needham pedigree as dying without issue. Elizabeth's will,‡ made 3 Sept. 1616, proved 29 Jan. 1616/7, called her of Hodnet, co. Shropshire, unmarried, and mentioned her brother Sir Robert Nedham of Shavington, Knt.; my lady Nedham his wife; brother Thomas Nedham; nephew Robert Nedham and his son Robert and daughter "Francis"; brother-in-law Sir Robert Vernon of Hodnet and my sister his wife; nephews Henry and Robert Vernon; brother-in-law Sir Richard Chitwood and my sister Chitwoode; nephews Robert and Thomas Chitwood; legacies to John, Tobie, Grace, Abigail, Dorothy, and Beatrice Chitwode; sister Jane Radcliffe; nephew Francis Collier; sister Powell; nephews Edward Powell (and his wife), Thomas Powell (and his wife), Richard, Robert, Francis, and Andrew Powell; sister Mawde Aston; goddaughter Elizabeth Aston; nephews Thomas and John Aston, and Mary Aston their sister; nephew Edward

It will be seen that she named all the brothers and sisters who appear in the Visitation pedigree, and in addition named her sister Chetwood, her brother-in-law Sir Richard Chetwood, and all their children, including Grace Chetwood. This legal evidence, considered in connection with Chetwood pedigrees in other Visitations, which specifically name Dorothy Needham as the second wife of Sir Richard Chetwood, proves that Dorothy was another daughter of Robert Needham. The testimony of family names provides interesting collateral evidence. Dorothy (Needham) Chetwood named her eldest son Robert and her eldest daughter Frances, these being the names of her parents Robert and Frances (Aston) Needham. Grace (Chetwood) Bulkeley named her only daughter Dorothy after her mother Dorothy (Needham) Chetwood.

The children of Robert and Frances (Aston) Needham were:

NOTE ON THE ASTON FAMILY

Frances Aston, wife of Robert Needham, of Shavington, Shropshire, and maternal grandmother of Grace Chetwood, was sister of Sir Walter Aston, whose grandson, Sir Walter, was created Baron Aston of Forfar in 1627. She was daughter of Sir Edward Aston of Tixall, co. Stafford, by his first wife Joan, daughter of Sir Thomas Bowles of Penho, co. Carnarvon, a baron of the exchequer. Sir Edward Aston was son of Sir John Aston, K. B., who served with Henry VIII in the French war of 1513 and was made a banneret for his conduct at the battle of Spurs; by his wife Joan, only child (by his first wife) of Sir William Lyttelton, of Frankley, co. Worcester, heiress of the manors of Wanlip, co. Leicester, and of Tixall, co. Stafford. The Aston family was an old one in Staffordshire, taking its name from the township of Aston.* Sir William Lyttelton was son and heir of Sir Thomas Lyttelton (died 1481), Judge of the Common Pleas, author of the famous Treatise on Tenures.

ANNE TALBOT

In the account of the Needham family immediately preceding, it has been stated that Thomas Needham of Shavington, Shropshire, great-grandfather of Grace Chetwood, married Anne Talbot, daughter of Sir John Talbot of Grafton, co. Worcester. Before giving a brief history of the Talbot family, it will be well to present the evidence for Anne's identity and place in the Talbot family.

* See Burke's Extinct Peerage (1866 edition), p. 13.

A pedigree of the Needham family appears in the Visitation of Shropshire, 1623, published by the Harleian Society, volume 29, page 371. This is a draft or copy of the pedigree drawn by the heralds from information and evidences furnished to them by Sir Robert Needham (afterwards Viscount Kilmorey), then the head of the family. This pedigree states that the wife of Thomas Needham was Ann daughter of "S^{r} John Talbott of Grafton K^{t}." She was the grandmother of Sir Robert Needham, and it is to be presumed that he knew his grandmother's identity.

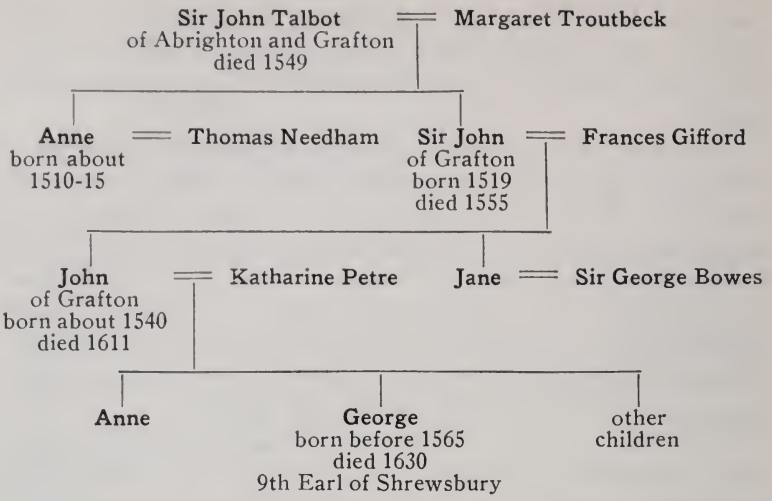
This Thomas Needham died in the lifetime of his father, before 1556; his grandson, Sir Robert, was born prior to 1562;* and his son, Robert, was presumably born about 1535, since he was Sheriff in 1565. It is quite apparent that Anne Talbot's birth must therefore be placed as early as 1510-1515.

The Visitation of Worcestershire, 1569, published by the Harleian Society, volume 27, pages 131-136, contains an extensive pedigree of the Talbot family in which, on the authority of Harleian Ms. 1352, folio 27b, a daughter of Sir John Talbott of Albrighton, Shropshire, here erroneously called "Audrey," is entered as wife of "Tho. Needham."

Investigation shows that this Sir John Talbot resided in Albrighton, Shropshire, most of his life, but that late in life he inherited the manor of Grafton, Worcestershire; and that by his first wife, Margaret Troutbeck, he had one surviving son, John, born in 1519, and several daughters, whose names are not stated in books on the peerage. It is therefore clear that our Anne, born about 1510-1515, could have been a daughter of this Sir John of Grafton and sister of the John born in 1519. Not only are the dates in harmony, but this parentage is indicated by both the Needham and the Talbot pedigrees as quoted above.

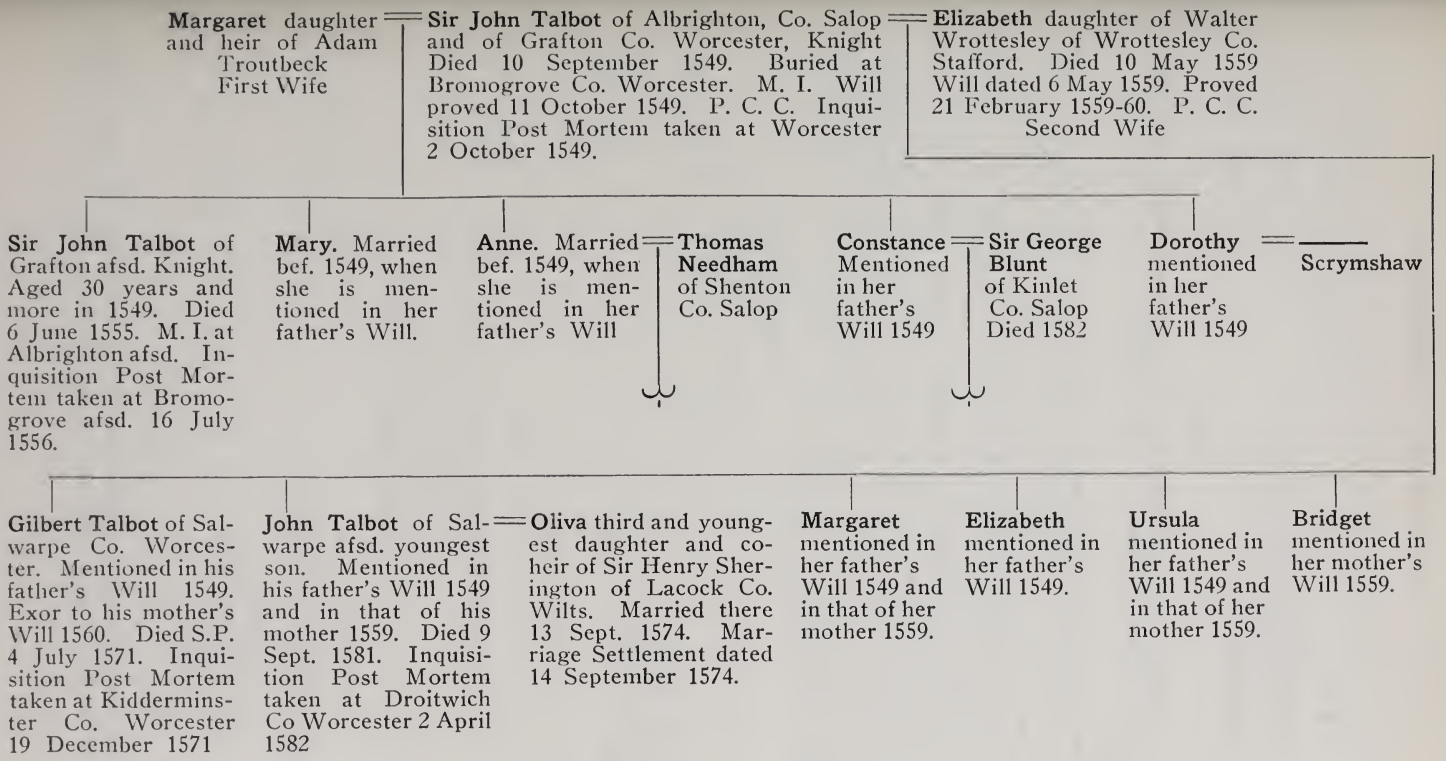
There would have been little question of this conclusion except that Collins's Peerage, followed by Burke's Peerage, placed Anne the wife of Thomas Needham as daughter of another John Talbot who was a grandson of the Sir John Talbot to whose family she really belonged. This discrepancy is shown in the following chart:

* He was admitted to the Inner Temple, 1583, at which date he must have been over twenty-one years old.



It is this later Anne, sister of the 9th Earl of Shrewsbury, whom the works on the peerage assigned as wife to Thomas Needham, though this involves impossibilities. We have already shown that our Anne must have been born as early as 1510-15, and therefore could not have been this later Anne, daughter of a man who must have been born in the neighborhood of 1540. But there is also positive evidence, in addition to this impossibility of date. The Talbot pedigree in the Visitation of Shropshire, 1623, published by the Harleian Society, volume 29, pages 452-453, states that this later Anne was wife of Thomas Hanmer of co. Flint. This pedigree was drawn by the heralds during the lifetime of this Anne's brother, the 9th Earl of Shrewsbury, who, as head of the family, doubtless supplied the information. In the absence of conflicting testimony, this statement must be accepted as authoritative, and we are thereby confirmed in our original conclusion that Thomas Needham's wife was daughter of the earlier Sir John Talbot by his first wife, Margaret Troutbeck.

However, to remove the last vestige of doubt, at the behest of Mrs. Finley J. Shepard the matter was submitted to the College of Arms by the late Col. Charles E. Banks, who was then in London, Eng. We present below the letters of the English authorities, and also a copy of the chart furnished by the College of Arms. It will be seen that their conclusions, based on wills and other documents, coincide with our own conclusions which had been based on a study of the printed sources and the chronological necessities of the case.



TALBOT PEDIGREE FURNISHED BY THE COLLEGE OF ARMS

Showing the parentage of Anne Talbot, great-grandmother of Grace (Chetwood) Bulkeley

Dear Colonel Banks,

Talbot.

The various Needham pedigrees in the College agree in giving the wife of Thomas Needham of Shenton as Anne, daughter of Sir John Talbot of Grafton.

Anne's grandson, the 1st Viscount Kilmorey, was admitted to the Inner Temple in 1583, when he must have been at least 21, so Anne must have been born at least as early as 1522, and consequently could not have been the sister of George, 9th Earl of Shrewsbury who was born in 1567. I am of opinion from an examination of the wills, etc., and a careful comparison of dates, that this Anne Needham is identical with Anne daughter of Sir John Talbot of Grafton by Margaret Troutbeck, and I feel sure that the evidence which has been obtained would be sufficient to satisfy the official examiners of the College on the point. So that the matter may be put on a proper footing I would suggest that the enclosed pedigree be placed before the official examiners and recorded here.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Colonel Banks,

Talbot.

I have gone through the statement as to the parentage of Anne Talbot, wife of Thomas Needham, and quite agree with the conclusion there set out.

The necessary correction will be made under "Shrewsbury, Earl," in the next edition of "Burke's Peerage."

THE TALBOT LINE

Arms: Gules, a lion rampant within a bordure engrailed or.

I. Richard Talbot, born probably about 1050, may have been son of a William Talebot whose name appears in a charter in 1057 by Robert, Comte d'Eu. He witnessed a grant made by Walter Giffard, Earl of Buckingham, during the reign of William the Conqueror, and in Domesday Book held land of that Earl in Battlesden, co. Bedford. He married a daughter of Hugh de Gournai, by Basilia, daughter of Gerald Flaitel.

II. Hugh Talbot, younger son, born about 1085; was made governor of the castle of Plessy in Essex in 1118 by his cousin Hugh de Gournai, who was then in rebellion against King Henry I. He married Beatrice, daughter of William de Mandeville, who was divorced from him and married second, William de Say (died 1144). He became a monk.

III. Richard Talbot, born about 1120, living 1153; received from King Henry II a grant of the manor of Eccleswall in Linton, co. Hereford, and is said to have married a daughter of Stephen Bulmer of Appletree-wick, co. York.

IV. Gilbert Talbot, of Linton, co. Hereford, living 1165-1205.

V. Richard Talbot, born about 1180, living 1231; married Alina Basset, daughter of Alan Basset (died 1233), Baron Basset of Wycombe, co. Bucks, and widow of Dreux de Montague.

VI. Gilbert Talbot, born about 1215, died 1274; served in Wales at the time of the insurrection of Llewellyn against King Henry III in 1256; Justice of Hereford; married Gwendolin, daughter of Rhys ap Griffith, Prince of South Wales.

VII. Richard Talbot, born 1250, died 1306; served in Wales and Gascony under King Edward I; Sheriff of Gloucester, 1300; married Sarah, daughter of William Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick.

VIII. Sir Gilbert Talbot, first Baron Talbot, born 1277, died 1346; served in Scotland under Edward I and Edward II; a Banneret; Lord Chamberlain to Edward III, 1328; Justice of South Wales, 1330; summoned to Parliament, 1331-1343; is said to have married Anne, daughter of William Boteler, Baron Boteler of Wem.

IX. Sir Richard Talbot, second Baron Talbot, born about 1302, died 23 Oct. 1356; resided at Goderich Castle, co. Hereford; a Banneret; served in Scotland and France under Edward III; Steward of the King's household; summoned to Parliament, 1331-1335; married in 1325, Elizabeth Comyn, born 1299, daughter of John Comyn, Lord of Badenoch, by his wife Joan, daughter of William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, and granddaughter of Sir John Comyn, Lord of Badenoch, by his wife Alianore, sister of John de Baliol, King of Scots.

X. Gilbert Talbot, third Baron Talbot, born 1332, died 24 Apr. 1387; served in France and Scotland under Edward III; summoned to Parliament, 1362-1386; married first, Petronilla Butler, daughter of James Butler, first Earl of Ormond, by his wife Eleanor, daughter of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of King Edward I; she was the mother of his son and successor; he married second, Joan, daughter of Ralph, Earl of Stafford.

XI. Sir Richard Talbot, fourth Baron Talbot, born 1361, died 7 Sept. 1396; served in the fleet under Richard II; summoned to Parliament, 1383-1393; married before 1383, Ankaret le Strange, Baroness Strange of Blackmere, born 1361, died 1 June 1413, daughter of John le Strange, fourth Baron Strange, by his wife Mary, daughter of Richard FitzAlan, Earl of Arundel, by his first wife, Isabel, daughter of Hugh le Despenser, Baron Despenser.

XII. Sir John Talbot, younger son, born 1391, died 17 July 1453; in 1421 he succeeded his niece (daughter of his elder brother Sir Gilbert) as seventh Baron Talbot; summoned to Parliament 1409 as Baron Furnivalle (in right of his wife); succeeded also as Baron Strange of Blackmere. He was a great soldier who won renown in the reigns of Henry V and Henry VI in the war in France, and is said to have won forty pitched battles and distinguished himself at the capture of Meaux; Lord Justice of Ireland, 1412; Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, 1414. In 1429, Jeanne d'Arc stopped his successes in France at the battle of Pattay; he was taken prisoner and was in captivity four years. In 1424 he was elected Knight of the Garter. On 20 May 1442, he was created Earl of Shrewsbury. The following year, he was one of the Ambassadors to treat of peace with the French. In 1445 he was again appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and the following year he was created Earl of Wexford and Waterford in the peerage of Ireland. He was thereafter General of the English fleet, in the new French war, and in 1453 was appointed Lieutenant of the Duchy of Aquitaine. He was at first successful, but in July 1453 at the battle of Bordeaux he was struck by a cannon ball which broke his thigh. His sons Christopher and Baron Lisle, with his body-guard of Shropshire men, fought valiantly, but were nearly all slain with him. He married first, before 12 Mar. 1406, Maud Nevill (died 1433), daughter and heir of Thomas Nevill, Baron Furnivalle, by his first wife, Joan, daughter and heir of William de Furnivalle, Baron Furnivalle. He married second, Margaret Beauchamp, daughter and coheir of Richard Beauchamp, Earl of Warwick.

XIII. Sir John Talbot, eldest surviving son by the first wife, succeeded as second Earl of Shrewsbury. He was born 1413, and was killed at the battle of Northampton, 10 July 1460, fighting on the side of the Red Rose. He was Lord Treasurer of Ireland, 1443; Privy Counsellor, 1454; and Lord Treasurer of England, 1456-1458; Knight of the Garter, 1457. He married first, Catherine, daughter and coheir of Sir Edward Burnel, by whom he had no issue. He married second, Elizabeth (died 8 Sept. 1473), daughter of James Butler, Earl of Ormond, by Elizabeth Beauchamp, daughter of William Beauchamp, Baron Abergavenny; a lady who was immediately descended from the Beauchamps (Earls of Warwick), the Mortimers (Earls of March), the FitzAlans (Earls of Arundel), the Bohuns (Earls of Northampton), and doubly from the Plantagenet kings. By her he had children:

i. JOHN, b. 12 Dec. 1448, third Earl of Shrewsbury, whose issue in the male line became extinct in 1618, upon the death of the eighth Earl.
ii. SIR JAMES, d. without issue.
+iii. SIR GILBERT, b. abt. 1452.
iv. CHRISTOPHER, Archdeacon of Chester, and Rector of Whitchurch in Shropshire.
v. GEORGE.
vi. ANNE, m. SIR HENRY VERNON, of Haddon, co. Derby.
vii. MARGARET, m. THOMAS CHAWORTH, of Wyverton, co. Nottingham.

XIV. Sir Gilbert Talbot, third son, born about 1452, died 19 Sept. 1516; married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Ralph de Greystock, Baron of Greystock, and widow of Thomas le Scrope, Baron Scrope of Upsall. By her he had two sons, of whom the younger died without issue, and the elder, Sir Gilbert, succeeded him, and died 22 Oct. 1542, leaving two sons, who both died without issue. Sir Gilbert married second, Audrey (or Etheldreda) Cotton, daughter of Sir John Cotton of Landwade, co. Cambridge, by whom he had a son, Sir John, who follows. Sir Gilbert, as guardian of his nephew, the fourth Earl of Shrewsbury, joined the forces of the Earl of Richmond (afterwards King Henry VII) with 2,000 men, and commanded the right wing of the army at the battle of Bosworth, 1485, in which Richard III was slain. He was made a Privy-Counsellor by the victorious Tudor monarch, and granted the manor of Grafton, co. Worcester, and other lands. He was one of the commanders in the battle of Stoke, 1487, and was made a Knight Banneret. He served also on the Continent, and in 1495 was elected Knight of the Garter. For several years thereafter, he was Deputy [Governor] of Calais.

XV. Sir John Talbot, born about 1485, died 10 Sept. 1549, held for most of his life the manor of Albrighton, Shropshire, and was Sheriff of that County in 1527, 1537, and 1541. In 1538, John Leland wrote in his Itinerary: "Syr John Talbot dwellith a xvi Miles from Shrewsbyri in the way to London toward Hampton Village. His Howse standeth in a Parke called Pepper Hill." Late in life, he inherited his father's manor of Grafton, co. Worcester. He married first, Margaret Troutbeck, born about 1492, living in 1521, daughter of Adam Troutbeck, of Mobberley, co. Cheshire, by his wife Margaret, daughter of Sir John Butler of Bewsey in Warrington, co. Lancaster, heir of her uncle Sir William Troutbeck (who died 10 Nov. 1510), and granddaughter of Sir William Troutbeck (slain at the battle of Bloreheath, 23 Sept. 1459), of Albrighton, Shropshire, by his wife Margaret, daughter of Thomas, Baron Stanley. He married second, Elizabeth Wrotesley, daughter of Walter Wrotesley, of Wrotesley, co. Stafford. She died 10 May 1559. Children by first wife:

i. Sir John, of Grafton, b. 1519, d. 6 June 1555; m. Frances Giffard of Chillington, who was buried 6 Dec. 1574. Children: (1) John, of Grafton, d. 29 Jan. 1611; m. Katharine Petre, who was buried 28 Feb. 1596. Children:

The Welles family badly needs elucidation, and Cokayne certainly errs here in stating that Anne (generation 8) was daughter of the Baron Welles by his second wife, Eleanor Mowbray, since the latter could not possibly have been old enough to be Anne's mother. We have therefore placed her as daughter of the first wife Cecily; whatever view be taken, there is no question of the descent from the Welles and Ros families.

THE ANCESTRAL CHART

A PARABLE

By a Descendant of Grace Chetwood

The Lord Jesus Christ said:

"Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance: and think not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham." Matthew 3: 8, 9.

One day a very plain woman living in one of our eastern states received from a distant relative a family chart tracing the lines of ancestry through many centuries and many lands. Imagine her astonishment in studying it to see four centuries of English sovereigns, among them Alfred the Great, the noblest of British monarchs, a soldier, scholar, business man and saint, one who was deeply spiritual and most devotedly Christian.

There were three centuries of Scottish rulers, beginning with Kenneth, the first king; princes of South Wales; and Dermod, King of Leinster, Ireland, whose daughter Eva married Richard de Clare, Earl of Pembroke, "Strongbow," as he was called.

Turning to the continent she saw the name of Charles Martel, major domo under the last of the Merovingian Kings, and the real power behind the throne; the leader who, in one of the fifteen decisive battles of the world, defeated the advancing Saracen army of four hundred thousand men at Tours in a battle which lasted a week, the longest one recorded in history; and he thus, under God, saved Europe from becoming Mohammedan.

There were six Emperors of the Eastern and thirteen of the Western Roman Empire. Among the latter were Charlemagne, a great figure not only in his day but in all time; and Frederick Barbarossa, of the well known and beloved Hohenstaufen family of Germany. There were Counts of Flanders, Frisia and Holland, rulers of Norway and Sweden, eight of the earliest Capetian kings of France; eleven Italian generations, beginning with Umberto "Biancamano," founder of the House of Savoy, to which the present monarch of Italy belongs; two Portuguese, eight Polish, fourteen or more German, and seventeen generations of Spanish rulers. There were names of great leaders in the Middle Ages belonging to nearly every country of Europe, some of whom are still loved and revered by their compatriots. Among them Bela I of Hungary, who did so much for his people and whose grand daughter married Heinrich, Duke of Bavaria; Borzivoi of Bohemia and his wife, St. Ludomilla, who introduced Christianity into their country; and Vladimir who performed a like service for Russia, and who is reckoned by the Russian Orthodox Church a saint equal to the apostles.

As our friend gazed in amazement at this chart she took it for a genealogist's wild fancy or invention, but inquiry developed the fact that the author was very careful and exact, and there was every reason to consider his work reliable. Then there arose in her a strange feeling of kinship with peoples, who before had seemed most remote and foreign, and she had also a sense of responsibility for them, especially for those who had come to her country, and she longed to give them the Gospel message, which was her dearest treasure. Her heart had been saddened by misunderstanding and alienation among her nearest relatives, and it seemed to her as though God in her time of trouble, had almost miraculously given her a larger family, a greater responsibility. She thought of some of her kin belonging to this astonishing line who were behaving unworthily, and of others who held the Christian faith who were doing well, and she realized more than ever before that no mere line of ancestry, though it reckon heroes, kings and saints, can transform human life. There must be a divine power able to penetrate to the very heart, and cleanse it from sin. As the Saviour said to Nicodemus, "Ye must be born again." (John 3:7.)

To you, O reader, is extended a far greater privilege than descent from any earthly king or hero, for through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and acceptance of Him, you may be born again spiritually, you may become a child of God, heir of the promises. It is the prayer of the writer of this parable that you may surrender your life to Him, and become a member "of the household of God," (Ephesians 2:19) having with the other members a fellowship and a unity of the spirit warmer and deeper than comes from mere human relationship, precious though this be. Above all, may you have the love for your Redeemer that will enable you to say "for to me to live is Christ," (Philippians 1:21) and may He use you greatly in His service.

From the Lord Jesus Christ comes the gracious invitation to be His; hasten to accept it now.

"As many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name; which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." (John 1:12, 13.)

DESCENTS OF GRACE (CHETWOOD) BULKELEY

From Mediaeval Ruling Houses of Europe

As so well pointed out by a descendant in the little essay (The Ancestral Chart) which immediately precedes the present section, the mere fact of descent from kings and rulers has little meaning in itself. Rev. Peter Bulkeley's family needs no such claim of royal ancestry to add to its standing or repute. The following pages will show that his descendants have been prominent, some of them pre-eminent, in every walk of life; and among them, we cannot fail to note the unusually large proportion who, like himself, were ministers of the gospel. In England, his ancestry, as well as that of his first wife, stems from families which, through ownership of manors, belonged to the class which enjoyed the advantage of superior social station and superior education.

His second wife, Grace Chetwood, likewise stemmed from manorial families, and it so chances that through her great-grandmother, Anne Talbot, she descended from many of the great historic families of England, such as the Talbots, the Percys and the Nevills. Some hint of this ancestry has been given in the chapter which shows her descent from thirteen of the sureties of Magna Charta. Anne Talbot had also fourteen legitimate lines of descent from the first Plantagenet king of England. It is believed that other royal lines could be found for Grace Chetwood through the Chetwoods and Wahulls, but we have not been at the trouble to verify them.

It is practically impossible to trace English lines of descent back of the period of the Norman Conquest unless we do connect with ruling houses. As many people enjoy tracing a long line, and will seek to trace those of Grace Chetwood, it has been decided to indicate here a few of them. These lines were compiled before the publication of Turton's Plantagenet Ancestry in 1928, from the best sources available; but for the sake of convenience, that book has been given as reference.

IX. SPANISH RULERS

[The first Kings of Leon after the Moorish Conquest claimed descent from the earlier rulers of Visigothic race; and Turton, on the authority of Bethencourt, traces the line through St. Hermengild, and Theodosia sister of St. Isidore, with female lines running back to Clovis, noted early King of the Franks, and to Theodoric, King of the Ostrogoths, and conqueror of Italy. These descents may be correct, but they rest partly on tradition; the documentation is lacking or deficient, and as many historians are skeptical of the earlier generations, we start with Fruela.]

DESCENDANTS OF REV. PETER BULKELEY

DESCENDANTS OF REV. PETER BULKELEY

For Seven Generations

1. (Rev.) Peter[1] Bulkeley, born at Odell, co. Bedford, Eng., 31 Jan. 1582/3,* died at Concord, Mass., 9 Mar. 1658/9; married first, at Goldington, co. Bedford, 12 Apr. 1613, Jane Allen, baptized at Goldington, 13 Jan. 1587/8, buried at Odell, 8 Dec. 1626; married second, early in Apr. 1635,† Grace Chetwood, born about 1602, died at New London, Conn., 21 Apr. 1669.‡

All accounts of the life of Rev. Peter Bulkeley are based chiefly on Cotton Mather's quaint, yet informative, biography in Magnalia Christi Americana, which we quote below in full.

It has been a matter of some reflection, that among the pretended successors of Saint Peter, there never was any Pope that would pretend unto the name of Peter; but if any of them had been christened by that name at the font, they afterwards changed it, when they came unto the chair. No doubt, as Raphael Urbine, the famous painter, being taxed, for making the face in the picture of Peter too red, replied, He did it on purpose, that he might represent the apostle blushing in heaven to see what successors he had on earth: so these infamous apostates might blush to hear themselves called Peter, while they are conscious unto themselves of their being strangers to all the vertues of that great apostle. But the denomination of Peter might be with an everlasting agreeableness claimed by our eminent Bulkly, who, according to the spirit and counsel of Peter, "fed the flock of God among us, taking the oversight thereof not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a willing mind."

He was descended of an honourable family, in Bedfordshire; where for many successive generations the names of Edward and Peter were alternatively worn by the heirs of the family. His father was Edward Bulkly, D.D., a faithful minister of the gospel; the same whom we find making a supplement unto the last volume of our books of martyrs. He was born at Woodhill (or Odel) in Bedfordshire, January 31st, 1582.

His education was answerable unto his original; it was learned, it was genteel, and, which was the top of all, it was very pious: at length it made him a Batchellor of Divinity and Fellow of Saint John's Colledge in Cambridge: the colledge whereinto he had been admitted, about the sixteenth year of his age; and it was while he was but a junior batchellor that he was chosen a fellow.

When he came abroad in the world, a good benefice befel him, added unto the estate of a gentleman, left him by his father; whom he succeeded in his ministry at the place of his nativity; which one would imagine temptations enough to keep him out of a wilderness.

Nevertheless, the concern which his renewed soul had for the pure worship of our Lord Jesus Christ, and for the planting of evangelical churches to exercise that worship, caused him to leave and sell all, in hopes of gaining the "pearl of great price" among those that first peopled New-England upon those glorious ends. It was not long that he continued in conformity to the ceremonies of the church of England; but the good Bishop of Lincoln connived at his non-conformity, (as he did at his father's,) and he lived an unmolested non-conformist until he had been three prentice-ships of years in his ministry. Towards the latter end of this time, his ministry had a notable success, in the conversion of many unto God; and this was one occasion of a latter end for this time. When Sir Nathanael Brent was Arch-Bishop Laud's General, as Arch-Bishop Laud was another's, complaints were made against Mr. Bulkly, for his non-conformity, and he was therefore silenced.

To New-England he therefore came, in the year 1635; and there having been for a while at Cambridge, he carried a good number of planters with him, up further into the woods, where they gathered the twelfth church then formed in the colony, and called the town by the name of Concord.

Here he buried a great estate, while he raised one still for almost every person whom he employed in the affairs of his husbandry. He had many and godly servants, whom, after they had lived with him a fit number of years, he still dismissed with bestowing farms upon them, and so took others after the like manner, to succeed them in their service and his kindness. Thus he cast his bread both upon the waters and into the earth, not expecting the return of this his charity to a religious plantation, until "after many days."

He was a most excellent scholar, a very well-read person, and one who, in his advice to young students, gave demonstrations that he knew what would go to make a scholar. But it being essential unto a scholar to love a scholar, so did he; and in token thereof endowed the library of Harvard-Colledge with no small part of his own.

And he was therewithal a most exalted Christian; full of those devotions which accompany a "conversation in heaven"; especially, so exact a Sabbath-keeper, that if at any time he had been asked, "whether he had strictly kept the Sabbath?" he would have replied, *Christianus sum, intermittere non possum. And conscientious, even to a degree of scrupulosity. That scrupulosity appeared particularly in his avoiding all novelties of apparel, and the cutting of hair so close, that of all the famous namesakes he had in the world, he could have least born the sir-name of that well known author, Petrus Crinitus.†

It was observed that his neighbors hardly ever came into his company, but whatever business he had been talking of, he would let fall some holy, serious, divine, and useful sentences upon them, ere they parted: an example many ways worthy to be imitated by every one that is called a minister of the gospel.

In his ministry he was another FAREL, Quo Nemo tonuit fortius;‡ he was very laborious, and because he was, through some infirmities of body, not so able to visit his flock, and instruct them from house to house, he added unto his other publick labours on the Lord's days, that of constant catechising; wherein, after all the unmarried people had answered, all the people of the whole assembly were edified by his expositions and applications.

His first sermon was on Rom. i. 16: "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." At Odel he preached on part of the prophecy of Isaiah, and part of Jonah, and a great part of the gospel of Matthew, and of Luke; the Epistles to the Philippians, and of Peter, and of Jude; besides many other scriptures. At Concord he preached over the illustrious truths about the person, the natures, the offices of Christ; [what would he have said, if he had lived unto this evil day, when 'tis counted good advice for a minister of the gospel, "not to preach much on the person of Christ?"] the greatest part of the book of Psalms: the conversion of Zacheus; Paul's commission, in Acts xxvi. 18. His death found him handling the commandments; and John xvi. 7, 8, 9. He expounded Mr. Perkins his six principles, whereto he added a seventh, and examined the young people, what they understood and remembered of his exposition.

Moreover, by a sort of winning, and yet prudent familiarity, he drew persons of all ages in his congregation to come and sit with him, when he could not go and sit with them; whereby he had opportunity to do the part of a faithful pastor, in considering the state of his flock.

Such was his pious conduct that he was had much in reverence by his people; and when at any time he was either hasty in speaking to such as were about him, whereto he was disposed by his bodily pains, or severe in preaching against some things, that others thought were no way momentous, whereto the great exactness of his piety inclined him; yet those little stinginesses took not away the interests which he had in their hearts; they "knowing him to be a just man, and an holy, observed him."

And the observance which his own people had for him was also paid him from all sorts of people throughout the land; but especially from the ministers of the country, who would still address him as a father, a prophet, a counsellor, on all occasions.

Upon his importunate pressing a piece of charity, disagreeable to the will of the ruling elder, there was occasioned an unhappy discord in the church of Concord; which yet was at last healed by their calling in the help of a council, and the ruling elder's abdication. Of the temptations which occurred on these occasions, Mr. Bulkly would say, "He thereby came—1, To know more of God; 2, To know more of himself; 3, To know more of men." Peace being thus restored, the small things in the beginning of the church there, increased in the hands of their faithful Bulkly, until he was translated into the regions which afford nothing but concord and glory; leaving his well-fed "flock in the wilderness" unto the pastoral care of his worthy son, Mr. Edward Bulkly.

It is remarked, that a man's whole religion is according to his acquaintance with the new covenant. If then, any person would know that Mr. Peter Bulkly was, let him read his judicious and savoury treatise of the gospel covenant; which has passed through several editions, with much acceptance among the people of God. Quickly after his first coming into this country, he preached many sermons on Zech. ix. 11: "The blood of thy covenant." The importunity of his congregation prevailed with him to preach this doctrine of the covenant over again in his lectures, and fit it for the press. He did accordingly; and of that book the well-known Mr. Shepard, of Cambridge, has given this testimony: "The church of God is bound to bless God, for the holy, judicious, and learned labours of this aged, experienced, and precious servant of Jesus Christ, who hath taken much pains to discover, and that not in words and allegories, but in the demonstration and evidence of the spirit, the great mystery of godliness wrapt up in the covenant; and hath now fully opened many knotty questions concerning the same, which happily have not been brought so full to light until now; which cannot but be of singular and seasonable use to prevent apostasies from the simplicity of the covenant and gospel of Christ."

Having offered this particular account of a book, which is to be reckoned among the first-born of New-England, I may not forbear doing my country the service of extracting from it one paragraph, which we may reckon the dying charge of a Moses to an Israel in a wilderness:

"And thou, New-England, which art exalted in priviledges of the gospel above many other people, know thou the "time of thy visitation," and consider the great things the Lord hath done for thee. The gospel hath free passage in all places where thou dwellest; Oh! that it might be glorified also by thee! Thou enjoyest many faithful witnesses, which have testified unto thee the gospel of the grace of God. Thou hast many bright stars shining in thy firmament, to give thee the 'knowledge of salvation from on high, to guide thy feet in the way of peace.' Be not high-minded because of thy priviledges, but fear because of thy danger. The more thou hast committed unto thee, the more thou must account for. No people's account will be heavier than thine, if thou do not walk worthy of the means of thy salvation. The Lord looks for more from thee than from other people: more zeal for God, more love to his truth, more justice and equity in thy ways:

thou shouldest be a special people, an only people, none like thee in all the earth. Oh! be so, in loving the gospel, and the ministers of it, having them in 'singular love for their work's sake.'

"Glorifie thou the word of the Lord, which has glorified thee. Take heed, least for neglect of either, God 'remove thy candlestick' out of the midst of thee; lest being now 'as a city upon an hill,' which many seek unto, thou be left 'like a beacon upon the top of a mountain,' desolate and forsaken. If we walk unworthy of the gospel brought unto us, the greater our mercy hath been in the enjoying of it, the greater will our judgment be for the contempt."

His first wife was the daughter of Mr. Thomas Allen, of Goldington: a most vertuous gentlewoman, whose nephew was the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Thomas Allen. By her he had nine sons and two daughters. After her death, he lived eight years a widdower, and then married a vertuous daughter of Sir Richard Chitwood; by whom he had three sons and one daughter.

Age at length creeping on him, he grew much afraid of outliving his work; and his fear he thus expressed in a short Epigram, composed March 25, 1657:

Pigra senectutis jam venit inutilis aetas,
Nil aliud nunc sum quam fere pondus iners.
Da tamen, Alme Deus, dum vivam, vivere laudi Aeternum sancti Nominis usque Tui.
Ne vivam (moriar potius!) nil utile Agendo:

Finiat opto magis, mors properata Dies.
Vel doceam in Sancto Caetu tua verba salutis,
Caelestive canam Cantica sacra Choro;
Seu vivam, moriarve, tuus sim, Christe quod uni
Debita mea est, debita morsque tibi.*

* I've reached the evening of my mortal day;
A sluggish mass of clay is this my frame;
Yet grant, O God, that while I live, I may Live to the glory of Thy holy name.
And if in life I may not honour Thee,
From such dishonour may Death set me free.

Whether within Thy holy courts below
I preach salvation unto dying men—
Or in Thine Upper Temple, with the flow
Of angel-quirings blend my raptured strain—
Living or dying, Thine I still would be:
My life and death alike are due to Thee.

He was ill, as well as old, when he writ these verses; but God granted him his desire. He recovered, and preached near two years after this, and then expired, March 9, 1658-9, in the seventy-seventh year of his age.

The Epigram newly mentioned, invites me to remember that he had a competently good stroke at Latin poetry; and even in his old age affected sometimes to improve it. Many of his composures are yet in our hands. One was written on his Birth-day, June 31st, 1654:

Ultimus iste Dies Mensis, mihi primus habetur;
Quo caepi lucem cernere primus erat.
Septuaginta duos Annos exinde peregi.
Atque tot Annorum est Ultimus iste Dies.
Praeterito Veteri jam nunc novus incipit Annus
O utinam mihi sit mens nova, vita nova.*

Another of them was written on an Earthquake, October 29, 1653:

Ecce Dei nutu tellus pavefacta tremescit,
Terra Tremens mota est sedibus ipsa suis,
Nutant Fulcra Orbis, mundi compago soluta est;
Ex vultu irati contremit ille Dei.
Contremuit tellus, imis concussa Cavernis
Ponderibus quanquam sit gravis illa suis.
Evomit ore putres magno cum murmure ventos,
Quos in visceribus clauserat ante suis.

Ipsa tremit Tellus scelerum gravitate vivorum,
Sub sceleris nostri pondere Terra tremit.
O nos quam duri! Sunt ferrea pectora nobis;
Non etenim gemimus cum gemit omne solum.

EPITAPH

Obiitjam qui jamdudum abierat Bulklaeus;
Nec Patriam ille mutavit, nec paene vitam:
Eo ivit, quo ire consueverat, et ubi jam erat.†

This concludes the account written by Rev. Cotton Mather. While grateful for so much of interest, one nevertheless wishes that Mr. Mather, who possessed such unrivalled opportunities to obtain information, had chosen to preserve more particulars and anecdotes concerning Mr. Bulkeley and the members of his family. From other sources, the following facts are gleaned.

He received the degree of B.A. from St. John's, Cambridge, 1604/5; M.A., 1608; ordained deacon and priest, June 1608; Canon of Lichfield, 1609; and University preacher, 1610.

Peter Bulkeley began his ministry at Odell somewhat earlier than some historians assert. It is true that he succeeded his father as Rector, but usually it has been assumed that he succeeded him

* The solid earth, before an angry God,
Shakes at the terrors of His awful nod.
The balance of the mighty world is lost—
Its vast foundations, in confusion toss'd,
Through all the hollows of its deepest caves
Rock like a vessel foundering in the waves.
Volumes of sulphurous air, with booming sound,
Burst through the gorges of the parted ground.

The earth doth heave, with groanings of distress,
Beneath the weight of human sinfulness.
Shall not our eyes drop penitential rain,
When all creation travaileth in pain?
GREAT GOD! who shall not fear Thee in the hour
When heaven and earth are trembling at Thy power!
FATHER, to nature's tumult whisper peace,
And bid the wickedness of man to cease!

after his father's death in 1620; indeed, even the Victoria History of Bedfordshire* states that he became Rector in 1620. The fact is, that Peter became Rector over ten years before Edward Bulkeley died. He was instituted 12 Jan. 1609/10, and compounded 9 May 1610, as we learn from the Bishops' Certificates of the Diocese of Canterbury.†

The term "compounded" as used in this connection refers to the payment of one year's salary to the Bishop. At that period, this was the general practice, and accepted as such by most ministers of the Church of England, though the Puritans objected to it because of its venality. No details have been preserved concerning the ministry of Mr. Bulkeley at Odell, beyond the observations made in Mather's biography; but there can be no doubt that he performed his duties conscientiously, and that he became more and more attracted to Puritan ideals.

The English Church at that period was, in the opinion of the Puritans, too much concerned with ritual and ceremonials, and not sufficiently concerned with the inner religious needs of the common man. In brief, the ideal of the Puritans was to get away from formalism, to eliminate the trimmings and trappings, to appeal to the conscience of the individual, and to make the Bible (rather than church doctrine) the basic guide and authority for the religious life.

To too many ministers of Bulkeley's generation, the ministry was merely a convenient and genteel way of obtaining a livelihood. We can easily understand how Puritanism, with its earnestness and its definite program of reform, should appeal to many sincere and devout clergymen. We must believe that these were the motives which led Peter Bulkeley to adopt Puritanism. For a long period, his official superiors were satisfied to overlook his lack of strict conformity with the practices of the English Church. The situation changed when Archbishop Laud came into power, for he was determined to rid the church of non-conformist ministers.

The crisis came in 1634, when Mr. Bulkeley was suspended for non-attendance at the visitation of Sir Nathaniel Brent, Vicar-General. Afterwards he came and confessed that he never used the surplice nor the cross in baptism, "accounting them ceremonies, superstitions and dissentaneous to the holy Word of God."* This of course meant that unless he admitted his error and showed a willingness to yield to the opinions of his ecclesiastic superiors, sooner or later he would lose his encumbency. Feeling a call to continue the preaching of the gospel, he decided to come to New England where he would be secure from the persecutions of Archbishop Laud. His case was apparently allowed to drag, and it is possible that he secured delays through the influence of some of his highly-placed connections. At any rate, his successor at Odell, Henry Levit, S.T.B., was not instituted as Rector until 1 July 1635,† over a month after Mr. Bulkeley had left the shores of England.

Mr. Bulkeley's eldest son, Edward, came to New England in advance of the rest of the family, perhaps bringing with him some of the family property, and with instructions to prepare for the advent of his relatives. Edward was at that time barely twenty-one years old. He joined the church in Boston, Mass., 22 Mar. 1635, and was made a freeman on 6 May following.

Careful preparation had to be made for the exodus of the rest of the family from England. A non-conformist minister, if recognized, would not have been permitted to leave the country. Furthermore, the law required those who were leaving the country to present certificates from a minister and Justices of the Peace of their conformity to the orders and discipline of the Church of England, and that they were not subsidy men. The subsidy was a special tax to which certain individuals were liable, and the government did not wish to have its revenue from this source reduced by the departure of men who were liable to the tax. There were venal ministers who made a specialty of providing non-conformists with certificates of conformity.

The difficulties encountered in obtaining transportation were therefore not insuperable, though great precautions had to be taken, as the government employed spies to prevent the departure of those whose presence in England was desired. Most of the shipping lists have not been found or preserved, but fortunately those for the year 1635 are fairly complete. It is interesting to observe that on 13 Apr. 1635, the name "Jo: Backley" aged 15 was entered in the list of those accepted for sailing on the Susan & Ellen. Five days later, "Ben: Buckley" aged 11 and "Daniell Buckley" aged 9 were accepted as passengers to sail on the same ship. These were undoubtedly Mr. Bulkeley's three sons, John, Joseph and Daniel, whose ages correspond very closely with those given. It will be noticed that no care was taken to give the correct spelling of the surname, and that even the Christian name of Joseph was incorrectly entered as Benjamin. It is to be presumed that Puritans friends or acquaintances of Mr. Bulkeley took these boys separately to the shipping office and gave the impression that they were members of their own household, and they may have been garbed like apprentice boys rather than as sons of a well-to-do clergyman.

About the time that the Bulkeley boys were accepted as passengers to sail on the Susan & Ellen, Mr. Bulkeley, now a widower for eight years, was married to his second wife, Grace Chetwood. This is revealed in a letter written to William Morton by John Blackiston on 22 May 1635, in which he referred to several who had recently departed for New England. Mr. Blackiston wrote: "m^{r} Buckley is gone wth his wife m^{rs} Grace Cheetwood whom he married a month agoe." If we suppose that a month ago means about five weeks, the marriage occurred not far from 15 Apr. 1635, at just the time when the sailing arrangements were in progress. Doubtless the wedding was very quiet, since the authorities, if they learned of it, would instruct the shipping clerks to be on the watch for Mr. Bulkeley and his bride. To run no unnecessary risk of discovery, we find that on 8 May 1635 "Grace Bulkley" aged 33 was entered as a passenger on the Elizabeth & Ann, while on the following day "Peter Bulkley" aged 50 was entered as a passenger on the Susan & Ellen.

These two ships were expected to sail about the same time, but it is not credible that Mr. Bulkeley's bride was allowed to sail alone on a different ship. It is not difficult to guess the true story. Some woman who was sailing on the other ship and who was not too different from Mrs. Bulkeley in age and appearance was asked to undergo the preliminary examination at the shipping office and to be accepted as a passenger on the Susan & Ellen. Mrs. Bulkeley took the other woman's place in being entered as a passenger intending to sail on the Elizabeth & Ann. There would have been great risk of discovery if Mrs. Bulkeley had presented herself with her husband long before their ship sailed. By adopting this method, there was nothing to connect Mr. Bulkeley and his wife in the eyes of the shipping clerks, and at the last moment Mrs. Bulkeley embarked with her husband, while the other woman embarked in the other ship as had been her intention.

By the methods described, Mr. Bulkeley, his wife, and the three boys found themselves together on the same ship. Since Edward had already crossed to New England, this accounts for all the surviving Bulkeley children except the son Thomas, who was then about eighteen years old. Unless Thomas had come with Edward, it is probable that he came on the same ship with his father; but if he did, his name was so disguised that we cannot recognize it in the shipping list.*

Although every legitimate device was employed to avoid recognition, which would have meant detention in England, it is not to be supposed that a minister as conscientious as Mr. Bulkeley told any deliberate falsehoods to the shipping clerks. It is to be noted that both he and his wife gave their correct names at the shipping office, although it was a common practice for Puritans of prominence to sail under assumed names. Quite evidently, Mr. Bulkeley preferred the risk of recognition to the telling of a lie.

If tradition is to be believed, the voyage to New England was not without event. This story is to the effect that while on shipboard, Mrs. Grace Bulkeley "apparently died, and that her husband, supposing land to be near and unwilling to consign the beloved form to a watery grave, urgently entreated the Captain that the body might be kept one day more and yet another day, to which, as no signs of decay appeared, he consented. On the third day, symptoms of vitality were observed, and before land was reached, animation so long suspended was restored, and

* It should be noted that the name "Tho: Bulkley" aged 32 appears under date of 15 May 1635 in the shipping list of the Plaine Joan. Some have supposed that this refers to Thomas the son of Rev. Peter. Despite the fact that this ship was bound for Virginia, and the improbability of a youth of eighteen being able to pass himself off as a man of thirty-two, it is not impossible that another act of "substitution" was arranged, similar to that arranged for Mrs. Grace Bulkeley. The chief difficulty is the date, which was just a week after Peter's name was entered in the shipping list of the Susan & Ellen; and it is reasonable to suppose that Peter delayed entering his name until the last possible moment before sailing. Hence, the presumption is that Peter and his family had sailed before the name of this Thomas was entered for passage on the Plaine Joan. It ought to be remembered, in considering this entire subject, that ship owners were in business to make money, and that government detention of prospective passengers was damaging to the interests of the ship owners; hence, they and the shipping clerks would be inclined to wink at evasions, incognitos and substitutions on the part of non-conformists and subsidy men who desired to obtain passage. The chief risk was from the activities of government spies.

though carried from the ship an invalid, she recovered and lived to old age."*

Such trances are not unknown to medical history, and some claim that they are most likely to occur when women are in the early stages of a first pregnancy. While the tradition cannot be verified by strictly contemporary evidence, and may not be exactly true in every detail, it seems very probable that in broad outlines it preserves the memory of an actual occurrence.

The Bulkeleys landed at Boston in midsummer, 1635.† When the first child of Grace was born some months later, the name of Gershom was bestowed on him. This was not a family name on either side, but was chosen from the Bible to commemorate the fact that the child was born far from home;—for quite naturally England was still looked upon as home. Gershom means 'an exile'; "I have been a stranger in a strange land."‡

Mr. Bulkeley's son, Edward, had doubtless made arrangements for the reception of his family, and temporarily they sojourned in Cambridge, Mass. In addition to several relatives of Mr. Bulkeley, there were a few of his former tenants and parishioners who had come or were planning to come, to join him in the settlement of the wilderness. In the autumn of 1635, a tract of land at Musketaquid, six miles square, was purchased from the Indians. The hardships which the founding of Concord entailed have been thus narrated:

"They make their way through unknown woods, through watery swamps, through thickets their hands must tear open that their bodies may pass. They come to scorching plains where their feet and legs are torn by ragged bushes, until the blood trickles down at every step. After such toilsome days, they rest on the rocks when night takes them, having no repast but a pittance of bread. Finally they reach the desired haven, and here they burrow in the earth and under the hillside and build some sort of temporary shelter for their wives and little ones."§

§ For this description, based on Johnson's Wonder Working Providence, and for statements made in some of our subsequent paragraphs, we are indebted to "Some Account of the Life and Times of the Rev. Peter Bulkeley," published by Anna Maria Fay in The New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 31, pp. 153-159.

The wealthy settlers like Mr. Bulkeley, who brought £6000, and Mr. Thomas Flint, who brought £4000, not only shared the privations of the early years of colonization, but greatly impaired their fortunes. The soil of the uplands was poor; there were floods that destroyed the crops produced on the meadows; and there were heavy losses of livestock. Cotton Mather has told us of Mr. Bulkeley's generosity to his servants and dependents, which in addition to the losses suffered by all must have depleted his resources.

Sad to relate, religious dissensions had already broken out in the youthful colony, which could not but involve the new settlement of Concord. In 1636 Mr. Bulkeley and Mr. John Jones organized the church, and in April 1637 they were ordained at Cambridge, the former as teacher, the latter as pastor, of the church at Concord. The colonial ministry was divided at the time in their attitude towards the teachings of Mr. Wheelwright and Mrs. Anne Hutchinson. Mr. Bulkeley belonged to the party known as Legalists, while Mr. Cotton and others were more liberal. Mr. Bulkeley was unsparing in his condemnation of Mrs. Hutchinson, and called her "that Jezabell whom the Devill sent over thither to poison these American Churches with her depths of Satan, which she has learned in the schools of the Familists."

These religious differences seem remote to us to-day, but were very real and important to the participants. It is pleasing to record that Mr. Bulkeley and Mr. Cotton, despite their differences of view, remained personally good friends. Mr. Cotton complained of the want of brotherly love he had experienced, and Mr. Bulkeley replied in his letter: "I doe confesse I have found as little towards myself as ever I did in any place God brought me unto. It is the place I have desired to show love unto for His sake, who has set his name here, and yet I have found so many strangenesses, alienations, and so much neglect from some who would formerly have visited me, yet will they pass by my dore as if I were a man they had not knowne, that I have sometimes wondered what the cause of the change could be, whether in myself or in them. Remembering myne own love and respect unto yourself, I hartily desire you to lay aside all jealousy concerning the same, assuring you before Him, who knoweth our hearts, that my soule is knit with you as it hath been (in some measure) ever since God brought me in acquaintance with you, though in some things I have difference in apprehension and of judgment."

A great Ecclesiastical Council was called at Cambridge, 30 Aug. 1637, to deliberate upon the differences of opinion which had wrought all the tumult. Mr. Bulkeley and Mr. Hooker of Hartford were chosen Moderators, and after long discussion, certain opinions (eighty-two in all) were declared heretical, and Mr. Cotton succeeded in convincing the Council of his substantial orthodoxy.

The Covenant adopted by the Concord church contains no statement of doctrine, but is a simple binding of the members to one another "to walke henceforth as becometh the people of God." Mr. Bulkeley devoted himself to the needs of his parishioners in Concord, but at times was concerned about the evils of his day. In a letter he wrote, "I am persuaded that except there be some means used to change the course of things . . . . our churches will grow more corrupt day by day, and tumult will arise hardly to be settled." Early stirrings of the feminist spirit also troubled him, for women were beginning to claim their rights in Concord. He inquired of Mr. Cotton "how to act when a sister takes offence against a brother," whether she has the same liberty as a brother to deal with the offending brother. He feared an affirmative decision, "for there being neither male nor female in the Lord," allowing the sister to call a brother in question might end in giving the woman power over the man.

The trials and discouragements at Concord continued, and in 1644 Mr. Jones and several families removed to Fairfield, Conn. With them went Mr. Bulkeley's sons, Thomas and Daniel, the former married to a daughter of Mr. Jones. Mr. Bulkeley remained in his chosen field, and continued to minister to the Concord church, although only thirty families remained after the departure of the Jones contingent. Gradually, difficulties were overcome, and the town began to prosper. Of the power of Mr. Bulkeley's preaching, and of his scholarship and wide influence, we have already quoted the testimony of Cotton Mather. His book, The Gospel Covenant, was the first religious book of importance written in New England, and one of the first American books to be printed; it went through several editions in England.

He died at Concord, 9 Mar. 1658/9, in the 77th year of his age. The goodness and strength of his character impressed his contemporaries. Motivated by a great ideal, he abandoned an assured position and at great personal sacrifice started life anew, at the age of fifty, in an undeveloped country. When the Stuart monarchy was overturned, and the Puritans came into power in England, he must have been tempted to return there, as many did; but that would have meant deserting his flock, many of whom he had influenced to risk themselves and their fortunes in the Concord venture, and he chose to remain.

History tells us little of his high-born bride, the second wife whom he married just as he was about to cross the ocean. With Grace Chetwood, as with her husband, the religious motive must have been strong, but may we not imagine that in her was also a sense of adventure? What were her feelings, this delicately nurtured woman of slightly over thirty years, when the revered pastor asked her to become his wife and to share with him the perils of the sea and the wilderness? We can only guess; it is sufficient to know that she accepted, that she came with him, and endured all with him. After his death, she lived with her son, Rev. Gershom Bulkeley, at whose home in New London, Conn., she died 21 Apr. 1669, aged about sixty-seven years. Bradstreet recorded her death in his Journal in these words: "M^{rs} Grace Bulkley y^{e} widow of M^{r} Peter Bulkley sometime Pastour of y^{e} chh of Concord, deceased. She was a woman of great piety and wisdome and dyed in a good old Age. Her sickness was long and very afflictive."

The will of Rev. Peter Bulkeley follows:*

I Peter Bulkely minister of the Word, being now in the Seventy six yeare of my age, & ready to go the way of all flesh, do make this my last Will, & testament as followeth, first I do hereby testifie unto all that I do dy in the fayth of that Doctrine, which I have here preached in Concord, among my hearers, testifying & sealing the same with this my last confession, that it is the saveing truth of God, and therefore do humbly desire of God, that those who have opposed & gaine sayed may in time bethink themselves, & repent, that they may find mercy with the Lord in that behalfe, even the same mercy as I desire unto myne owne soul, desireing also that though I have manifested much weaknes in my dispensacion, yet the hearers would labor to express the power of what they have received, so that both I and they may rejoice together in the day of Christ. Now as touching my worldly estate which is now very little in comparison of what it was, when I came first to this place, I do dispose thereof as followeth. first I do give unto my Sonne Edward Bulkely, (to whom I did at the time of his mariage give such a portion as I was then able to give) if he continue and stay in this land, these books, following, hereafter to be set downe in a Schedule anexed

* New England Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 10, pp. 167-170.

to this my will, or if he should remove from this Country to England then (instead of y^e^ books before expressed in gen'all, and to be particularly named in the Schedule) I give unto him five pounds of English money to be paid him there in England by my Sonne John. Item, I do give unto my daughter in law, the widow of my Sonne Thomas deceased, the vallue of one kow, to be payd unto her by my Executor hereafter named, only with this exception, that if her necessity do require the same to be payd unto her while I am liveing, then that so given in my life time, shall be instead of the other here before named, to be payd by my Executor, and my Executor to be discharged of that legasy. Item I do give to my Sonne Eliezur, either the farme which is now used by Widow Goble, & her sonne Thomas Goble adjoining to Mrs. Flents farme, or my mill here in the Towne, or the hundred acres of land be the same more or less, which lyes at the neerer end of the great meadow, & together with this land I do give him also twenty acres of meadow liing towards the further end of the great meadow, beyond the poynt of upland, which shooles down into the meadow, towards the River, one of these three, namely either the farme, or the mill, or the hundred acres of land with the twenty acres of meadow, I do hereby give unto my said Sonne Eleezur but which of the three to settle upon him, I do not at present resolve, but I leave the consideracion thereof to my Executor & the overseers of this my last will hereafter named desireing them to let him have that which will be most usefull & profitable to him, when he is fit to make use thereof. Item I do give & bequath to my Sonne Peter, the next in vallew of these three things before named, so that when Eliezurs portion is sett out, then the next in worth to be for Peter, and the third of the three to remayne to those that shall inheritt mine house in which I do now live. Item I do give to my Sonne John, Mr. Cartwright upon the Rhemish testament & Willetts Sinopsis. Item to my sonne Joseph, Mr. Hildersham upon the one & fiftieth psalme, and y^e^ History of the Councell of Trent in English, and Cornelius Tacitry[?]* in English, & Mr. Bolton on Gen, 6: concerning a Christian walking with God. Item, I do bequeath to my Lord Oliver, St. John Lord Cheif Justice of the Common pleas, my great English Bible in folio which hath the letters of his name (O & G.) upon the cover of it; intreating him to accept this small token of my due love which I owe unto him, and as a testimony of my thankfull acknowledgement, of his kindness and bounty towards me, his liberality, having been a great help & support unto me in these my later times, & many Straytes. Item I do give unto my cousen Mr. Samuel Haugh Dr. Twisse in folio, against the Arminians. Item I do give to my Daughter Dorothy, the hundred & fifty pounds of English money which I have in England, in the hands of my Sonne John, the most part thereof came to me and my wife by the death of one of my wives Sisters, I mencion here £150. be the same more or less,—and though I suppose it is some what more, but what it is in just and exact account I do not know, but whatsoever it is, to my daughter Dorothy I give it, which being lesser then to suffice for her suteable disposall in marriage, I do therefore desire my wife when God shall take her to himselfe, to add something more to the said 150£. as God shall enable her. and in the meane time I will that if my Sonne John do make any profitt thereof, that then not only the said 150£. be it more or less, but the profit of it also, shall be reserved to the increase of my daughters portion. The rest of my Estate unbequeathed before, whether moveables or unmoveables, as namely my house, land, whether granted me first by the Towne or bought by money from others, cattle or money, or household stuffe, or plate or whatsoever, I do give unto my dear wife, & her heirs by me begotten, giving her power, hereby to dispose by sale or otherwise to her benefitt of any part of the lands I have in the Towne (except before bequeathed & given) to her owne benefitt as her need shall require. And in case any of my children before named by me in this my will, to whom I have bequeathed the legacies named, should prove disobedient to their mother, or otherwise vitious & wicket (which God of his mercy prevent) then I will that the legacy before bequeathed to any of them so proveing disobedient & wicked shall be wholly in the power of my said wife their mother, to deale with them therein, as shee herselfe in christian wisedome shall think meet either to give them their legacy, or to keep it to herselfe, and my will further is that if any of the three children before named, Eliezer, Peter or Dorothy, should dy before their legacyes be paid them, that then the legacy of the deceased shall go to the other two surviveing, if my wife do not stand in need of it, but if shee do stand in need thereof, for her necessary mainetenance, then she shall have power to take it to herselfe. It may perhaps be expected that I should bequeath something to the Publique use of the Countrey, which practice I wish were more observed then it is by those that are of ability. But were my estate better then now it is, I suppose I may be therein excused, in regard, of what I have done formerly in the beginning of these plantations, wherein what I have done, some few do know, but I will here be spareing therein. This only I know and may say, that which I did then was an help to the weake beginning, which then were, more then what was then done, I do not thinke God requires of me now, considering my wasted estate, which I have here consumed, haveing little to leave to the children what God hath given me, and to my pretious wife whose unfeigned piety: and singular grace of God shineing in her, doth deserve more then I can do for her. Her & her children by me, I do now leave to the goodnes, and mercifull providence & care of God, my mercifull father in Christ Jesus, beseeching him that as he hath given them to mee so he would take them again as a gift from my hands, owneing them as his owne, being a father to the fatherlesse, and a Judge unto the widow: to defend her case, in case any should go about to do her wrong. And of this my will & testament, I do make my loveing wife mine only Executrix, desireing my loveing Brethren, Robert Merriam & Luke Potter, the faythfull Deacons of our Church, & William Hunt & Timothy Wheeler to be overseers of this my will, and to assist my said wife in any thing wherein shee shall stand in need of their help, giving to Robert Merriam Mr. Rutherfords treatise upon the woman of Canaan, to Luke Potter Mr. Rutherfords upon the dying of Christ, on Jn°. 12. To W^m^ Hunt M^r^. Cooper on the 8^th^ chapter to the Romans, & To Timothy Wheeler M^r^. Dike on Jeremiah 17^th^ concerning the deceitfulnes of mans heart, which. small toakens, though the be unanswerable, to the care or paynes they may meet with upon these occasions, yet my hope and confidence is that they will afford there helpe herein, more out of conscience towards God, then out of respect of reward from man. And to this my last will & Testament, I have set my hand and seal, this fourteenth day of Aprill in the year one thousand six hundred fifty and eight. 1658. By me Peter Bulkeley & a seale and 17th of febr. in the same year.

An addition to this my Will added Jan. 13. 1658. Be it known also, that as a part of my will now written, I do add this namely that whereas I have agreed for a sixteenth part of the mill and for a like sixtenth part in the Iron Works which is now in frameing, I do give all my interest in both these unto my beloved wife

Peter Bulkely Jan. 13: 1658.

A request to the overseers of this my will & testament, These I do earnestly intreate not to suffer any materiall or substantiall point of my Will to be altered or changed, on any pretence whatsoever, especially, if it do concerne my deare wife, whose interest & welfare I do cheifely respect, so that be the pretence either coulor of law, or matter of conscience, yet I desire them to maintain the substance of my Will as I have set it downe, as being that I have herein discharged my duty to each one, so farre as my weake decaied estate will beare in Witness whereof I have here subscribed my name this 26th of febr. 1658:

By me Peter Bulkeley.

Witness hereof,
John Joanes,
Thomas Bateman,
Thomas Browne.

The names of the books which I bequeath to my Sonne Edward:

1: I give him all Piscators Commentaries on the bible.

2: Dr. Willett on Exod. & Levitt. on Sam. 1. 2. & on Daniell.

3: Tarnovious in 2 vollums upon prophetas minores.

4: Dr. Owen, against the Arminians in 4.°

5: I give him one part of the English anotations upon the bible, the other part to be to my Son Gershom these my two Sons shall divide the books between themselves and if they desire to have the whole, they may join together in buying the whole and then they may divide those two as they have done these of mine, & so each of them may have the whole worke.

6: Mr. Aynsworth notes upon the 5 books of Moses & upon the psalmes. Item whereas I above bequeathed the vallew of one kow, to my daughter in law the Widow of my Sonne Thomas, I do hereby discharge mine Executor of that legacy, I haveing already disposed the vallew expressed to her use and benefitt. Peter Bulkely.

The witnesses above written gave upon oath to the truth of this will, the 20th of the 4th mo. 1659. Before me Simon Willard.

He matriculated pensioner from St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, Easter, 1629. He emigrated to New England in advance of the rest of the family, and was admitted a member of the First Church in Boston, 22 Mar. 1634/5. He was dismissed to Concord, 15 Aug. 1641. Having acquired a professional education, under instruction of his father, he was licensed to preach the Gospel and ordained at Marshfield, Mass., in 1642/3. On the death of his father in 1659, he was dismissed and installed over the Church in Concord as his successor at £80 a year. He preached the Election Sermon in 1680. He died in the 53rd year of his ministry, at Chelmsford, and was buried in Concord, aged 82.‡ He is represented by tradition as being lame and of a feeble constitution, and was greatly reputed for his talents, acquirements, irreproachable character, and piety.

On 5 Mar. 1694, the town of Concord voted, "Whereas the Rev. Pastor, M^{r} Edward Bulkeley, is under such infirmities of body by reason of great age, that he is not capable of attending the work of the ministry as in time past, being also sensible of the obligations the town is under to afford him a comfortable maintenance during the term of his natural life, that thereby the people may testifie their gratitude for his former services in the Gospel, they do hereby oblige the town to pay Mr. Bulkeley yearly, during his natural life, the sum of £30 in lieu of his former salary." He accepted this provided he could preach or not as he felt inclined.

The wife of Rev. Edward Bulkeley was a widow named Lucian, who apparently was from Plymouth Colony. She had, by her former husband, a daughter Lucy who married Mr. John Lake.*

The inventory of the estate of Thomas was dated 4 June 1658. Mention made of widow, two sons, and daughters; children under age. Overseers, Mr. Hill and Mr. Hull.

Sarah Jones was listed as aged 15 when she sailed on the Defence in 1635 with her father, Rev. John Jones, and his family. Her father was associated with Mr. Peter Bulkeley in the ministry at Concord, and became the first minister at Fairfield. His will, dated 17 Jan. 1664/5, named his daughter, the widow Sarah Wilson.

The will of Sarah Wilson, "sometimes Sarah Bulkley," dated 26 Apr. 1677, codicil 15 Feb. 1680, proved 2 Jan. 1683; daughter Sarah wife of Eliazer Browne of New Haven; daughter Rebecca wife of Joseph Whelplie of Fairfield; daughter Hannah; sister-in-law Mr. Eliphalet Jones' wife; sister Elizabeth Hill; two sons John and Joseph Bulkley; brother-in-law Mr. Gershom Bulkeley of Wethersfield, and Samuel Wakeman, overseers; witnesses, Gershom Bulkley and Israell Chancy.

6. (Rev.) John[2] Bulkeley (Peter[1]), M.A., baptized at Odell, co. Bedford, Eng., 6 Feb. 1619/20, died at London, Eng., 24 May 1689; married first, at Odell, 19 Mar. 1650, Anne Try, who probably died before 1665; married second,* at Harrow-on-the-Hill, co. Middlesex, (license 6 Sept. 1667), Elizabeth (———) Okes, of East Smithfield, widow; married third, Avis ———, who was buried at All Hallows, Bread Street, London, 7 Feb. 1695/6.†

He was graduated from Harvard College in the first graduating class, 1642; returned to England, where he became minister at Fordham, co. Essex. He was ejected in 1662, following the Restoration; removed to Wapping in the suburbs of London and practiced as a physician until his death.

"He was a learned and eminently Pious Man. His whole Life was a continual Sermon. Tho' he was not often in the Pulpit, yet he might truly be said to Preach every Day in the Week. And seldom did he visit his Patients, without reading a Lecture of Divinity to them, and praying with them."

"That which gave a Lustre to all his other Vertues, was his great Humility, the constant Sweetness of his Temper, Integrity of his Mind, and Charitableness of his Nature, which appear'd in every part of his Life."

Mr. Bulkeley, by deed dated 20 Dec. 1645, gave to Harvard College his portion of a garden containing over an acre in Cambridge, on Harvard Street, which became the College yard.

His will, made 11 Oct. 1689, proved 28 Jan. 1689/90, calls him of St. Katherine's (near the Tower, London), gentleman; referred to land at Ringshall, co. Suffolk, settled upon me and my heirs; wife Avis, referring to a pre-nuptial settlement; daughter Elizabeth wife of Everard Falkener, grocer; sister Mrs. Elenor Trye; brother and sister Vicaridge and their children; the eldest son of my late nephew Trye Vicaridge; three brethren in New England, Edward, Gershom and Peter; sons of deceased brother Thomas; nephew Edward Bulkeley here in England; nephew Thomas Trye, son of late brother-in-law, Mr. William Trye; my two sons, Edward and Thomas.

Mr. Bulkeley's first wife was daughter of Thomas Trye, Esq.,

His will, dated 26 May 1712, in his own handwriting, calls him "Practitioner in Physick" and contains a long preamble, beginning: "I, ye said Gershom Bulkeley, having much more than twenty years walked upon ye very mouth of ye grave, under so great infirmity, yt I cannot but wonder how I have all this while escaped falling into it, have not been wholly unmindfull of yt wch nature and common prudence calls for in such cases. But in ye meantime sorrowful changes from ye right hand of ye most High have passed over me, and some yt I had hoped would have survived me have prevented me and left me behind them, whereby, with some Incident considerations I am moved to alter some things wch otherwise I should not have done. And therefore, remaining still, though very weak in body yet of sound mind and memory, I do now make this (I hope) my last will and testament, hereby revoking and annulling all former wills whatsoever made by me: In ye first place, Casting myselfe upon ye Riches of Sovereign Grace, (if God have wrought any truth in my most deceitfull heart,) I commit my sinfull soul into ye mercifull hands of my most Gracious Lord & savior Jesus Christ, whom God hath exalted by & at his own Right hand, to be a Prince & a savior, to give Repentance and Remission of sins unto Israel. To him therfore I fly for both, with ye humble and comprehensive Petition of ye Publican, God be mercifull to me a sinner. And my body I commit to ye dust, as it was, to be (as near to my late dear wife, as conveniently may be,) decently but obscurely buryed without much cost or Ceremony. I neither deserve nor desire those things, yet desire a part in ye first & better Resurrection of ye Just.

Epsom until my nephew Thomas Bulkley shall arrive in England or my executors have certain advices of his death; residue to my said nephew, then to his child or children; failing such, then £1600 to the Fawkners, £50 apiece to the children of Hester Vicaridge [a relative through her mother, Anne Trye], and half of the remaining personal estate to the living children and grandchildren of my uncles, Edward, Peter, and Gersham Bulkley; codicils made 4 June and 21 June 1720, one provision being that nephew [Thomas] Bulkley shall have what books he pleases for his own use out of my study and the remainder to be disposed of by my executors for some public place or library either in New England or where else they shall think most proper. "And as for these few poor children wch I shall leave behind me, in a most sinfull and calamitous world, to grapple with difficult times, ye best bequest I have for them, is Luthers short, but significant and pertinent prayer, Tu Domine, [. . . . .], Serva, Doce. To him therfore I commend & give them all, humbly beseeching him, That he will graciously accept them and theirs, & make them all his own, & faithfull to him to ye death, & be their Portion; a God & Father to them in Christ his Son, from generation to generation, Amen."

The will bequeaths to son Edward all his law books and manuscripts; to son John his religious books and manuscripts, referring to those written by his grandfather, his father, and himself; to daughter Dorothe the rest of personal estate, including negro maid Hannah; son-in-law Thomas Treat Executor; bequests to son Charles' daughter Hannah Goodrich, to daughters-in-law Hannah Avery and Rachel Wolcott, and to son Edward's wife Dorothe; to brother Peter's children,—Gershom, Peter, Grace, Margaret, and Dorothe, said Grace to have "my great red rugge wch was her mother's." To grandson Richard Treat, son of Thomas and Dorothe, all his books and manuscripts concerning medicine and chemistry, and a Latin and a Dutch Grammar; "together with all my vessels and instruments useful, whether of glass, brass or copper, iron, stone or earth"; provided he hold and pursue his inclination to that study. To deceased daughter Catherine Treat's only child, Catherine Treat. A codicil, dated 24 Nov. 1713, states that Thomas Treat having died, Gershom's daughter Dorothe Treat is to be sole Executrix; will proved 7 Dec. 1713.

Colonial Records. He was appointed Chirurgeon to the army, Oct. 1675, and added to the Conn. Council of War (King Philip's War); reappointed Chirurgeon to the army, May 1676; wounded by a shot from the enemy, Mar. 1676, on Major Treat's expedition northward; was granted £30 by the Council for his good service to the country, Jan. 1676/7; was granted liberty, Oct. 1677, to transport 200 deer skins out of the Colony to be exchanged for medicines. He served as Deputy for Wethersfield to the Conn. General Court, May 1679. In Oct. 1686 he was licenced to practice physic and chirurgery. He was a Justice of the Peace for Hartford County under Gov. Andros in 1687.

He preached the Election Sermon before the Conn. General Court, probably about 1680.*

One charge is, "Payd to Sam grean for a Ps (?) book alminackes and Cuttinge his haire," and another for "shoo-mending." July 8, 1655, he is charged with "detrementes for the two winter quarter desem march 10s." The credits are rye, Indian, "wheatt," "wheatte-meall," butter, cheese, "appelles," "backen," "beaff," "turkey henes," "lambes," "sheepe," "on Cow," "on oxe," "430^{ft} bords," etc.

The word "Socius" is affixed to his name, doubtless properly, as it is in all the catalogues of the graduates, though I do not find his appointment as Fellow on the College records.

In 1661, after preaching at New London several months, as successor of Richard Blinman, Miss Caulkins says he "entered into a contract," containing, however, "no reference to a settlement or ordination," "to become the minister of the town," on "a salary of £80 yearly for three years, and afterward more, if the people found themselves able to give more, or 'as much more as God shall move their hearts to give, and they do find it needful to be paid.' It was to be reckoned in provisions or English goods; and for the first three years he was to have 'all such silver as is weekly contributed by strangers, to help towards the buying of books.' The town was to pay for the transportation of himself, family, and effects from Concord; provide him with a dwelling-house, orchard, garden, and pasture, and with upland and meadow for a small farm; supply him yearly with fire-wood for the use of his family, and 'do their endeavor to suit him with a servant-man or youth, and a maid, he paying for their time.'" If he died in the ministry, his wife and children were to receive sixty pounds sterling.

"To obviate some difficulty which occurred in building the parsonage," Bulkeley afterward offered "to provide himself with a house, and free the town from the engagement to pay £60 to his family in case of his decease, for the sum of £80 in hand." The proposition was acceded to, though, "'in case he remove before .... 7 yeer, he is to return the 80 l. agen, but if he stay the 7 yeere out, the 80 l. is wholly given him, or if God take him away before this tyme of 7 yeeres, the whole is given his wife and children.'"

February 25, 1663/4, it is agreed, "that henceforward Mr. Buckley shall have sixe score pound a yeere, in provision pay, good and marchandable, he freeing the towne from all other ingagements."

February 25, 1664/5, there appeared to be some uneasiness, for the town voted that "they were willing to leave Mr. Bulkley to the libertye of his conscience without compelling him or enforcing him to anything in the execution of his place and office contrarye to his light according to the laws of the commonwealth."

June 10, 1665, "The Towne understanding Mr. Buckleys intention to goe into the Bay have sent James Morgan and Mr. Douglas to desire him to stay untill seacond day com seventnight which day the Towne have agreed to ask againe Mr. Fitch to speake with him in order to know Mr. Buckleys mynde fullye whether he will continue with us or no to preach the gospell." The application was unsuccessful and, 10 July, measures were taken to obtain another minister.

February 26, 1665/6, "Mr. Douglas and goodman Hough are voted by ye Towne to demand the 80 pound of Mr. Buckley which he stands ingaged to pay to ye towne."

There seems to have been no ill feeling between Mr. Bulkeley and the people, for, "though he had ceased to be considered as their minister, he remained in the town, and occupied the pulpit with acceptance until a successor was obtained"; moreover, on the day when the committee was appointed to "demand the 80 pound," it was "voated and agreed that Mr. Buckley for his time and paines taken in preaching the word of God to us since the time of his yeere was expired shall have thirty pounds to be gathered by a rate."

Miss Caulkins says: "The thirty pounds voted him by the town, was relinquished, in part payment of the eighty pounds for which he stood indebted. The town was inveterate and persevering in its attempts to recover the remaining fifty pounds, and kept up the dunning process until Mr. Bulkley, in 1668, mortgaged his house and lot to Samuel Shrimpton of Boston, and obtained means to liquidate the debt."

In 1666 Bulkeley was succeeded in the ministry at New London by Simon Bradstreet, for whose immediate accommodation "the house vacated by Mr. Bulkley was hired for one year from April 1, 1667."

June 1, 1666, "At a town meeting in Wethersfield, it was voted and agreed that there should forthwith a letter be sent (by M^r^ John Alyn,) to M^r^ Gershom Bulkeley, at New London, to invite and request him to come and to be helpful to us, and to settle among us in the work of the ministry, if God shall incline his heart thereto. The townsmen were chosen of the town to write the aforesaid letter . . . and to sign it in the name and behalf of the town." He accepted the invitation, on condition that he should have a colleague. Samuel Stone was accordingly associated with him till 9 June 1669, when Stone was discharged, and 27 October Bulkeley was ordained "by M^r^ Joseph Rowlandson and M^r^ Samuel Willard."

Bulkeley's talents and attainments gave him influence, and he was frequently appointed by the General Court on committees to settle ecclesiastical and civil controversies.

In July 1675, he participated in the opposition to Governor Andros, who came from New York to Saybrook, ostensibly to protect the inhabitants against the Indians, but really to get control of the part of Connecticut claimed by the Duke of York. "The letters addressed to the General Court" on this subject, which are printed in the Public Records of Connecticut, II, 582-584, "are in" Bulkeley's "handwriting, and suggest that he was magna pars of this affair, which was very adroitly managed." Andros's purposes were defeated.

During a great part of Philip's war Bulkeley served with the Connecticut troops. October 20, 1675, a movement being projected against the Indians, the General Court order him "to be improued in this present expedition, to be chyrurgion to our army"; and, 1 December, the Council "commissionat Major Treat to take the conduct of o^r^ army, and to take speciall care of the Reverend Mr. Bulkly and Mr. [James] Noyse." The labors of these men were not merely professional, for the surgeon and chaplain, with the commissioned officers, constituted the council of war.

January 14, 1675/6, "The Councill appointed Mr. John Brackett of Wallingford, to goe forthwth to New London, there to take care of and assist in the dressing of the wounded men, in the absence of Mr. Bulkley whilst he goeth out wth the army."

January 26, Bulkeley took his departure with Treat and his forces on an expedition against the Indians, and was absent till 5 February.

February 18, another expedition being planned, Bulkeley received orders "to hasten up to goe forth with the army." Early in March he was wounded in the thigh, a sudden attack being made on the forces by a small party of Indians in the vicinity of Wachusett, now Princeton, Mass. March 27, Israel Chauncey, then chaplain, wishing to be relieved on account of death and sickness in his family, writes: "I hope my brother Bulkly, provided he have an easy and able horse, will attend the army, upon their present motion; only, if it be expected, he doth desire care may be taken for an easy horse, and that it may be sent him this night."

April 10, 1676, "Bulkly is granted liberty to transport 60 bush: corn to Boston on Mr. Godall's Ketch, to purchass som necessaries and phissicall druggs"; the scarcity of corn in Connecticut being so great that the General Court had restricted its exportation. October 10, 1677, probably for the same object, he had "liberty to transport two hundred of deere skinns out of this Colony this next yeare, any law to the contrary notwithstanding."

May 13, "being informed that sundry wounded men are come to Mr. Bulckly," the General Court "desired Mr. Bulckly to take the care and trouble of dressing the s^{d} wounded souldiers till God bless his endeauoures with a cure; and Mr. Stone is desired and ordered to assist Mr. Bulkley in the worke of the ministry so long as Mr. Bulkly shall be improved as before."

Having been again, 15 May, "appoynted chirurgeon of the army," he accompanied Major John Talcott, who marched, early in June, with about two hundred and fifty English soldiers and two hundred Mohegan and Pequot Indians from Norwich to Wabaquasset, where they destroyed the fort and about forty acres of corn. "From thence," writes Talcott, "made Chanagongum [Dudley], in the Ninap [Nipmuck] country, on the 5th of June, and took 52 of the enemy, of which 19 slain and one shot and made an escape; and on the 6th instant made towards Quabaug and gained it on the 7th day about 12 o'clock, took 2 of the enemy . . . We sent 27 women and children to Norwich . . . This eighth instant we made Hadley." June 12, about seven hundred Indians, ignorant of the arrival of so large a body of troops, made an assault on Hadley and were driven off. The Massachusetts forces, who had been delayed, arriving soon afterward, the woods on both sides of the Connecticut River were scoured, and, 20 June, Talcott returned to Connecticut, a fortnight after which he was killing and capturing Indians with great success in Rhode Island, Bulkeley probably continuing with him.

January 2, 1676/7, the Council of Connecticut return Bulkeley "their hearty thankes . . . for his good service to the country this present war, and doe order the Treasurer to pay unto him the sume of thirty pownds as an acknowledgment . . . . besides the sattisfying of those that haue supplyed his place in the ministry."

October 20, 1676, the town of Wethersfield, "being informed by their Reverend pastor, M^{r} Bulkeley, that it was too hard for him and beyond his powers, by reason of the weakness of his voice to carry on the whole work of the ministry among us—did therefore by vote declare themselves freely willing to provide another minister to assist him, and to be a comfort and help to him in that work, and did declare it to be their desire that their Reverend pastor would afford them his advice and direction respecting a meet person for that work, for which they shall be thankful to him, and take it into serious consideration."

"Although Mr. Bulkley was in the pastoral office" at Wethersfield, "about ten years, nothing is known of the history of the church during his ministry. It does not appear, however, that anything occurred to interrupt its harmony, or hinder its prosperity. Mr. Bulkley was dismissed, at his own request, in the early part of 1677," and was succeeded in the same year by the Reverend Joseph Rowlandson, who had taken part in his ordination. He removed to Glastonbury, on the east side of the Connecticut River, where he practised medicine and surgery, to which and to politics he thenceforward devoted himself.

In 1679 he was Deputy from Wethersfield to the General Court.

He is "identified," says Chapin, "with the history of the Naubuc farms, by the great case of Bulkley and Hollister, which was before the General Court in 1684 and 1685, and which led to a re-survey of all the 'lots' from Hartford line to Nayaug, by order of the General Court, and which has been preserved in the Archives of the State."

Notwithstanding all the experience in the Colony of Bulkeley's distinguished ability as a surgeon, I find the following license issued 14 October, 1686: "This Court being well acquainted with the ability, skill and knowledg of Mr. Gershom Bulckley, in the arts of phissick and chirurgery, doe grant him full and free liberty and license to practice in the administration of phissick and chirurgerie as there shall be occasion and he shall be capeable to attend."

Though the General Court as early as 10 May 1666, requested the Deputy-Governor to administer the freeman's oath to Bulkeley among others, and he was afterward Deputy from Wethersfield, he says in 1689 that he is "no freeman of the Colony."

He received from Andros a commission as Justice of the Peace for the County of Hartford, which "was of course vacated by the revolution." He was an earnest advocate of Andros's policy at this time, and in a paper of "Objections," etc., of which he was the author, he declares himself "no Morellian nor Oliverian Republican, but a true friend to the true, legal English monarchy"; and his "subsequent writings," says J. H. Trumbull, "bear evidence that his loyalty was of the high-tory and passive obedience type."

He died 1 or 2 December, 1713. The Boston News Letter, in announcing his death, represents him as being "Eminent for his great Parts, both Natural and Acquired, being Universally acknowledged, besides his good Religion and Vertue, to be a Person of Great Penetration, and a sound Judgment, as well in Divinity as Politicks and Physick; having Served his Country many Years successively as a Minister, a Judge, and a Physitian with great Honour to himself and advantage to others," and adds, "He was Born in England . . . lived to the age of 78 Years"; the Wethersfield Records, according to Hinman, making him "77 years and 11 months old."

His monument is said to bear the following inscription:

"He was honorable in his descent, of rare abilities, extraordinary industry, excellent in learning, master of many languages; exquisite in his skill in divinity, physic, and law, and of a most exemplary and Christian life.

"In certam spem beata resurrectionis repositus."

In the Boston Athenaeum is a mutilated broadside containing several poetical effusions upon Bulkeley, with the name "Johannes Jamesius Londinensis. Brookfield Decemb. 7. 1713" attached, of which the following are specimens.

"On the DEATH of the very learned, Pious and Excelling Gershom Bulkley Esq. M.D. Who had his Mortality swallowed up of Life, December the Second 1713. Aetatis Suae 78.

B. Trumbull says: "Mr. Bulkley was viewed as one of the greatest physicians and surgeons then in Connecticut."

Charles Chauncy, H.U. 1721, writes: "I have heard [him] mentioned as a truly great man, and eminent for his skill in chemistry."

J. H. Trumbull says: "Bulkeley had few superiors in the colony, in natural ability, professional learning, or general scholarship. Overweening self-importance, obstinate adherence to his own opinions or prejudices, a litigious spirit, and the peculiarities of his political creed, detracted from his usefulness, and kept him almost constantly at strife with his parish, his neighbors, or the government of the colony."

Palfrey says: "He was always a discontented and troublesome person, and what he has written respecting these times is to be read with large allowance for his being a bigoted partisan of Andros."

Chapin says: "As a minister, Mr. B. was of the first class, while as a physician he stood at the head of the profession. He devoted much time to chemistry with its useful researches, and to philosophy as a cardinal branch of medical knowledge. Even to alchemy, with its visionary speculations, then so closely allied to chemistry, he seems to have paid considerable attention. He was master of several languages, among which may be reckoned the Greek, Latin, and Dutch. . . .

"He was a man of peace, but at the same time was one who expected unqualified obedience to authority. A slight questioning of this led to his resignation of the parish of New London, and something of the kind may have operated at Wethersfield. At least, as a politician he was opposed to the assumption of the government by the colonial authorities in 1689, after the time of Sir Edmund Andrus. The political sagacity and foresight of Mr. B. enabled him to foresee that the course the colonists were pursuing would finally lead to the triumph of those democratic principles which they all disavowed, and consequently he set his face against them."

A considerable part of his library, mostly medical, is in the Library of Trinity College at Hartford.

In the Library of Congress is a copy of John Tulley's Almanack printed at Boston in 1699, with the words "Gershom Bulkley's

Rev. Gershom Bulkeley was very largely responsible for the reprieve of Mary (Holbridge) Disbrow, convicted of witchcraft at Fairfield in 1692. His interest was no doubt based in part on the fact that in girlhood she had lived in his family in New London; and when the unfortunate woman was further slandered, he wrote in 1696 a fine, manly letter to his nephew Joseph^{3} Bulkley in Fairfield, refuting the slanders in forceful language.‡‡

14. (DR.) PETER[2] BULKELEY (Peter[1]), born at Concord, Mass., 12 Aug. 1643, died at Fairfield, Conn., in 1691; married MARGARET ———, who died before 1691.

He was a member of the class of 1662 at Harvard College, but did not receive a degree.

The will of Peter, dated 25 Mar. 1691; two eldest daughters Grace and Margrit; "that fflock bed yt is at Hanna Shermans there let it remaine: or if young James Bennit have it it shall be only upon Courtisey"; Peter to be apprenticed to James to learn weaving; mentioned a mare now at Daniel Silliman's; brother Gershom Bulkly sole Executor. The Executor refusing, administration was granted to John and Joseph Bulkley and Samuel Robenson, any two of them.

His inventory, dated 17 July 1691, included "medicene simple & in Composition" valued at £25; and "Books Inglish and Lattin." He was a physician.

On 29 June 1688 Peter Bulkley of Fairfield, apothecary, and Margaret his wife, mortgaged his dwelling house and land in Fairfield for £90 to Francis Foxcroft of Boston, merchant; deed witnessed by Thomas Hill and Frances Sedenham. On 31 Mar. 1691 Mstrs. Sedenham of Fairfield as Attorney to Francis Foxcroft of Boston entered a caveat against Peter Bulkly's house and land in Fairfield, in reference to a suit in law to be brought before the next Fairfield County Court. Claims which have been made to the effect that Peter's wife was a Foxcroft are based on nothing more substantial than these two entries in the land records. They prove nothing of the kind; and investigation leads to the negative conclusion that Margaret was not a Foxcroft.

Peter's five children are named in the will of his brother, Rev. Gershom, and there is nothing to indicate that there were other surviving children. Statements that he had a daughter Hannah who married Matthew Sherman seem to owe their origin to the clause in his will quoted above. A monument erected in 1885 in the Stratfield Cemetery names the wife of Matthew Sherman as "Hannah Bulkley."

15. ELIZABETH[3] BULKELEY (Edward[2], Peter[1]), born about 1638; died at Reading, Mass., 4 Sept. 1693; married first, at Concord, Mass., 7 Dec. 1665, REV. JOSEPH EMERSON, baptized at Bishops-Stortford, co. Hertford, Eng., 25 June 1620, died at Concord, Mass., 3 Jan. 1679/80; married second, 29 Mar. 1682, (CAPT.) JOHN BROWN, born about 1634, died at Reading, 12 Mar. 1717.

Mr. Emerson was a minister of the standing order of Puritan clergymen. Traditionally, he was educated in England, but may have studied at Harvard College. He first settled, with the family of his father Thomas, at Ipswich, Mass., and was admitted a freeman there, 19 Dec. 1648. He married first, probably as early as 1650, Elizabeth Woodmansey, by whom he had two children, Joseph and James.

He preached at York, Me., in 1648, and not long after became the minister at Wells, Me. Here, because of political dissensions which disturbed the church, his ministry was not successful, and he was dismissed about 1664. He settled in Mendon, Mass., 1 Dec. 1669, and remained there until the destruction of the town during King Philip's War; then he retired to Concord, where he died. Administration on his estate was granted to his widow Elizabeth, 10 Mar. 1679/80. Knowledge of his children is largely derived from deeds given by them in settlement of their interest in his estate.*

16. (Hon.) Peter[3] Bulkeley (Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Concord, Mass., 3 Jan. 1640/1, died there 24 May 1688; married at Concord, 16 Apr. 1667, Rebecca Wheeler, born at Concord, 6 Sept. 1645, died there 20 Feb. 1717/8. She married second, at Concord, 18 Dec. 1689, Jonathan Prescott, Sr.

He was graduated from Harvard College, 1660. His father's half-brother, Dr. Peter Bulkeley, younger than himself, was a member of the class of 1662, and has sometimes been confused with him.

The following account of Col. Bulkeley's career, is from an article written by Ruth Wood Hoag of Boston:*

On 11 May 1670, Peter Bulkeley was "admitted to freedome." Three years later, 7 May 1673, he was elected deputy for Concord to the General Court. He was re-elected for the three succeeding years, and during the last year, 1676, he served as Speaker. For eight years, from 1677 to 1684 inclusive, he was elected to the office of Assistant, and in 1682 and '83, he was, besides, Second Commissioner, and in 1684, First Commissioner in Reserve. During this time he frequently performed important duties. When various charges had been raised in England against Massachusetts, especially in regard to the colony's usurping authority over land claimed by Gorges in Maine and by Mason in New Hampshire, and also in regard to the great independence of the colony in making laws, it was Peter Bulkeley, who, with William Stoughton, was sent to England to treat with the King. They sailed 6 Sept. 1676, and returned in Dec. 1679. On 19 May 1680, Peter Bulkeley was appointed a member of a committee to revise the laws in accordance with the demands of the King. When the militia needed reorganization, Bulkeley, with the title of Major, was given command of half of the former regiment of Middlesex. This was 13 Oct. 1680. On 30 Mar. 1683, Major Bulkeley was appointed one of the magistrates to keep a court in Essex for the trial of the cases in reference to the claims of Mr. Mason in that county.

When, in 1686, the charter of the colony was revoked and Joseph Dudley was appointed President, Major Peter Bulkeley was one of the counsellors in the commission associated with Dudley. Later in the year, when Andros became governor, Bulkeley was named in his commission. He was reappointed in Apr. 1688. By the order of Gov. Andros issued 3 Mar. 1687, "for the establishment of courts of judicature and public justice," Joseph Dudley was made Chief Justice with Peter Bulkeley and William Stoughton his associates. But, if we are to credit Randolph's statements, Maj. Bulkeley was by this time quite infirm and hardly equal to the duties devolving upon him. Randolph says, in a letter to Mr. Blaithwait dated 28 July, 1686; "Honest Major Bulkeley is quite tyred out and can hardly be perswaded to come to Boston." Later, writing to Mr. Povey, 24 Jan. 1688, of the great necessity of sending judges from England, he says: "As for Mr. Bulkeley, he is stupified and drowned in melancholy and almost useless, being seldom with us." Sewall writes of his death thus: "May 25, 1688. Col. Peter Bulkeley of Concord, died, having languished for a long time. Died this Friday about eleven o'clock."

The original of the portrait of Hon. Peter Bulkeley is supposed to have been painted by Sir Godfrey Kneller during the time when Mr. Bulkeley was in England as agent for the Mass. colony, 1676-79. The original is in possession now of Mrs. George D. Sargent of Boston.

Administration on the estate of "Collonel Peter Bulkly of Concord" was granted, 1 Oct. 1689, to Mr. William Stoughton of Dorchester, Maj. Thomas Hinchman of Chelmsford, and Mr. Francis Burroughs of Boston, who apparently were creditors. The inventory included such items as silverware, a watch, six gold rings, a small rapier, gloves with gold fringe, coats with gold buttons, books, and hundreds of acres of land in Dunstable and Concord and at Nashobe; but the estate was heavily involved and was represented as insolvent. A list of books sent to New England by him, dated 1679 and 1681, gives the titles of about a hundred books. Distributions were made to the creditors, but the heirs were not named.

On 15 Oct. 1702, a petition was made by Thomas Henchman, Esq., of Chelmsford, Francis Burroughs of Boston, merchant (administrator to Major Bulkley late of Concord deceased), and others, asking the Mass. Assembly to validate their title to the Nashoba land, later Littleton, bought from the Indians. In March 1713, Joseph Bulkley, yeoman, and John Bulkley, merchant, sons and heirs of Peter Bulkley, late of Concord, Esq., deceased, referring to the petition [which had not been granted], sold their claim for five shillings to "our Worth^{y} Friend and Relation Robert Meers* of London now Resident at Boston," mariner; and on 22 Mar. 1713 Jonathan Prescott, Jr., chirurgeon, with Rebecca his wife, "Daughter of y^{e} within named Peter Bulkley Esq^{r}" joined with "our brethren Joseph & John Bulkley" in the sale.†

From this sale it appears that Joseph, John, and Rebecca were the only heirs; and if so, the eldest son Edward died without issue.

18. MARY[3] BULKELEY (Edward[2], Peter[1]), born [say 1653], died at Chelmsford, Mass., 2 Dec. 1700; married (REV.) THOMAS CLARKE, born at Cambridge, Mass., 2 Mar. 1652/3, died at Chelmsford, 7 Dec. 1704. He married second, at Billerica, Mass., 14 Oct. 1702, Elizabeth Whiting, daughter of Rev. Samuel Whiting, by whom also he had issue.

Mr. Clark was graduated from Harvard College in 1670, and was ordained in 1677, serving as minister in Chelmsford from that date until his death. He was an able man, and by the exercise of strong common sense, that (in so early a day) too many of the clergy were afraid to show, saved one woman, accused as a witch.†

Reasons for concluding that Rev. Thomas Clarke's wife was daughter of Rev. Edward Bulkeley will be found in the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, vol. 25, p. 89; and in Waters' Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 1, pp. 285-286. The chief evidence is the following receipt given by Rev. John Hancock, son-in-law of Rev. Thomas Clarke:

Administration on the estate of "M[r] Thomas Clerke" was granted, 31 Mar. 1705, to Edward Emerson* of Charlestown, with Capt. Josiah Parker and Andrew Bordman, both of Cambridge, as sureties. The inventory, made 18 Dec. 1704, showed house, land, cattle, clothing, furnishings, etc., the estate being of moderate size. The widow received her dower, but apparently most of the estate was sold for the benefit of creditors.

Children, born at Chelmsford:

52 +i. Lucy[4], b. Dec. 1679.
53 +ii. Elizabeth, b. [say 1681].

20. Sarah[3] Bulkley (Thomas[2], Peter[1]), born at Concord, Mass., 12 Aug. 1640, died at New Haven, Conn., in 1723; married Eleazer Brown, baptized at New Haven, 16 Oct. 1642, died there 23 Oct. 1714.

Administration on the estate of Eleazer Brown was granted, Jan. 1715, to the eldest son Gershom. The other heirs named were Daniel Brown, William Punchard, Mr. English, Elizabeth Todd, and Allexander Willmott.

Administration on the estate of the widow Sarah Brown was granted, 14 Mar. 1723, to Capt. John Merriman in right of his wife Elizabeth, and to Gershom Brown. On 2 Sept. 1723, Benjamin English, Joseph Brown, and Abraham Bradley desired administration on the widow's dower; already granted, as above. Distribution was made, 13 Sept. 1723, to eldest son Gershom; Daniel Brown; Capt. John Merriman and wife Elizabeth; Benjamin English and wife Rebecca; Mr. Punchard and wife Hannah; and Allexander Willmott.

Children, born at New Haven:

58 i. ELEAZER[4], b. 6 Jan. 1663/4; d. young.
59 +ii. GERSHOM, b. 9 Oct. 1665.

21. JOHN[3] BULKLEY (Thomas[2], Peter[1]), born at (Fairfield, Conn.?), died at Fairfield, in 1707; married ESTHER (BURR?), who died before him.

Inventory of John's estate taken 22 Apr. 1707. Administration granted to his daughter Sarah Bulkley and to Joseph Whelply. Distribution made to the five daughters, Sarah, Ester, Hannah, Elizabeth and Olive. Elizabeth chose Joseph Whelpley guardian in 1707; and in 1708, her guardian being deceased, the "Worshipfull Mr. Peter" [Burr] was appointed guardian to her. Sarah Bulkley was appointed guardian to Olive in 1707; and in April 1710 Olive chose her brother Joseph Perry guardian.

There are strong genealogical reasons for believing that John's wife Esther (whose name appears but once, in 1694) was daughter of Jehu and Esther (Ward?) (Boosey) Burr, and half-sister of Major and Judge Peter Burr, M.A. (Harvard College, 1690). The will of Jehu Burr, dated 11 Jan 1689 [1689/90] states that his daughter Esther had received her portion, signifying that she was then married.

Children:

65 i. SARAH[4], b. [say 1680]; d. abt. 1710; m. abt. 1708, JOSEPH PERRY, b. abt. 1676, d. at Fairfield, 9 Aug. 1753; no issue. He m. (2) abt. 1710, Deborah (Burr) Whelpley, and (3) abt. 1718, Mary Clugston.

67 iii. HANNAH, b. ———; d. at Fairfield between 1722 and 1725; m. PETER[3] BULKLEY, b. at Fairfield, 25 Dec. 1683, d. there 18 July 1753; no issue.
68 +iv. ELIZABETH, bapt. 26 Aug. 1694.
69 +v. OLIVE, bapt. 30 Aug. 1696.

22. JOSEPH[3] BULKLEY (Thomas[2], Peter[1]), born at (Fairfield, Conn.?), died at Fairfield, in 1719; married MARTHA BEERS, who died after 1720.

Administration on Joseph's estate was granted to his son Joseph, 6 Jan. 1719/20. Distribution was made to widow Martha; five sons, Joseph, Peter, Daniel, Thomas, and John; daughter Sarah Bulkley. John chose his mother Martha guardian. Mutual agreement was made 4 Jan. 1719/20 between Joseph, Peter, Daniel, Thomas and John Bulkley, and Josua Jennings in right of wife Sarah (sister to the said Bulkleys) to divide the estate of father Joseph deceased.

The will of James Beers, dated 14 Nov. 1694, named his daughter Martha wife of Joseph Bulkley; and the will of his widow, Martha (Barlow) Beers, dated 22 Feb. 1697/8, also named her daughter Martha Bulkley.

Children, born at Fairfield:

70 +i. JOSEPH[4], b. 9 May 1682.

23. REBECCA[3] BULKLEY (Thomas[2], Peter[1]), born at (Fairfield, Conn.?), ———, died at Fairfield in 1690; married JOSEPH WHELPLEY, who died at Fairfield in 1682.

The inventory of Joseph's estate was taken 7 Nov. 1682. He left a widow and three children, Sarah, Rebecca, and Joseph.

The inventory of Rebecca's estate (called widow of Joseph) was taken 19 Nov. 1690. Administration granted to John Bulkley

28. THOMAS[3] BULKELEY (John[2], Peter[1]), born probably at Fordham, co. Essex, Eng., about 1657, died ———; married ESTHER ———.†

In 1691 he had "gone into New England," according to the will of his aunt, Eleanor Trye, who also mentioned his son John. This enables us to identify him with the Thomas with wife Esther who had children recorded at Boston. Also, among the creditors of the estate of Hon. Peter[3] Bulkeley (Edward[2], Peter[1]), in 1689, was Esther Bulkley, wife and attorney for Thomas Bulkley.

In the records of the Public Record Office,‡ we find the petition of Thomas Bulkeley, 11 Feb. 1696/7, presented before The King's most Excellent Majesty in Councill. "Upon reading this day at the Board the petition of Thomas Bulkeley late Deputy Secretary of the Bahama Islands complaining of damages sustained by the Petitioner through the unlawful proceeding of Cadwallader Jones and Nicholas Trott late Governors successively of those Islands," the matter was referred to the Council of Trade.

Children, born at Boston, Mass.:

80 i. ELEANOR[4], b. 16 Sept. 1685; d. soon.
81 ii. THOMAS, b. 1 Nov. 1686; d. young.
82 iii. JOHN, b. 9 Nov. 1687; living in 1691, but apparently d. before 1720. [One John Bulkley m. at Boston, 20 July 1713, Sarah Lumley.]
83 iv. ESTHER (twin), b. 11 Oct. 1689; d. 2 Nov. 1689.
84 v. ELEANOR (twin), b. 11 Oct. 1689; d. 8 July 1690.
85 vi. THOMAS, b. 169–; living 1720 in the East Indies, where he was Factor at Fort St. George. An old paper dated London, 29 May 1745, states: "Mr. Thomas Bulkley is dead, and died without a will . . . . . he wrote a will but did not sign it, wherein he designed to give Capt. Peter Bulkley 500 pound a year sterling, and the rest to some friends in England."§

* She receipted for her portion, 29 Nov. 1694. She perhaps became the wife of Capt. Thomas Nash, but positive evidence is lacking.

‡ Library of Congress Transcripts, C. O. 5, 1287, p. 48.

§ New England Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 22, p. 191. The Capt. Peter Bulkley referred to was Peter[5] (John[4], Peter[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]).

29. Joseph[3] Bulkeley (John[2], Peter[1]), born about 1658, died ———; married ———.

Child:

86 i. Edward[4], b. before 1691; called son of Joseph in the will of his great-aunt, Elianor Trye; probably the "cousin" Edward Bulkley named in the will of his aunt Elizabeth[3] (Bulkeley) Faulkner. If identical with the latter, he had in 1720 a wife Sarah and a daughter Elizabeth, the latter being then a minor under 21 years.

32. (Dr.) Charles[3] Bulkeley (Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at (New London, Conn.?), died at New London, in 1692; married Hannah Raymond, born 8 Aug. 1688, died 28 Jan. 1742. She married second, at Wethersfield, 13 Mar. 1693, Thomas Avery, of New London.

Receipt dated New London, 20 Mar. 1695, of Thomas Avery who married the widow of Charles Bulkely. Also receipt, 4 June 1695, of Hannah Avrey of New London to my uncle Nehemiah Smith, Administrator of the Estate of my former husband Charles Buckly; mentions money left in my hands for my daughter Hannah Buckly, who is referred to as the only child.

Colonial Records. He was licenced to practice physic and chirurgery, Oct. 1687.

Child, born at New London:

87 +i. Hannah[4], bapt. 17 Apr. 1692.

33. Peter[3] Bulkeley (Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at (New London, Conn.?), about 1664, died at sea in a storm, about 22 Nov. 1701;* married at Wethersfield, Conn., 21 Mar. 1699/1700, Rachel Talcott, born ———, died at Windsor, Conn., 8 Jan. 1725/6. She married second, Henry Wolcott.

Administration on the estate of Peter, mariner, of Wethersfield, was granted 9 Mar. 1701/2 to his widow Rachel, with Ebenezer Kilbourn surety. The inventory mentioned money due at Delaware and parts of a broken sloop at Block Island. There being no issue, the children of Rev. Gershom Bulkeley quitclaimed their interest in the estate to Peter's widow, reserving to the heir of Charles Bulkeley of New London deceased her part if she should ever demand it.

* Recorded at Wethersfield; aged 37.

34. Dorothy[3] Bulkeley (Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at (Wethersfield, Conn.?), died at Glastonbury, Conn., in 1757; married at Wethersfield, 5 July 1693, (Lieut.) Thomas Treat, born at Wethersfield, 12 Dec. 1668, died at Glastonbury, 17 Jan. 1712/3.

The will of Thomas, dated 13 June 1709, proved 12 Mar. 1712/3; "called forthwith to go upon Her Majestie's service against Canada"; real estate to sons, eldest son Richard to have a double share, they to pay each of their sisters £100 at 18 years of age; Richard only to have single share if educated at college; wife Dorothy. Mutual agreement of the sons, Richard, Charles, Thomas, Isaac, and Dorotheus, for distribution, 17 July 1735.

Colonial Records. He was Deputy for Glastonbury, May 1703, Apr. 1707, and May and Oct. 1712. He was interpreter and manager of the Indians who served in the expedition to Wood Creek, Mar. 1710/1. He was commissioned Lieut. of the company in Glastonbury, May 1711.

Glastonbury Deeds. Dorothy Treat of Glastonbury conveyed, 23 July 1739, to her daughter Sarah Tryon. She conveyed, 30 Sept. 1751, to her grandson Joseph Stevens, and if he should die without heirs of his body, the land to return to all her children, namely, Richard, Charles, Thomas, and Isaac Treat, Dorotheus Treat, Dorothy Baulding, and Sarah Tryon. She conveyed, same date, to her son Dorotheus; and on 19 Nov. 1754 to her grandson Jonathan Treat and son Dorotheus Treat.

The records show that there was some friction between Dorothy and her brother, the Rev. John Bulkeley, after their father's death, and indicate that she was strong-minded and perhaps of a domineering personality. Administration on her estate was granted, 7 June 1757, to Isaac Treat and Joseph Hollister of Gloucester; Inventory, £9.0.7.

Children, recorded at Glastonbury:

88 +i. Richard[4], b. 14 May 1694.
89 +ii. Charles, b. 28 Feb. 1695/6.
90 +iii. Thomas, b. 3 May 1699.
91 +iv. Isaac, b. 15 Aug. 1701.

94 +vii. Sarah, b. 21 Jan. 1706/7.
95 +viii. Mary, b. 9 Jan. 1709/10.

35. Katharine[3] Bulkeley (Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Wethersfield, Conn., ———, died before 1712; married at Wethersfield, 23 Nov. 1704, Richard Treat, born about 1675, died at Wethersfield, 7 May 1713.

The will of Richard Treat of Wethersfield, dated 2 May 1713, proved 19 May 1713; mother Rebecca Treat; father James deceased; daughter and only child Katharine Treat; brothers and sisters (named) are to inherit if Katharine dies before marriage or 18 years. On 9 Oct. 1722, Katharine, aged 17, chose Joseph Treat of Wethersfield for her guardian.

Child:

96 +i. Katharine[4], b. 26 Aug. 1706.

36. (Capt.) Edward[3] Bulkeley (Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Wethersfield, Conn., about 1677, died there 27 Aug. 1748; married at Concord, Mass., 14 July 1702, Dorothy Prescott, born at Concord, 31 May 1681, died at Wethersfield, 30 Nov. 1760.

The will of Capt. Edward, dated 24 Aug. 1748, recorded 4 Oct. 1748; having attained the age of 71 years; wife Doratha; eldest son Charles, legacies included silver-headed cane and law books "which I lent to my Cousin John Bulkley of Colchester"; six daughters, Elisabeth Smith, Sarah Stow, Rebeckah Treat, Dorothy Curtis, Abigail Bulkley, and Lucy Bulkley; sons Peter, Gershom, and Jonathan.

Colonial Records. He was a member of the Committee or Agents for Wethersfield, May 1711; Deputy for Wethersfield to the Conn. General Assembly, Oct. 1714, May and Oct. 1715, Oct. 1716, May 1721, and Oct. 1724. He was a Justice of the Peace for Hartford County, Oct. 1714, May 1715, and from 1744 until his death in 1748. He was commissioned Capt. of the Company at Stepney parish, May 1727.

Children:

97 +i. Charles[4], b. 25 Mar. 1703.
98 +ii. Elizabeth, b. 24 Jan. 1704/5.
99 +iii. Sarah, b. 8 Feb. 1706/7.

101 v. Peter, b. 19 Mar. 1710/1; d. 31 Mar. 1711.
102 +vi. Peter, b. 11 Mar. 1711/2.
103 +vii. Gershom, b. 29 July 1714.

104 +viii. Dorothy, b. 11 Sept. 1716.
105 +ix. Jonathan, b. abt. 1719.
106 +x. Abigail, b. abt. 1721.
107 +xi. Lucy, b. abt. 1724.

37. (Rev.) John[3] Bulkeley (Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Wethersfield, Conn., in 1679, died at Colchester, Conn., 9 June 1731; married at New London, Conn., 1701, Patience Prentice.

He was graduated from Harvard College in 1699, studied divinity and was ordained as minister of the church at Colchester, Conn., December 20, 1703.

He took very high rank among the clergymen of New England. He wrote the preface to Wolcott's "Meditations." He published: election sermon (1713) entitled, "The Necessity of Religion in Societies"; "Inquiry Into the Right of the Aboriginal Natives to the Land in America" (1724); "An Impartial Account of a Late Debate at Lyme Upon the Following Points; Whether it be the Will of God that the Infants of Visable Believers should be Baptized; whether sprinkling be lawful and sufficient; and whether the Present Way of Supporting Ministers by a Public Rate or Tax be Lawful."

Dr. Chauncy wrote of Bulkeley: "Mr. John Bulkeley I have seen and conversed with, though so long ago that I formed no judgment of him from my own knowledge. Mr. Whittlesey of Wallingford, Mr. Chauncy of Durham and others I could mention ever spoke of him as a first-rate genius, and I have often heard that Dummer and he, who were classmates in college, were accounted the greatest geniuses of their day. The preference was given to Dummer in regard to quickness, brilliancy and wit; to Bulkeley in regard to solidity of judgment and strength of argument. Mr. Gershom Bulkeley, father of John, I have heard mentioned as a truly great man and eminent in his skill in chemistry, and the father of Gershom, and grandfather of John, Peter Bulkeley of Concord, was esteemed in his day as one of the greatest men in this part of the world. But by all that I have been able to collect, the Colchester Bulkeley surpassed his predecessors in the strength of his intellectual power."

Administration on his estate was granted 22 Sept. 1731 to Patience Bulkeley and his son John. Distribution ordered 10 May 1754 to widow Patience; heirs of John Bulkeley a double share; Gershom, Charles, Peter, and Oliver Bulkeley, Sarah Bulkeley alias Welles, Dorothy Bulkeley, Patience Bulkeley alias Lord, and Lucy Bulkeley alias Lord.

There had also been a mutual agreement of heirs dated 17 July 1733, signed by the children John, Gershom, Charles, and Peter Bulkeley, Sarah Trumble, Dorothy Bulkeley, and Patience Bulkeley, by which "our mother" was to have half of the personal estate and also the negro man Cesar; John to have our father's library, except Charles to have "such Physicall books are in the Inglish Tongue." At the acknowledgment of this agreement in Court, 22 Dec. 1742, Sarah Trumble was called Sarah Wells.

Children, born at Colchester:

108 +i. SARAH[4], b. 8 Apr. 1702.
109 ii. DAUGHTER, b. 6 May 1704; d. 6 May 1704.
110 +iii. JOHN, b. 19 Apr. 1705.
111 iv. DOROTHY, b. 28 Feb. 1706/7; d. at Colchester, in 1785. Administration on the estate of Dorothy Bulkeley was granted, 1 Mar. 1785, to Roger Bulkeley, with Ebenezer Kellogg, Jr., as surety; estate insolvent.
112 +v. GERSHOM, b. 4 Feb. 1708/9.

38. GRACE[3] BULKLEY (Peter[2], Peter[1]), born [say 1670], died ———; married at Wethersfield, Conn., 20 Sept. 1692, (CORP.) EBENEZER KILBOURN, born at Wethersfield, about 1665, died there 16 Dec. 1711.

Administration on the estate of Ebenezer was granted, 4 Feb. 1711/2, to his widow Grace and brother Abraham Kilbourn. Ebenezer of Fairfield (a minor son) chose George Kilbourn guardian, 4 Jan. 1713/4, but the Court appointed Michael Griswold of Wethersfield, the boy being 18 years old. Grace Kilbourn (Michael Griswold surety) was appointed guardian, 4 Jan. 1713/4, to Josiah (aged 12), Daniel (9), George (1½), Margaret (7), and Sarah (4). Distribution ordered to widow Grace; eldest son Ebenezer; and to Eleazer, Josiah, Daniel, George, Grace, Margaret, and Sarah. Eleazer was appointed, 7 Nov. 1727, guardian to his brother George (aged 15); a year later, George asked to have Eleazer removed, and chose Samuel Hunn of Wethersfield guardian. Grace Kilbourn, widow of Ebenezer, petitioned to have her dower set out, 4 Mar. 1736/7. The daughter Grace was wife of Benjamin Goodrich in 1731.

He was Lister of Wethersfield 1694, Constable 1706 and 1707, a Grand Juror of Hartford County 1703 and 1705; Corporal in 1703 in charge of a house fortified for defense against the Indians; Surveyor 1710.

Children, born at Wethersfield:

121 +ii. EBENEZER, b. 27 Mar. 1696.
122 iii. ELEAZER, b. 26 July 1698; d. at Wethersfield, in 1761, unm. Administration on his estate was granted, 11 May 1761, to Josiah Smith. Distribution made, 20 Nov. 1762, to heirs of Ebenezer Kilborn, Daniel Kilborn, George Kilborn, heirs of Josiah Kilborn, Grace Goodrich, and Sarah Naughton.
123 +iv. JOSIAH, b. 8 June 1702.
124 v. DANIEL, b. 5 May 1705; d. after 1774; m. MARY (STEPHENS) CUSHING; no issue. He wasted his property, and in 1766 had an overseer appointed.
125 vi. MARGARET, b. 4 Oct. 1707; d. after 1714, unm.
126 +vii. SARAH, b. 13 Apr. 1710.
127 +viii. GEORGE, b. 24 Apr. 1712.

40. (CAPT.) GERSHOM[3] BULKLEY (Peter[2], Peter[1]), born at (Fairfield, Conn.?), [say 1676], died at Fairfield, 9 Apr. 1753; married first, at Norwalk, Conn., about 1700, EUNICE HANFORD, born at Norwalk, Mar. 1676, died by 1706; married second, by 1706, RACHEL TALCOTT, born at Hartford, Conn., 23 Feb. 1681/2, died before 1753.

The will of Gershom, dated 5 Apr. 1753, proved 30 Apr. 1753; daughters Eunice, Rachel, and Grace, £100 apiece; sons Gershom, Hezekiah, Peter, and Talcott.

Gershom Bulkley of Fairfield and Eunice Bulkley his daughter conveyed, 22 Jan. 1722/3, interest in Norwalk property which came by Gershom's former wife Eunice, who was one of the daughters of Rev. Thomas Hanford.

His second wife, mother of the rest of his children, was a daughter of Lt.-Col. John Talcott of Hartford, and a half-sister of Gov. Joseph Talcott.

Colonial Records. He was commissioned Quartermaster of the Troop of Horse in Fairfield County, Oct. 1718; Cornet of the same, Oct. 1722; and Captain, May 1726. In 1731 he served on a committee appointed by the Assembly to select a site for the meeting-house in New Canaan parish.

41. PETER[3] BULKLEY (Peter[2], Peter[1]), born at Fairfield, Conn., 25 Dec. 1683, died there 18 July 1753; married first, HANNAH[4] BULKLEY, who died between 1722 and 1725; no issue; married second, ABIGAIL ———, born about 1702, died at Fairfield, 12 Jan. 1795.

The will of Peter, dated 17 July 1753, proved 27 Aug. 1753; wife Abigail; daughter Hannah; son Jonathan.

The will of Abigail, dated 15 Nov. 1794, proved 17 Jan. 1795; daughter Hannah Burr; daughter-in-law Hannah, widow of son Jonathan; children of son Jonathan,—Peter, Jonathan, Abigail, Thomas, Hannah, Harry, and James.

This Peter was a cooper by trade, so his father's instructions to have him taught the weaver's trade were evidently not carried out. He was sometimes known as Senior to distinguish him from a cousin Peter who was born five months later (21 May 1684), and this other Peter actually was a weaver. This has occasioned much confusion, and heretofore it has always been stated that it was this Peter, the son of Dr. Peter, who was a weaver and married Hannah Ward. In making such a radical alteration in the hitherto accepted pedigree, the reasons ought to be stated.

This Peter was called Sr. in 1733 when his nephew Eleazer Osborn chose him for guardian. On 9 May 1722, Peter Bulkley, cooper, and Hannah his wife, conveyed in trust certain buildings which descended to said Hannah from her father John Bulkley; the deed states that Hannah's "weakness and sickness hath been very great" and refers to Peter's "tender care and great kindness."

* Doubtless she married, but her history has not been ascertained.

Against this we may set certain records of the other Peter. On 31 Mar. 1726, Peter Bulkley, Junior, weaver, conveyed land which formerly belonged to Sarah Wilson and John Bulkley deceased, and referred to his brother Daniel. This and other deeds make it certain that it was the younger Peter who was the weaver. The distribution of the estate of the Peter who married Hannah Ward calls him Peter "ye Second." The children of Peter and Hannah (Ward) Bulkley, furthermore, gave a conveyance in which they called themselves "children and heirs of Peter Bulkley ye Second deceased."

It will be noted that the two Peters were born within a year of each other and died within a year of each other, one in his 69th year, the other in his 70th. Both were in their 69th year when one died, and would have been in their 70th year when the other died, so their parentage cannot be determined by the statements on their gravestones. Former accounts have contained erroneous identifications of these two men, based on the assumption that Dr. Peter's son must have been the weaver, and that "ye Second" or "Junior" was applied to a man whose father had the same name. At that period, the terms "Sr." and "Jr." were employed to distinguish between living men of the same name, according to their age, and regardless of the form of relationship, whether father and son, uncle and nephew, or cousins. On 3 Mar. 1718/9, Peter Bulkley Junr. conveyed land to "my cousen" Peter Bulkley Senr. In view of all this, there can be no question as to the identity of the two Peters.

Peter Bulkley, cooper, renewed his Covenant at Fairfield church, 16 Oct. 1726. In 1753 James Morehouse gave a conveyance with the approval and consent of his father-in-law and overseer, Peter Bulkley. In 1755 Gold Selleck Silliman, who by execution had taken part of the homelot where James Morehouse lately dwelt, conveyed it to widow Abigail Bulkley, and on 24 Mar. 1764 she reconveyed it to her daughter Hannah Morehouse.

42. Dorothy[3] Bulkley (Peter[2], Peter[1]), born at (Fairfield, Conn.?), say 1686, died at Fairfield in 1734; married (Sergt.) David Osborn, who died at Fairfield in 1727.

Administration on David's estate was granted, 19 Dec. 1727, to Capt. John Osborn and Dorothy Osborn. Distribution, 15 Mar. 1732/3, to widow; eldest son William; Sarah wife of Joseph Sherwood; 2d daughter Dorothy Osborn; 3d daughter Hannah Osborn; 4th daughter Grace Osborn; 2d son Eleazer; youngest son David. On 1 May 1733, Dorothy chose her mother Dorothy guardian, and the latter was appointed guardian to Hannah, Grace, and David; Eleazer chose Peter Bulkley Sr. for his guardian.

William Osborn was appointed guardian to Grace and David, children of Dorothy Osborn, deceased, 7 May 1734, and ten days later he was granted administration on her estate. Grace (daughter of David) chose Joseph Sherwood guardian, 5 Sept. 1738. David Osborn chose Peter Bulkley guardian, 2 Mar. 1741/2.

194 ix. Charles, b. 28 Oct. 1724, d. at Halifax, Nova Scotia, in 1757, unm. In his will, dated at Halifax, 1 Aug. 1757, attested there by the witnesses 5 Aug. 1757, and proved in Middlesex County, Mass., 12 Apr. 1758, he called himself of Littleton, "Captain of a Company of Rangers in His Majesty's Service in the Forces commanded by His Excellency the Earl of Loudoun that are going on the present Expedition," and gave all his property to "my beloved Brother and ffriend Peter Bulkeley."

50. (Capt.) John[4] Bulkeley (Peter[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Concord, Mass., 10 July 1673, died at Boston, Mass., before 1763; married at Boston, Mass., 25 Oct. 1705, Mary Meers, baptized in 1686, died before 1763, his third cousin, being great-granddaughter of Martha (Bulkeley) Mellowes.

The inventory of John Bulkley, late of Boston, shopkeeper, deceased, was taken 15 July 1763. Administration on his estate was granted to Thomas Hancock, Esq., with John Hancock and Abijah Brown, both merchants, as sureties.

Thomas Hancock, Esq., with Nathaniel Glover and John Hancock, both merchants, as his sureties, all of Boston, was appointed Administrator, 14 July 1763, of the estate of Mary Bulkley, widow, of Boston deceased. Inventory of land in Littleton, Middlesex County, was made by the same appraisers who appraised the land in her son's estate (below),—doubtless the same land.

Peter Bulkley of Boston, Mariner, "being bound to Parts beyond Seas," made his will 14 May 1756, proved 8 June 1757; gave all the estate real and personal in Great Britain and elsewhere to my honored father and mother, John and Mary Bulkley of Boston, during their lives and to the longest liver of them, and after their decease the estate to go to sister Elizabeth wife of Peter Prescott, and to my two nieces Martha and Mary Bulkley,* one half to said sister and the other half to be divided equally between said two nieces; the sister to pay £20 to Hannah Wheeler for her Care in our family; said parents to act as joint Executors; "I will Peter Prescott shall have nothing to do with his wifes half of my estate." Inventory taken 16 Sept. 1763 of lands in Middlesex County owned by "Captain" Bulkley, the appraisers being Dr. Joseph Lee of Concord and Stephen Shadock of Littleton. Thomas Hancock, Esq., with John Hancock, merchant, and Nathaniel Glover, merchant, all of Boston, sureties, was appointed 25 July 1763, Administrator cum testamento annexo.

318 +iv. GERSHOM, b. 5 Mar. 1717.
319 +v. RICHARD, b. 22 July 1719.

88. (Rev.) Richard[4] Treat (Dorothy[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Glastonbury, Conn., 14 May 1694, died before 1757; married 7 Aug. 1728, Susannah Woodbridge, baptized 6 Feb. 1703/4.

Richard Treat, M.A. (Yale College 1719), studied theology, and preached in 1720 to the North Society in Stonington, Conn. In 1721 he filled out the summer term as rector of Hopkins Grammar School, New Haven. He preached in Brimfield, Mass., where a church was gathered 18 Nov. 1724, and he was ordained pastor the same day. The town had difficulty in raising his salary and other causes of disaffection seeming to have arisen, he was dismissed by a council 27 Mar. 1734, and returned at once to Glastonbury. Until June 1735 he taught and preached to the Indians in Middletown, Conn.; but being disappointed in obtaining a regular salary from the Society in Scotland for Propagating Christian Knowledge, felt obliged to desist. For several months beginning in the Fall of 1738, he preached in the parish of Eastbury (now Buckingham) in Glastonbury. In 1742 he was again in Middletown, but by 1748 had settled in Sheffield, Mass. His name is starred (for death) in the Catalogue of Graduates printed in 1757. (Yale Biographies, I. 212.)

His wife was a daughter of Rev. Timothy Woodbridge, (Harvard College, 1676), of Hartford; she is said to have married second, ——— Skinner. By family tradition, Richard is said to have died on his way to Quebec as a soldier in the French and Indian War; possibly he served as Chaplain.

89. (Rev.) Charles[4] Treat (Dorothy[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Glastonbury, Conn., 28 Feb. 1695/6, died before 1757; married 12 Oct. 1727, Sarah Gardiner, born about 1709, died at Glastonbury, 2 Apr. 1744.

Charles Treat, M.A. (Yale College 1722), studied theology and appears to have preached for a while; in April 1727 he was one of the candidates for the vacant pulpit in Glastonbury. His marriage the same year to a daughter of John Gardiner, the third proprietor of Gardiner's Island, brought him some wealth, and thenceforth he devoted himself to agriculture on his paternal estate. (Yale Biographies, I. 267.)

Colonial Records. He was Deputy for Glastonbury to the Conn. Assembly, May 1728.

The will of John Gardiner, dated 14 Dec. 1737, proved 1 Aug. 1738, bequeathed £100 to his daughter Sarah Treat, and £150 to each of his grandchildren, Dorothy, Sarah, and Jonathan Treat. Charles Treat called himself of New London in a deed in 1736.

110. (Col.) John[4] Bulkeley (John[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Colchester, Conn., 19 Apr. 1705, died there 21 July 1753; married first, (recorded at Colchester), 29 Oct. 1738, Mary (Adams) Gardiner, born at New London, Conn., 15 Mar. 1713/4, died at Colchester, 24 Jan. 1749/50; married second, at Colchester, 16 Apr. 1751, Abigail (Marsh) Hastings, born about 1718, died at Colchester, 24 June 1786. She married third, at Colchester, 5 Nov. 1755, Rev. Ephraim Little.

An inventory of the estate of Hon. John Bulkeley was exhibited 7 Jan. 1754. A distribution was exhibited 7 Dec. 1767; to Mrs. Abigail Little the Relict; eldest son Eliphalet; second son Charles; eldest daughter Lydia; second daughter Mary; and youngest daughter Lucy.

Colonial Records. He was Deputy for Colchester to the Conn. General Court at twenty-eight sessions, from May 1729 to May 1743 inclusive (except May 1739 session), being Clerk of the House, Oct. 1734 and May 1736. He served on many important committees, including the committee to revise the laws in 1742. He served as Assistant for eleven terms, from 1743 until his death in 1753. He was often Agent for the Colony between 1738 and 1743, particularly in the Mohegan Indian Controversy, and was Colonial Agent to Great Britain in Oct. 1745, and a Commissioner on the Mass. boundary, May 1747. He was commissioned Capt. of the 1st Company, Colchester, May 1732; Capt. of the 2d Troop, Hartford County, May 1736; and Col. of the 12th Regt., Oct. 1739. He was a Justice of the Peace for Hartford County from 1731 to 1742 inclusive; Judge of Probate, District of East Haddam, from 1741 to 1753 inclusive, and Judge of the Superior Court for eight terms, from 1745 to 1752 inclusive.

John Bulkeley, A.M. (Yale College 1726), married first, Mary widow of Dr. Jonathan Gardiner, of Gardiner's Island and New London (who was lost at sea in 1735), only surviving daughter of Rev. Eliphalet Adams (Harvard College 1694), of New London. His second wife was Abigail widow of Dr. Waitstill Hastings, of Hatfield, Mass. (who died in 1748), and daughter of John Marsh, of Hadley, Mass. In the religious dissensions which resulted in Conn. from the Great Revival, Mr. Bulkeley was a staunch supporter of the stringent measures of government; and to this attitude he is said by the historian Backus to have owed his elevation to the Council, in 1743, in the stead of a sympathizer with the revivalists. A career of wide usefulness was interrupted by his death, from an apoplectic fit, at the age of 48. (Yale Biographies, I. 326).

‡ Children were born on these dates, but their names have been frayed from the record.

Child by second wife, born at Farmington:

533. iv. MARTHA, b. perhaps 13 Dec. 1749.*

128. EUNICE[4] BULKLEY (Gershom[3], Peter[2], Peter[1]), baptized at Fairfield, Conn., 4 Jan. 1701/2, died ———; married about 1723, ELEAZER SMITH, baptized at Fairfield, 19 Apr. 1702, died at Redding, Conn., 2 Oct. 1774.

Eunice Bulkley conveyed her interest in the Norwalk property of her mother (Eunice Hanford), 22 Jan. 1722/3. Eleazer Smith and Eunice his wife renewed their covenant in the Fairfield church in Oct. 1724, and had a child baptized a few days later.

John Smith conveyed Fairfield realty to his dutiful son Eleazer, 16 Apr. 1726. On 4 Apr. 1737, Eleazer of Fairfield sold to Capt. Gershom Bulkley "the homestead on which I now dwell," and on 1 Feb. 1738/9 Eleazer called himself "of Reading" in a deed. He conveyed land to his sons in 1761 and 1762.

The son Nehemiah Smith named a son Hanford, which was the name of Eunice Bulkley's mother.

The marriage of Eunice to Eleazer Smith is based on the above circumstantial evidence.

162. (REV.) JOSEPH[5] EMERSON (Edward[4], Elizabeth[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Chelmsford, Mass., 20 Apr. 1700, died at

* Perhaps other children.

Malden, Mass., 13 July 1767; married 27 Dec. 1721, Mary Moody, born 1702, died at Malden, 15 Mar. 1779.

Mr. Emerson was graduated from Harvard College, 1717; taught school in York, Newbury, and Malden; in 1719 went to live with his uncle Waldo in Boston, where he completed his studies in divinity. In 1721, he was invited to preach at Malden, and was ordained there 31 October. His pastorate there lasted forty-six years until his death. His sermons were carefully prepared, written out, and delivered with earnestness and force; several of them were published.

On 31 July 1724, his residence was burned down. He assembled his family and sang, "There is a house not made with hands." A public contribution was taken up; within a short time a new parsonage was erected. A new meeting house was built in 1730. Dr. Wellman spoke of Mr. Emerson's "high reputation as a scholar, who delighted in scholarly studies. Though a prolonged and fierce conflict raged in the town, during his ministry, respecting the location of the meeting house, yet he was not reproached by any as the cause. He was a positive man, spoke openly and preached faithfully, but appears to have retained the respect of both parties. He must have been a man of vigorous health, as during his long ministry of more than forty-five years, he lost but two Sabbaths by sickness."

His wife was daughter of a noted minister, Rev. Samuel Moody of York, Me.

The town record of his death states that he "had been in the Judgment of charity a faithfull minister here, and that for the space of forty and five years, deceased in the evening very soon after lying down to sleep who was cheirly and in health before."

She married second, at Boston, 3 Mar. 1763, Thomas Cobb, Esq., of Attleboro.

He was a shop-keeper, of Boston, and left a large estate inventoried at £11,310.8.2. He received land in Lunenburg, Mass., by conveyance from his father in 1729. He was chosen and sworn a Clerk of the Market, 1728; chosen as Constable, 1736, but paid fine; and chosen and sworn one of the Hogreeves in 1737. He was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co., 1729.

Administration on the estate of Edward Emerson, Jr., late of Boston, shopkeeper, was granted, 5 June 1740 to Hannah Emerson, widow, and Timothy Emerson, merchant.

Suffolk County Deeds. Thomas Cobb and Hannah his wife of Taunton, Mass., appointed Joseph Turell of Boston their attorney, 28 Aug. 1773, reciting that Edward Emerson of Boston died leaving Hannah his widow (now the wife of Thomas Cobb), and also two sons Joseph and Edward, since which the said Joseph died leaving neither wife or child and after that the said Edward (the son), died leaving a widow, etc.

His will, dated 12 Nov. 1763, proved 20 Feb. 1769, called him of Boston, mariner, and bequeathed all his estate to his wife Mary, making her and Melatiah Bourn joint executors. The inventory, which called him "late of Portsmouth," showed an estate of £1216, and included land in Grafton, Lunenburg, Fitchburg, and Ashby.

166. (REV.) JOHN[5] EMERSON (Edward[4], Elizabeth[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Charlestown, Mass., 27 Feb. 1705/6, died at Topsfield, Mass., 11 July 1774; married at Malden, Mass., 23 Oct. 1729, ELIZABETH PRATT, born at Malden, Mass., 1708, died at Topsfield, 1 Apr. 1790.

Mr. Emerson was graduated from Harvard College, 1726; ordained and settled as town minister in Topsfield, 27 Nov. 1728. His brother, Rev. Joseph Emerson of Malden, was one of the clergymen officiating at the ordination, and preached from Matthew 4:21-22: And going from thence He saw other two Brethren, James y^e^ son of Zebedee & John his Brother, and He called y^m^, and they immediately left y^e^ ship & y^r^ Father and followed Him.

He was a pious clergyman, of respectable attainments, whose long ministry of forty-six years flowed on in quiet and harmony. His people, however, were often very remiss in the payment of his salary; and on one occasion he made a formal request for a council of dismissal, but the church unanimously objected. Furthermore, the gradual depreciation of the currency reduced his nominal salary to a mere pittance. After repeated and reasonable requests for an increase, it was finally granted.

His will, dated 21 June 1774, gave to his wife Elizabeth the mansion house, a third of the real estate, three cows, six sheep, the use of the riding horse and chaise, and all provisions in the house, also £9.17.4 until the decease of his mother-in-law, Mary

Pratt; to son Edward, £286.13.4; to son Elihu, £106.15.3, and the farm in Westfield, Hampshire County; to son Joseph, £240, besides the liberal education he has had, also half the right of land in Barnstead, N. H.; to six daughters, Elizabeth Gould, Rebekah Hogdon, Mary Baker, Dorcas Porter, Hannah How, and Dorothy Emerson, £164.8.10 each, and household goods after wife's decease; to Sarah Emerson (under 18 years of age) that lives with my son Edward, £16 at 18 years or marriage; to son Thomas (Executor), £733, he to erect gravestones for myself and wife.

The will of Elizabeth Emerson, widow, dated 25 July 1785, proved 8 June 1790, mentioned Thomas Emerson, Elihu Emerson's children, Edward Emerson, Joseph Emerson, and the six daughters of Rev. Joseph Emerson.

175. (Rev.) Daniel[5] Emerson (Peter[4], Elizabeth[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Reading, Conn., 20 May 1716, died at Hollis,

* According to the Eaton Genealogy, there was a tenth child, William, who married Sarah Wilson; and she married second, James Porter.

N. H., 30 Sept. 1801; married 7 Nov. 1744, HANNAH[6] EMERSON, born at Malden, Mass., 3 Dec. 1722, died at Hollis, 28 Feb. 1812.

Mr. Emerson was graduated from Harvard College, 1739, and in 1743 was called to the ministry in the West Parish (second society) in Dunstable, Mass., which shortly after was incorporated as the town of Hollis, N. H. Here he served faithfully for over fifty years, until in Nov. 1793, Rev. Eli Smith, who had married Mr. Emerson's granddaughter, was settled as his colleague. In 1755, during the French and Indian War, Mr. Emerson officiated as Chaplain to the famous Rangers captained by Robert Rogers, and also to the regiment commanded by Col. Joseph Blanchard of Dunstable. On this service, he kept a journal, which has appeared in print.* He served about six months, and also the same length of time in 1758 as Chaplain to Col. Hart's Regt. It is told of him, when the regiment was on inspection, that he presented the Bible as his arms to the inspecting officer.

In addition to his ministerial duties, Mr. Emerson aided the cause of education in this frontier town by keeping the Grammar School. He was a famous skater and wrestler. "Under the preaching of Whitefield he had forsaken a wild life at Harvard College, and followed the great preacher from place to place. He received into his own strong, ardent, impulsive nature, the influence of the mighty man of God. The disciple, in his turn, became a flaming "New Light." He was a kind of Congregational bishop in his region. No man in southern New Hampshire was so extensively known, whose influence was so powerful on the surrounding ministers and churches."

John[5] Bulkeley (Joseph[4], Peter[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Concord, Mass., in 1703, died at Groton, Mass., 3 Dec. 1772; married first, Abigail[5] Wright, born at Concord, 9 Oct. 1707, died at Groton, 15 Apr. 1747; married second, at Westford, Mass., 29 June 1748, Mary Underwood, born 28 Oct. 1711, died at Groton in 1799.

He was graduated from Harvard College; commissioned in 1767, Colonel of the Middlesex County Regt. His first wife's great-great-grandmother was Martha (Bulkeley) Mellowes, sister of Rev. Peter Bulkeley.

"He left a sorrowful widow, four Daughters & one son, named John, by whom this family tomb was built."

John Bulkley of Groton, Esq., by his will dated 23 Nov. 1772, proved 22 Dec. 1772, gave to wife Mary the use and improvement of one third part of the house where I live and other property, and life use of specified movables; to daughter Mary wife of Samuel Tuttle, £1 and all the furniture that was conveyed to me "by her late Husband Abel Lawrence Esq[r] Deceased" by his deed of 1767; to grandson Abel Lawrence, £20; to granddaughter Mary Lawrence, £10; to each of daughters, Rebecca Prescott, Abigail Ames, and Elizabeth Green, £100, part now and part after wife's decease; to daughter Abigail, with same proviso, "my Great Bible," and to daughter Elizabeth my silver Tankard; six months after wife's demise all household goods to be equally divided between the four daughters, Mary, Rebecca, Abigail, and Elizabeth; to son, John Bulkley, Jr., remainder of estate and a clock, also "my armour," he to be Executor. Citation 18 Dec. 1772 to Samuel Tuttle and Mary his wife, to Jonas Prescott and Rebecca his wife, to Amos Ames and Abigail his wife, daughters of the deceased, to the widow, and to John Bulkley.

The will of Mary Bulkley of Groton, dated 5 May 1792, gave legacies to her three brothers, Jonathan Underwood of Marlborough, N. H., Timothy Underwood of Putney, Vt., and James Underwood, Esq., of Merrimack, and various other relatives of her own, also legacies to John-Bulkley Lawrence, son of Abel Lawrence of Salem, distiller, to Betsey-Bulkley Ames, daughter of Amos Ames of Groton, to Abigail wife of Amos Ames, and to Jonas Prescott of Westford; her inventory was taken 16 Oct. 1799; estate insolvent.

Children by first wife, first three born at Concord, the rest at Groton:*

853 +i. MARY[6], b. 9 Jan. 1728/9.
854 +ii. REBECCA, b. 2 Nov. 1730.

Children by second wife, born at Groton:

860 viii. JOHN, b. 22 June 1749; d. 16 Dec. 1774. He was graduated from Harvard College, 1769, and became the first lawyer in Groton. "A good natural genius improv'd by a liberal Education." In his will, made 2 Dec. 1774, proved 10 Jan. 1775, he gave to his mother Mary Bulkley the life use of the homestead farm; nephew John-Bulkley Green to have said farm when of age and after decease of testator's mother, he paying £100 to my niece Polly Green, £200 to the children of the late Abel Lawrence, Esq., and my sister Mary his late wife, to the children of Lieut. Jonas Prescott, Jr., and my sister Rebecca his wife, to the children of Amos Ames and my sister Abigail his wife, as shall then be living, the Ames children to have a double share. Provision was made in case John-Bulkley Green, or his sister Polly Green, or both, should die without issue before reaching their majority. His mother was to have the use of the clock, but the clock must stay in the house. On 28 Mar. 1776, Jonas Prescott, Jr., of Westford appealed from the will. An inventory, 17 Apr. 1781, showed that he was a man of wealth. Administration de bonis non was granted, 8 Jan. 1799, to Abel Prescott of Groton, with Jonas Prescott of Westford, Gent., and James Spaulding of Ashburnham, as sureties.

He was graduated from Harvard College, 1724; ordained at Sutton, Mass., 15 Oct. 1729; D.D. (Dartmouth), 1777. He was invited to preach at Sutton, in Oct. 1728, and giving satisfaction, continued in the ministry there for sixty years. He "was venerated in life and lamented in death"; was a man of noble bearing, intellectual vigor, and fervent piety; he was called, several times, to settle over more prominent places, but preferred to remain in Sutton, where he was strongly attached to the people, who loved and honored him. He was an intimate friend and admirer of Rev. Jonathan Edwards; they were united in opposing those who rejected the revivals of that period, and also in opposing those whose extravagances brought those revivals into disrepute. Dr. Hall was one of the candidates for the presidency of Princeton College, N. J., at the time Dr. Edwards was elected to that office. Dr. Hall's ministry was useful as well as long; the people were united and built up; the number added during his ministry were 459. His salary was £100, "at the present value of paper money," a stipulation which caused trouble, as it was often difficult to ascertain how much was his due; the town also gave him 130 acres of land, and materials for building his house.

215. (Hon.) John[5] Tyng (Lucy[4], Mary[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Chelmsford, Mass., 25 Jan. 1705, died at Tyngborough, Mass., 18 Apr. 1797; married at Boston, Mass., 29 Aug. 1732, Mary Morse, born at Boston, 29 Sept. 1705, died at Dunstable, Mass., 15 Oct. 1783.

Mr. Tyng was graduated from Harvard College, 1726; represented Boston in the Mass. Assembly ten years prior to 1763; Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Middlesex County, 1763-1786, and chief Judge after the Revolution.

John Tyng of Tyngsborough, Esq., in his will made 25 June 1796, proved 13 June 1797, gave his homestead and estate in Tyngsborough to John Pitts, Esq., of Tyngsborough, to improve until my granddaughter Elizabeth Pitts shall arrive at the age of twenty-two years, then to be held in trust for her descendants in the eldest line for five hundred years; if she die without issue, then to be held in trust similarly for my great-grandson John Tyng Whitwell and his heirs; if he die without issue, then in trust similarly for the latter's brother, Samuel Whitwell; granddaughter Elizabeth Pitts to have all rights in old Dunstable; to cousin William Tyng, Esq., of Portland, Cumberland County, land in Portland "being part of the Great lot which was his Grand Father Edward Tyng's property"; to Capt. Peter Dolliver of Boston and Harriet his wife, land in Casco Bay in trust for their blind daughter Amelia, great-granddaughter of my sister Sarah, and for her heirs, and if she die without issue, then to Peter Dolliver, son of Capt. Dolliver, in fee simple; my granddaughter Lucy, widow of Samuel Whitwell of Newton, physician, deceased, "having withdrawn herself from me I give her five shillings only," but he gave land and money to the three Whitwell children, John-Tyng, Samuel and Elizabeth; to Martha Prentice, daughter of William H. Prentice and granddaughter of my sister Mary deceased, land in Dunstable; to Sarah Codman of Portland, widow, daughter of my sister Sarah deceased; provision for Abigail Hadlock, an old woman who lived with him nearly forty years; real estate in the "Plymouth Patent" in Lincoln County and in Biddeford, York County; "My grand daughter Francis Tyler having incurred my displeasure I give her heirs five shillings only."

Mr. Tyng made another will, 14 Apr. 1797, which was disallowed because he was not considered competent to make a will at that time. It mentioned William H. Prentiss of Littleton, eldest son of my second sister, and his youngest daughter Martha Prentiss; John-Tyng Smith, of Windham, Cumberland County; and granddaughter Elizabeth Pitts, daughter of my beloved daughter Mary Tyng, who was to forfeit her inheritance if she married a man by the name of Pitts or of the blood of Pitts. On 13 June 1797, John Pitt, Esq., gave bond of $100,000 as Executor, with Grant Houston, innholder, also of Tyngborough, and William Henry Prentiss, Gentleman, of Littleton, as sureties. In the inventory Sarah Codman was called Mary Codman of Portland, and William Tyng of Portland was called of Gorham.

Mary Tyng, wife of John Tyng, Esq., of Dunstable, made her will 10 Sept. 1783, with the consent of her husband to take effect after his death, and it was proved 13 June 1797; she gave her estate equally to her granddaughters Frances Tyler and Lucy Tyler.

229. Timothy[5] Clarke (Jonas[4], Mary[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Chelmsford, Mass., 10 Oct. 1726, died there 16 Apr. 1790, unmarried.

Administration on the estate of Timothy Clark, Gentleman, was granted, 21 Apr. 1790, to Thomas Clark of Tewksbury, Gentleman, with Parker Varnum, Esq., and Samuel Coburn, yeoman, of Dracut, as sureties. The inventory amounted to £776.11.7. On 20 Apr. 1791, the parties concerned, being notified, thought it best that the real estate be set off to Thomas Clark, one of the heirs; and Thomas Clark, Thomas Hovey in behalf of Mary Hildreth, Parker Varnum as guardian to Elizabeth Clark, Isaac Clark, and Jonathan Richardson, signed their consent.

Thomas Clarke, nephew of Timothy deceased through the latter's brother Thomas deceased, having received an assignment of the realty, was to pay to each of the deceased's sisters Mary and Elizabeth, or to their respective husbands, £156; to each of the children of the deceased's brother Jonas Clarke deceased (Isaac and Bunker), £78; and to each of the children of the deceased's sister Lucy Richardson deceased (Jonathan, Josiah, Mary, and Lucy), £39; 11 Apr. 1792. On 9 Apr. 1794 a different order of distribution was given, the deceased's sister Elizabeth having died; her share was to go to the other heirs.

Daniel Brown, M.A. (Yale College, 1714), appears to have been the assistant of Samuel Cooke, the Rector of Hopkins Grammar School, in 1715, and at the end of the year succeeded him in that position, in which he continued until appointed tutor in the college in Sept. 1718. He at once entered on his new duties, his senior colleague for the first year being his classmate and intimate friend, Samuel Johnson. In 1719 Johnson retired, and for the next three years the instruction was in the hands of Rector Cutler and Mr. Brown.

The studies pursued by Cutler, Brown, Johnson, and a few others, in the books lately added to the College Library, brought them to the public declaration, 13 Sept. 1722, of their doubts of the validity of Presbyterian ordination. As Brown stood firm in his avowal of Episcopal doctrines, the resignation of his tutorship was accepted, 17 Oct., and on 5 Nov. he sailed from Boston, with Cutler and Johnson, to obtain orders in England. They arrived in the Thames on 15 Dec., and after spending the winter in London were ordained Deacons, 22 Mar. 1723, in the parish church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields; on the 31st of the month they were advanced to the priesthood. Cutler had just recovered from the small-pox, and on 4 Apr. Brown fell sick of the same malady. He died on the 13th, and was buried in the church of St. Dunstan-in-the-West. Johnson in his diary exclaims: "I have lost the best friend in the world,—a fine scholar, and a brave Christian." He was unmarried. President Stiles, writing in 1765 of Cutler, Johnson, Wetmore, and Brown, says of the last, "he was a gentleman of the most superior sense and learning of the four." His friend Johnson became the first Episcopal clergyman in Conn., and later the first President of King's (now Columbia) College. (Yale Biographies, I. 118.)

246. (Rev.) Isaac[5] Brown (Daniel[4], Sarah[3], Thomas[2], Peter[1]), born at New Haven, Conn., 20 Mar. 1709, died at Annapolis, Nova Scotia, in 1787; married Elizabeth ———.

Isaac Brown, M.A., (Yale College, 1729), studied theology under his brother's classmate and friend, Rev. Samuel Johnson of Stratford; who mentioned him to the Secretary of the Society for Propagating the Gospel in 1731 as "a virtuous and discreet young man and of good abilities," who had lately gone to reside (on Johnson's recommendation) at the village of Setauket, in Brookhaven, L. I., to serve as schoolmaster and reader in the small Episcopal congregation there. He crossed the ocean in the summer of 1733, to take orders. During his sojourn in London he signed as a witness Dean Berkeley's deed of gift of his Whitehall farm to Yale College; and having received orders as Deacon and Priest, he was appointed Missionary to Brookhaven.

In 1744 he was transferred to the mission at Newark, N. J., on a salary of £50; he did not actually remove until 1747, and he continued in Newark until the outbreak of the American Revolution. Besides his clerical duties, he was extensively employed as a physician, but not to the entire satisfaction of his parish, as appears by some correspondence which ensued on his being allowed by the Venerable Society in 1768 to exchange his mission for that at Perth Amboy. The latter congregation refused to receive him, on the ground that his medical practice had been a fruitful source of contention with his parishioners through the bills rendered by him in that capacity. He was elected a member of the N. J. Medical Society at its second meeting in 1766.

In 1776 he took refuge within the British lines in New York City, and after the declaration of peace went in 1783 to Annapolis, Nova Scotia. The voyage was a tempestuous one, resulting in the loss of most of his goods; his infirm wife was rendered delirious by the roughness of the passage. His age and feebleness prevented his undertaking any regular pastoral service, but the Venerable Society allowed him a pension of £50 a year, which was almost his sole dependence. He died in the midst of poverty and affliction.

He and his sons Samuel and Daniel-Isaac all three received honorary degrees from Columbia College in 1758.

309. Rebecca[5] Bulkley (John[4], Joseph[3], Thomas[2], Peter[1]), baptized at Fairfield, Conn., 23 Mar. 1739/40, died ———; married Samuel Mann.

Samuel Man and Rebecca his wife of Fairfield conveyed, 14 Mar. 1768, to Josiah Bulkley of Fairfield. On 25 June 1768, Josiah purchased from Martha Bulkley one-sixth of a dwelling house and land that lately belonged to her father John Bulkley deceased; and Esther Bulkley conveyed her interest in the same to Josiah on 21 June 1768. It is apparent from these deeds that Josiah was buying the interest of the other heirs in his father's homestead, and the marriage of Rebecca to Samuel Man is based on the evidence of this deed.

War Rolls. He served in the 7th Co. (Capt. David Lacey), 4th Regt., in 1756, and was reported sick at Albany; and in the State Records. The testimony of Abigail wife of Josiah Bulkley regarding the burning of Fairfield, July 1779: "That the enemy on their coming to the west end of the town, on the night of the 7th inst. they enquired after my husband. I told them that he was out of the town and was not under arms, however they plundered my house of almost all the moveables in it. I with Mrs. Beardsley who was supposed to be in travel and the officers there behaved decently to me, and by the aid and assistance of one of them, I saved my house, and some trifle of furniture from flames. It appeared to me that there was a number of Hessians at liberty to act without restraint."

373. GILES[5] BULKELEY (Charles[4], Edward[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), baptized at Wethersfield, Conn., 14 Dec. 1729, died there 4 Aug. 1785; married ———.*

Administration on the estate of Giles was granted, 6 May 1788, to Elisha Wetherel; Levi Bulkley surety. Estate insolvent; necessaries set to widow.

War Rolls. He served in 1778 in the Co. of Capt. Elijah Wright, Col. Enos's Regt.

* Possibly she was the widow Anna Bulkley who d. at Wethersfield (Stepney), 20 Aug. 1828 ae. 91. Or she may have been "Paty Buckley" who in the 1790 census had three boys under 16, and three females, in her household. The latter identification does not seem likely, as the male members of the household fail to correspond; and despite the fact that Solomon (391) was listed in 1790, he died that year and "Paty" was probably a duplicate entry made after Solomon's death and intended for his widow Martha.

The "Wetherby Buckley" listed at Wethersfield in the Census of 1790 is perhaps a strange error for a combined Wetherel and Bulkley family; the household consisted of a man, a boy under 16, and five females. Giles Bulkeley's daughter Mary was wife of Elisha Wetherel and they then had one son and three daughters; that accounts for all but one female, who may have been Mary's mother or her unmarried sister Abigail.

Children, born at Wethersfield:

1576 +i. MARY[6], b. [say 1762].
1577 +ii. LEVI, bapt. 30 Sept. 1764.

379. Maj. Edward[5] Bulkeley (Charles[4], Edward[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Wethersfield, Conn., 8 Nov. 1741, died there 30 May 1787; married first, at Wethersfield (Stepney), 27 Oct. 1771, Rachel Pomeroy, born at Wethersfield, 15 Sept. 1754, died there 14 Aug. 1774; married second, at Wethersfield, 24 Mar. 1782, Prudence Welles, born at Wethersfield, 19 Mar. 1758, died there 5 Feb. 1837. She married second, 27 Aug. 1798, (Capt.) Charles[5] Bulkeley.

Administration on the estate of Major Edward was granted, 26 June 1787, to Prudence Bulkley; Roger Welles surety. Inventory, £1237. Distribution 31 Oct. 1792; widow Prudence Bulkley; Oliver Pomry Bulkley; Roxa, Rachel, and Pamelia Bulkley. Distribution approved 28 June 1805 of the part of the estate leased by the deceased to Mary Pomroy for life, to the same four heirs as above, except that Roxa's surname appears as Francis; and to the widow Prudence Bulkley.

Colonial and State Records. He was commissioned Lieut., 6th Battalion of the Army, June 1776; 1st Lieut. of State Troops, Oct. 1776.

War Rolls. He served from May to Nov. 1758 in the 4th Co. (Capt. Eliphalet Whittlesey), 1st Regt. (Maj.-Gen. Lyman), French and Indian War. He was 1st Lieut. of the 3d Co. (Capt. Chester Wells), 6th Battalion (Wadsworth's Brigade), 1776; commissioned Capt., Jan. 1777; prisoner on L. I. Expedition, Dec. 1777; exchanged Dec. 1780, and continued in Col. Samuel

B. Webb's Regt. until 1781; Capt. in the 3d Regt., formation of 1781; Brigade-Major of the 1st Brigade on the staff of Gen. Huntington, 1782; an original member of the Society of the Cincinnati.

Prudence Bulkeley was appointed guardian, 1 Apr. 1788, to Pamelia (aged 4), Rachel (5), and Oliver Pomeroy (aged 1), children of Major Edward Bulkeley deceased. Roxa (aged 16) chose her grandmother Mrs. Mary Pumroy guardian, same date.

Prudence was a daughter of Lieut-Col. Solomon Welles, B.A. (Yale 1739), M.A. a Justice of the Peace and influential man in Wethersfield; sister of Brig.-Gen. Roger Welles, B.A. (Yale 1775); and sister of Eunice Welles who married her husband's brother Charles Bulkeley. Much confusion is evident in previous accounts of this family, caused by the fact that Maj. Edward had a cousin of identical name, and that the latter's wife was also named Prudence.

The distribution of the estate of Solomon Wells in 1804 to his widow and children names his daughters Eunice wife of Charles Bulkley and Prudence wife of Charles Bulkley of Vermont.

Prudence afterwards returned to Wethersfield, where she is buried with her first husband and some of her children at Rocky Hill. Her will, dated 18 May 1835, proved 10 Feb. 1837; all estate to son John, he to pay $50. to my daughter Rachael and $10. to my son Pomeroy. (John was her son by her second marriage.)

474. (Rev.) Asa[5] Bulkeley (Peter[4], John[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Colchester, Conn., 15 May 1768, died at Sheldon, Vt., 22 Oct. 1849; married Esther Smith.

He was a prominent clergyman, of Sheldon, Franklin County, Vt.

Colchester Deeds. Asa of Sheldon conveyed, 14 Dec. 1801, to Isaac N. Bulkley of "Montpier," Vt., right in the estate of Susannah Bulkley.

* Charles Bulkeley was listed at Berlin, Vt., in the 1800 census, his family consisting of a man and woman between 26 and 45 (himself and wife), a male between 16 and 26, and a boy and a girl between 10 and 16. The male between 16 and 26 is not accounted for, but may have been a relative or apprentice. Aside from this, the family corresponds with that given above and it is apparent that in 1800 Charles had only the two children.

North Berkshire Deeds. Asa Bulkley and Esther his wife of Sheldon, Vt., in 1803 conveyed land to Jacob Smith in Lanesboro and Pittsfield which was willed to Esther by her father Jonathan Smith of Lanesboro.

The will of Jonathan Smith, made in 1801 and proved in 1802, named his daughter Esther Bulkley. He was the famous "Constitution Jonathan" of Lanesboro.

486. Jerusha[5] Lord (Patience[4], John[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Colchester, Conn., 5 Feb. 1755, died at Lee, Mass., 13 July 1832; married at Middletown (Cromwell Church), Conn., 20

Aug. 1776, (Rev.) David Perry, born at Stratford, Conn., 19 July 1746, died at Richmond, Mass., 7 June 1817.

Mr. Perry studied theology with his uncle, the Rev. Mark Leavenworth (Yale 1737), of Waterbury, and perhaps also with the Rev. Dr. Joseph Bellamy, and was licensed to preach by the New Haven County Association of ministers on 25 May 1773, being then described as "of Yale College."

On 11 Oct. 1773, he was called to settle over the Congregational Church in Harwinton, Litchfield County, Conn., where he was ordained pastor on 16 Feb. 1774. His predecessor, the Rev. Andrew Bartholomew (Yale 1731), had been dismissed on account of his adherence to the halfway covenant; and Mr. Perry's usefulness was broken up by his unwillingness to admit to baptism the children of parents who had availed themselves of that covenant. After five or six years of uneasiness, his dismission took place, by advice of a council of ministers, on 23 Dec. 1783.

He was soon invited to preach to the Congregational Church in Richmond, Berkshire County, Mass., and was installed there on 25 Aug. 1784. An active and successful ministry of over thirty years followed, during which about 186 persons were admitted to the church.

About 1813 his health began to decline, and a hopeless disease (the ossification of an artery) interfered with his regular ministry. He was dismissed from the pastorate on 1 Jan. 1816, and died in Richmond on 7 June, 1817, at the age of 71. The sermon preached at his funeral by the Rev. Dr. Alvan Hyde, of Lee, was afterwards published.

Mr. Perry bore the reputation of an eminently devoted and faithful minister, of "New Divinity" sympathies. (Yale Biographies, IV. 51.)

685. (Rev.) Joseph[6] Emerson (Joseph[5], Edward[4], Elizabeth[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Malden, Mass., 25 Aug. 1724, died at Pepperell, Mass., 29 Oct. 1775; married at Reading, 12 Dec. 1750, Abigail Hay, born at Reading, Mass., 23 Dec. 1720, died after 1811.

Mr. Emerson was graduated from Harvard College, 1743; ordained 25 Feb. 1747, and settled as minister over the West Precinct of Groton, Mass., now Pepperell. He served as Chaplain with the provincial army in the Siege of Louisbourg, 1745, and during his later ministry maintained a high sense of patriotism and an interest in military affairs. He preached a powerful sermon to the Pepperell contingent which participated in the French and Indian War. In 1766, he preached a thanksgiving sermon for the repeal of the stamp act. At the outbreak of the Revolution, he was strongly on the patriotic side, encouraging his parishioners to take up arms. His sons enlisted, and he went with his people to camp at Cambridge, where he offered the earliest prayer in behalf of the American army. The exposure was too severe and, after a few weeks, he was taken ill, returned home, lingered in an enfeebled condition through the summer, and died in the autumn. His townsmen erected a table-stone over his grave, which reads: "Steadfast in the Faith once delivered to the Saints. Fixed and laborious in the cause of Christ & precious souls. Exemplary in visiting & sympathising with his flock—Diligent in improving his Talents—A kind Husband and a tender Parent—a faithful Reprover—& a true Patriot."

His will, dated 14 Jan. 1766, proved 27 Dec. 1775, named his wife Abigail (Executrix), daughter Mary, and sons Joseph, Samuel Moody, Ebenezer, and Sewal; and gave a lot to the town for a school house.

695. (Rev.) William[6] Emerson (Joseph[5], Edward[4], Elizabeth[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Malden, Mass., 31 May 1743, died on Otter Creek (near Rutland), Vt., 20 Oct. 1776; married 21 Aug. 1766, Phebe Bliss, born at Concord, Mass., 21 Oct. 1741, died there 16 Feb. 1825. She married second, 16 Nov. 1780, (Rev.) Ezra Ripley, D.D., by whom she had three children.

Mr. Emerson was graduated from Harvard College, 1761; studied theology and was ordained at Concord, Mass., 1 Jan. 1766, where he succeeded his wife's father, Rev. Daniel Bliss, in the ministry. His oldest brother, Rev. Joseph Emerson of Pepperell, preached the ordination sermon. Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote:

"Reverend William Emerson was an excellent and popular preacher, and an ardent and devoted patriot. He preached resistance to tyrants from the pulpit. He encouraged his townsmen and their allies to make a stand against the soldiers who had marched upon their peaceful village, and would have taken a part in the fight at the bridge, which he saw from his own house, had not friends around him prevented his quitting his doorstep."

His ardor in the military conflict of 1775 urged him to accompany his townsmen to the American lines at Cambridge. He later repaired, as Chaplain, to the army of Gen. Gates at Ticonderoga. After two months he was taken with fever and obliged to apply for a discharge, but died on the way home, at the house of Rev. Benajah Roots, at Gookin's Falls, on Otter Creek.

Children, born at Concord:

696. (REV.) JOHN[6] EMERSON (Joseph[5], Edward[4], Elizabeth[3], Edward[2], Peter[1]), born at Malden, Mass., 20 Nov. 1745, died at Conway, Mass., 26 June 1826; married first, at Boston, Mass., 25 Sept. 1770, SABRA COBB, born at Wareham, Mass., 8 Oct. 1746, died at Conway, 25 May 1806; married second, ——— (———) DUNBAR.

Mr. Emerson was graduated from Harvard College, 1764, and was ordained as minister at Conway, 21 Dec. 1769. He preached his first sermon in a barn; and built his house in 1770. He had been invited to succeed his father in Malden, but declined this as well as other invitations from congregations in eastern Massachusetts, preferring to settle "in the wilderness" in a small town which had been incorporated but a few years before. Within fifty years he had admitted 512 new members to the communion of his church. In 1821 he was no longer able to sustain the cares and duties of a large parish, and a colleague was added to the ministry, who was dismissed in 1825. He continued active and attended church the day before his death, though he did not preach. During his ministry, he had followed 1,037 of his people to the grave.

He was warmly attached to his people, and was eminent as a man of prayer. He baptized 1,200 infants and adults, and preached 3,500 written sermons.

S., Dec. 1806; married first, at Boston, Mass., 10 Mar. 1746/7, Mary Vassall, born ———, died 1757; married second, 11 Oct. 1759, Ann Blackden, born at London, Eng., 21 Mar. 1742, died at Halifax, N. S., Feb. 1810.

Mr. Prescott studied medicine and served not only as Surgeon but also as a captain of engineers at the Siege of Louisbourg, 1745. He retired from the army and settled in Nova Scotia. Large tracts of land were granted to him in Halifax, Chester, and Lunenburg. He resided in all three places, usually spending the winters in Halifax because of the depredations of the Indians. In Chester and Lunenburg he engaged in building mills, but not being a millwright, engaged mechanics from England, and the enterprise, largely because of losses suffered from the Indians, was not profitable. In Halifax he improved his plantations, and accumulated a good estate. He was energetic and enterprising, kind and benevolent, and took great pains to help and relieve the poor soldiers who had served with him at Louisbourg.

Children by first wife, born at Halifax:

3600 i. JONATHAN[7], d. young.

Mr. Prescott was a merchant in Halifax until 1812, when he retired with a handsome fortune at the age of forty. His health failing, he removed to Cornwallis, where he engaged in horticulture and fruit culture, and built extensive greenhouses. He was an honorary member of the horticultural societies of Boston, New York, and London, and was the first man who undertook to promote and improve fruit growing in that section of the country. He was very liberal, always cheerfully giving scions to all who asked for them. He served in both branches of the Legislature. "His hospitable dwelling was the favorite resort of many successive governors. And to his numerous friends, a visit to Mr. Prescott's dwelling was considered a great treat. In simplicity and godly sincerity he had his conversation in the world, walking humbly with his God."

3609 x. Lydia, b. 12 May 1775; m. (Rev.) ——— Norris.

* Mrs. Perit was the second wife of Dr. Monson, who was graduated from Yale College in 1753. He served as Chaplain in 1755; representative in the Conn. Assembly, May and Oct. 1778, May and Oct. 1779, Oct. 1780, and May and Oct. 1781; Justice of the Peace for New Haven County, 1776-81; and held many local offices. He had a powerful and discriminating mind; was noted for wit as well as for learning; made many experiments in pharmacy and kindred branches of science; active in forming the Medical Society of Connecticut, and long served as its president; was appointed a professor in the Medical School at Yale at the time of its organization and continued in office until his death. "His devotion to his patients was unwearied, and he was the active friend of the poor, the distressed and the forsaken."

May 1776 he was granted a license to erect a powder mill in Stratford to manufacture gun-powder for public use.

State Records. He was appointed a Justice of the Peace in 1777 and for many years thereafter. He was Representative for Stratford to the Conn. General Assembly, May 1778, Oct. 1780.

War Rolls. He was Capt. of a Militia Co. in Lieut.-Col. Dimon's Regt. which turned out for the defence of New Haven, July 1779.

He was a farmer, ship-builder, Boston coaster, ship-master, mathematician, astronomer, and surveyor,—a self-made man. He was about five feet eight inches in height, strongly built, a cold-water man, and was never sick during his long life. He was an active Whig in the Revolution, when he raised a militia company called Householders, of which he was chosen captain. He owned the parish grist mill called the Burroughs mill. He was blind several years before his decease. It is said he invented, about the year 1798, the system of Federal Money. (History of Stratford, page 528.)

* The Memorial of the Chaunceys gives the following account of Commodore Chauncy's career:

The opportunities at that period of our history being limited for obtaining a classical education, young Chauncy possessed only the usual facilities in this respect. He was of an athletic and manly frame, and early showed a brave spirit and love of enterprise. At the early age of twelve or thirteen, his importunities prevailed on his parents to allow him to go to sea,—about the time when the present form of government went into operation. A friend of the family, Captain Brewster, took him under his parental care. Under his guidance young Chauncy soon developed such traits of fidelity in the discharge of his duties, so much energy and determination of character, that at the age of nineteen he found himself in command of a ship (Jenny) belonging to the respectable and wealthy house of P. Schermerhorn of New York.

During one of the voyages between Charleston and New York, the yellow fever made its appearance on board. The whole crew and all the officers were taken down with the dire disease, which proved fatal to the larger number. Chauncy found himself in the midst of the ocean alone, and without the assistance of a human being to navigate the ship to her destined port. But neither his energies nor his resources failed him on this trying occasion, and in spite of all the difficulties of such a position, he brought the vessel safe to port, and received the thanks of the owners. It is related of him that when the pilot boarded the ship, finding her under very short sail, he asked Chauncy in a commanding tone, "Why he did not make sail, or order all hands on deck?" Chauncy replied, "All hands are on deck—myself." The high qualities of Chauncy having become known, at the organization of the Navy in 1798, he, with others equally prominent before the country, received a commission as Lieutenant in the Navy. Among these were Bainbridge, Steward, and Hull.

While a Lieutenant he was constantly at sea, and gained the highest approbation from his superiors. While commander, in command of the John Adams, he served with distinction under Commodore Preble in the Tripolitan War. From this officer he received the highest commendation in his official despatches. For his skill and gallantry he received the thanks of Congress, and a sword was voted to him by the same body; which resolution has never been carried into effect. Preble thus speaks of Chauncy's services: "I cannot, in justice to Captain Chauncy, omit noticing the very able assistance I received from him on the quarter-deck of the Constitution, during the whole of the action." "I again acknowledge, with pleasure, the services of an able and active officer in Capt. Chauncy, serving on the quarter-deck of the Constitution."

As Captain of the frigate New York, his presence of mind, and coolness and decision in the moment of danger, probably prevented the total destruction of the ship. On the passage between Gibraltar an explosion occurred, by which the lower part of the ship was filled with smoke. It was an appalling moment, for every man on board was aware that a quantity of powder not far from the magazine must have exploded.

Capt. Chauncy ordered the drummer to beat to quarters. The alarm had not been given a minute when the men were going steadily to their guns and other stations, under a standing regulation. The influence of discipline was well exhibited on this trying occasion, and, fearful as is the alarm of fire on ship-board, the crew went as regularly to their quarters as in the moments of confidence.

An unfortunate order from the Commodore to hoist out the boats had increased the alarm, but Capt. Chauncy rallied a few followers, and reminding them that they might as well be blown up through three decks as one, he led the way below into passages choked with smoke, where the danger was rapidly increasing. There he began to contend with the fire in a spot where a spark might have produced a result that would have left nothing of all on board but their names. Commodore Woolsey, who was a midshipman on board, always spoke in the highest terms of the coolness and decision of Chauncy, by which alone the vessel was saved.

At the time of the partial reduction of the Navy in 1807 and '08, and the introduction of the gun-boat system, when the Navy was scarcely employed, Capt. Chauncy received a furlough, and took command of the finest East Indiaman out of New York, belonging to John Jacob Astor. On his arrival at Canton, he found much excitement and feeling among the American merchantmen, in consequence of the oppressive course of the British officers in boarding our unprotected ships, and impressing such seamen as they might please to call Englishmen, into their naval service. Chauncy, on hearing of these outrages, expressed his determination to resist any attempt to seduce or kidnap his crew from their allegiance, with all the force under his command. An occasion was soon presented of carrying his resolve into effect. His vessel was boarded by a lieutenant from an English frigate, who, without much ceremony, ordered Capt. Chauncy to muster his crew for the purpose of ascertaining if there were any British subjects on board. Capt. Chauncy refused to do it, stating that his crew should have the protection of the American flag flying over them,—that he held a commission in the American Navy, and would not disgrace it by submitting to such an indignity. The Lieutenant grumbled and threatened to no purpose. He left with the threat of returning with an armed force to carry his threat into execution.

In the mean time, Capt. Chauncy had prepared his crew for resistance, (though under the guns of an English frigate) who resolved to stand by him. On the return of the frigate's boat with an armed crew, alongside, he allowed the lieutenant to come on board, but not one of the crew, saying to the officer that he was prepared to resist force by force,—that he would give him a certain number of minutes for reflection, and if he did not leave his ship peaceably, he would be ejected. The lieutenant stormed and ordered his men on board. This was resisted, and Capt. Chauncy having warned him that his time had expired, and finding him unwilling to leave, seized him in his arms and threw him into his boat, or more probably overboard. No further measures were afterwards taken by the British ships of war in that sea to impress our seamen. Chauncy returned to the United States in 1808, and was commissioned by the government to organize the Navy Yard at Brooklyn, N. Y., to the command of which he was appointed.

Capt. Chauncy remained in command of this Yard until the breaking out of the war of 1812, when he was ordered to the command of the Lakes.

The autograph letter from Mr. Madison, President of the United States, appointing Capt. Chauncy to this important and responsible command, is still in the possession of the family, and bears the highest testimony to the patriotism, skill and energy of the officer selected for this high trust.

Cooper, in his History of the American Navy, speaking of the importance of this position, and noticing the fact that the choice of the Department fell on Commodore Isaac Chauncy, adds, "It was generally admitted by all conversant with his professional character, that a better selection could not have been made. Of tried firmness and spirit, Capt. Chauncy was one of the best practical seamen of the age, and his knowledge of ships extended to all those details which would probably come within the scope of his duties."

Commodore Chauncy's distinguished services on Lake Ontario, during the whole period of the war, are too well known to the whole country to require amplification here.

In reference to the difficulty which Commodore Chauncy always had to contend with in bringing Sir James Yeo to action, which he always avoided, Sir James afterwards admitted to Commodore Chauncy, while his guest at Sackett's Harbor, (on his way to England), that it was the policy, and made the enjoined duty of Sir James, by means of especial orders, to avoid a general action, unless under decidedly favorable circumstances. This plan he pursued with tolerable success, though the perseverance and personal intrepidity of his antagonist had forced him to the very verge of a total defeat in the affair of the 28th of September.

In 1816 Commodore Chauncy was appointed to the command of the squadron in the Mediterranean, and sailed for that station in the Washington, seventy-four, flagship, (the second line-of-battle ship ever commissioned, under an American flag), from Annapolis, Maryland, with Mr. Pinkney, Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of Russia. Mr. Pinkney was conveyed to Naples, en route to St. Petersburg, to conduct some important negotiations with the government of the Two Sicilies.

Commodore Chauncy arrived in the Mediterranean in June, 1816, and relieved Commodore Shaw, who had shortly before been left as senior officer by Commodore Bainbridge in the Independence, seventy-four.

Commodore Chauncy was commissioned, in company with Mr. Shaler, since Consul General at Algiers for many years, to open negotiations with the Dey of Algiers, who violated the treaty made with Decatur in 1815, as soon as he heard of the departure of the American fleet, and to bring him to terms by a practical display of his force. This duty he executed to the entire satisfaction of the government.

The large squadron under Commodore Chauncy was distinguished for its activity in cruising, and for the exact and perfect discipline maintained. It visited all the ports of the Mediterranean, and while at Naples the Washington was visited by large numbers of British Naval officers, who then thronged the Continent after the general peace, and who did not fail to express their surprise at our possession of ships of war of so formidable an armament, and their admiration of the ship in her model, her equipment and her efficiency.

Commodore Chauncy cruised in the Mediterranean until the year 1818, when he was relieved in command by Commodore C. Stewart, in the Franklin, seventy-four, and returned to New York, July 4, 1818.

Commodore Chauncy, shortly after his return, was appointed to the command of the station, and kept his flag flying on board the Washington. His duties not requiring his residence at the Navy Yard, he retired to his country seat, a beautiful spot on the East River, which he had purchased in his absence. But this pleasure he was not long permitted to enjoy. In 1821 he was ordered to Washington, (as Navy Commissioner), whither he proceeded with his family in December of that year, and entered upon the duties of his office, with his colleagues Rodgers and Porter. He remained upon this duty until the year 1824, when he was again ordered to the command of the New York Navy Yard Station, which he held until June 1833, when he was once more appointed Navy Commissioner, and removed to Washington.

He was elected a member of the Medical Society of N. J. at the same time with his father. His name was first starred in the Yale Triennial Catalogue of 1778, signifying that he was then deceased.

In 1837, in consequence of the failing health of Commodore Rodgers, Commodore Chauncy was appointed President of the Board, and fulfilled all the arduous duties of that responsible post, to the entire satisfaction of the Department and Executives, until his death.

Without doubt, Commodore Chauncy fell a victim to the arduous duties of his office, which compelled him to a very sedentary life. This, acting upon a full and plethoric habit, requiring exercise, produced derangement of the functions of the stomach, which, terminating in a slow, nervous fever, resulted in his death. His illness was of short duration, about one month, and he died universally loved, esteemed and respected by a wide circle of admiring friends, while his death was regarded as an irreparable loss to the service, of which he was a distinguished ornament.

College, and became a distinguished jurist. His father, Judge David Ogden (Yale College, 1728), himself and two brothers, were Loyalists; while two other brothers joined the American side, one of whom became U. S. District Attorney under President Washington. Isaac's house in Newark was alternately the residence of the British General and the American Commander. He took refuge in New York, and in 1783 in England, his property being confiscated. In 1788 he was appointed Judge of the Admiralty at Quebec by George III. "His manner on the bench was impressive for its energy and acuteness, and his legal opinions were delivered with perspicuity and decision." During the administration of Lord Dorchester, he was appointed one of the Puisne Judges of the District of Montreal and removed thither. While attending to his judicial duties, he was taken with a painful and incurable disease brought on by the sedentary nature of his profession. When not in bed he never failed to appear on the bench, but the heroic struggle had to be given up, and in 1818 he sailed to England to obtain medical assistance, and underwent two painful and dangerous operations. His advanced age was against him, but his cheerful disposition did not desert him, and he still manifested great strength of intellect. The King specially recommended to the Colonial Legislature to make a more suitable provision for his declining age and for his widow if she survived him, but it was not done.

He was grandson of Major and Judge Moses Mansfield, and brother of the Rev. Richard Mansfield, D.D., Rector of St. James's Church, Derby, Conn. During the Revolution, his sympathies were with the Loyalists, and during the occupation of New Haven by Tryon in 1779 many patriots sought and found refuge under his hospitable roof.

* A grandson, (Hon.) Lyman-Wetmore Coe, was founder of the Coe Brass Manufacturing Co.; and a great-grandson, (Hon.) Charles-Frederick Brooker, was president of the same company after its amalgamation with other concerns as the American Brass Company.

From obituary of Deborah (Dayton) Mansfield, Connecticut Journal, 3 June 1817: If the uniform practice of industry, prudence, fidelity and benevolence, springing from vital piety, deserves the esteem of fellow mortals, let the memory of the deceased be regarded. She was an uncommon woman in her day, stout and robust in form, of strong, well balanced mind, of excellent judgment, and a vein of pleasant humor. Intelligent people from a distance sought her society to enjoy her original, independent and shrewd remarks. She was familiar with the Bible, with writings of Flavel, Baxter, Edwards and Bellamy; had seen and conversed with Washington, and had heard Whitfield preach. She bore her long illness of nearly five years with patient resignation. In answer to an inquiry once put to her by the Rev. Dr. Mason, she replied: "Having through divine grace been able to resist the attacks of the adversary for nearly sixty years, I shall not be left to fall into his hands at last, but feel sure of victory through the crucified, risen, reigning and all conquering Redeemer."

Children, born at New Haven:

4171 i. MARY[7], b. 14 Dec. 1745; d. at New Haven, 16 Aug. 1805; m. at New Haven, 29 Dec. 1766, ISAAC BEERS, b. at Stratford, Conn., 28 Nov. 1742, d. at New Haven, 30 Aug. 1813. He was a bookseller, and president of the New Haven Bank from 1798 to 1812. His will made a donation to Yale College to be applied towards the medical institution. Dr. Stiles, writing in 1793, stated that "Mrs. Beers is of a singularly tenacious and retentive memory, well read, an excellent historian and versed in family anecdotes and antiquities of New Haven. . . . . Mrs. Beers was a born historic genius."

4172 ii. LOIS, b. 13 Apr. 1747; d. at New Haven, 28 Aug. 1821; m. at New Haven, 13 Jan. 1772, (COL.) * Record of children incomplete.

State Records. Oct. 1780. The County Court of Fairfield confiscated Joseph's whole estate, he having gone over and joined the enemies of the United States.

He was a farmer of Fairfield, and owned about 150 acres in Redding. Always a warm friend of Great Britain, he refused to sign an association with the Whigs and was therefore publicly advertised as an enemy of America. In 1775 he signed a protest against the proceedings of Congress, pledging himself to oppose them. In consequence of his acts of loyalty he was much persecuted, and was at one time ill-treated by a mob and obliged to secrete himself. On one occasion he, with Ephraim Deforest, was hidden in the woods for 33 days, and while in hiding Lyon built a cave for persecuted Loyalists. He found no opportunity to escape to the British lines until April 1777, when Tryon's Expedition marched through the town, and he returned with it to New York. There he entered the Regt. known as the Associated Loyalists, served as guide under Gen. Tryon at Fairfield 1779, and on several occasions afterward as volunteer at Lloyd's Neck. In Apr. 1783 he removed to Kingston, Nova Scotia, in the transport Union, and was one of the wardens of the first Episcopal Church established in that settlement. He received an award from the British government on account of losses sustained.

1384. Richard[6] Treat (Richard[5], Richard[4], Dorothy[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Sharon, Conn., 14 Mar. 1757, died at Lebanon Springs, N. Y., 19 Apr. 1838; married in 1779, Sarah Bishop, born about 1757, died at Lebanon Springs, 5 Jan. 1832.

A Richard Treat, probably this man, served in 1777 in Capt. Stephen Smith's Co., Col. Benjamin Simonds' Regt., and in 1778 was a Corporal in Capt. Peter Porter's Co. in Gen. Fellows' Brigade of Berkshire County Militia, and in 1779 was in Capt. Samuel Clark's Co., Col. Powell's Regt. of Berkshire Militia.

During a religious revival in 1779 he was convicted of sin and greatly distressed in mind for fear that he had committed the unpardonable sin. The following year, he visited the Shaker Community headed by Mother Ann Lee about seven miles northwest of Albany, and returning for his wife took up his abode there. The members of the Society held their property in common. In 1784 a meeting house was erected at New Lebanon, and here Mr. Treat passed the rest of his life. "He was esteemed both for his virtues and for his agreeableness as a companion." He composed many of the Shaker hymns, some of his poems showing a considerable gift for metrical facility as well as genuine poetic fervor.

They lived at Middletown, Conn., removed about 1800 to Westfield, Mass., and by 1802 to Salem, Wayne County, Pa. This was a New England settlement, then nearly a wilderness. He erected a log house in which his family lived until 1808, and then erected the first framed dwelling in that vicinity.

He married second, 18 Aug. 1834, Catherine Gorman, born at Hartland, Conn., 2 Mar. 1787, died at South Stirling, Pa., 3 Feb. 1881. After the death of his first wife he was lonely and desired to marry again. He was a Methodist, and one Saturday started to attend a Quarterly Meeting, some miles away. He got on the wrong road, and inquired for a Methodist family of his acquaintance who lived in that vicinity. Arriving there, refreshments were provided, and then he inquired for a maiden sister of his host. Being told that she had retired for the night, he expressed a wish to see her, and she was called. He asked her to marry him, and as he did not wish to wait over the Sabbath, a minister was procured and they were married that night.

War Rolls. He served at Boston in 1776 in the 6th Co. (Capt. Jonathan Hale), Col. Wolcott's Regt., Conn. Militia. He was a pensioner, residing in Salisbury, Conn., in 1840, aged 88.

He had many interesting exploits during the Revolutionary War. While in command of a guard at Red Hook, he captured a British sloop. Although the British outnumbered Hollister's men, they were compelled to surrender. During this battle Hollister noticed the enemy throw a package overboard. He recovered this and it was found to be a message containing very valuable information, from Gen. Burgoyne to Sir Henry Clinton. His experiences were long remembered along the Hudson and forty-five years later Cooper gave his name to one of the characters of "The Spy." It may be needless to add that Cooper did not pretend to depict the man.

In 1795 he removed to Sharon, Conn., where he rented a farm from his friend Gov. John Cotton Smith. Later he established an extensive hat factory. In 1805 he removed to Salisbury, Conn., where he spent the rest of his life.

* A son, Ebenezer Roberts, accumulated a fortune in the grocery business, and was a director of the Hartford National Bank, the Travelers Insurance Company, and other corporations. A daughter, Susan-Cornelia (Roberts) Porter, was a painter. A granddaughter was wife of William-Converse Skinner, president of the Anchor Mills Paper Company, Colonel on the staff of Gov. Bulkeley of Connecticut, and a director of several large Hartford corporations.

† Baptized at Cromwell.

1693. (Capt.) Timothy[6] Savage (Sarah[5], Sarah[4], Edward[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), baptized at Middletown (Cromwell), Conn., 24 Jan. 1769, died there 1 Nov. 1847; married there, 26 Nov. 1789, Sarah Collins, born 23 July 1769, died at Middletown (Cromwell), 20 July 1844.

He began his shipping career at the age of fifteen, and at twenty-one was master and owner of a vessel. He suffered large losses by the French, 1798-1800, at the time they were seizing American ships. He built several houses in the village of Upper Houses (Cromwell), and in 1816 he built a brick mansion, which he lost through endorsing the notes of a New York firm with which he had business connections. This firm failed when Capt. Savage was absent on a voyage to the West Indies, and his property and house were taken to pay the debts. He then settled in Wilmington, N. C., where for a number of years he engaged in the West India trade in partnership with the British Consul there. He retired from business and returned to Upper Houses.

He was an original member of the Baptist Church in Cromwell, and its first clerk, but the year before his death he united with the Middletown Universalist Church. His portrait adorns the Life Certificate of the Society of Middletown Upper Houses.

Of his wife he wrote: "In my wife I found a treasure more valuable than gold or silver in all our subsequent life. Not over-elated in prosperity or depressed in adversity, both of which we have experienced together."

1768. (Dr.) Sylvester[6] Bulkeley (Hosea[5], Gershom[4], Edward[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Wethersfield, 1 June 1787, died at Rocky Hill, Conn., 1 Feb. 1857; married first, Mary Johnson, born about 1788, died at Cromwell, Conn., 2 Mar. 1824; married second, at Wethersfield (Rocky Hill), 1 May 1825, Nancy Bradford, born about 1786, died at Rocky Hill, 21 Oct. 1872.

He was graduated from Yale College in 1810, and the following winter taught school in Wethersfield, meantime pursuing the study of medicine under Dr. Daniel Fuller of Rocky Hill. He then attended lectures in the Medical Dept. of Dartmouth College (Hanover, N. H.), and received the degree of M.D. in 1812. He commenced practice in Haddam, and after eight years went to Chester. After a short time he returned to Higganum (a part of Haddam). He then settled in Upper Houses, Middletown (now Cromwell) where he remained in successful practice for twelve years. He then went to New York for further study and on his return settled in Berlin. In 1848 he settled in Rocky Hill because that place had been left without a physician.

He was of robust habit of body, and of vigorous constitution, and had good health, except for rheumatism, which was hereditary in his family. He was a member of the Hartford County Medical Society. He became a member of the Congregational Church in Berlin during his residence there, and retained this connection, though later attending worship at Rocky Hill when he resided there. He was an honest man, and straight-forward in his dealings, of high moral character. As a physician, he enjoyed a liberal patronage in the several places where he resided. He had the esteem of his brethren in the medical profession. He was naturally strong-minded and had little disposition to yield to the whims of his patients when prejudicial to their recovery, and he was sometimes disliked for his firmness.

at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, July 1842; married in 1827, ELIZA (LAWRENCE) MCTIERS, who died late in 1842.

He was a man of uncommon power of body and mind, and of a romantic and adventurous nature. He studied law with Gov. Griswold of Lyme, Conn., but going to Spain with a relative, became infatuated with the sea, and after his return took up the study of navigation. He received the commission of a vessel at the age of 19, and soon attained the rank of Capt., U. S. N. He commanded the Trumbull for several years, and at one time had under him as Lieut. his brother Charles, with his brother George and cousin Jonathan Bulkeley as midshipmen.

Retiring in 1801 under the Peace Enlistment Act, he entered the navy of Chili in her war for independence. Later, be became Brig.-Gen. Effective of the Armada of the Brazilian Empire, holding the position for many years and enjoying close confidential relations with the Emperor, Dom Pedro, who in recognition of his superior military and naval experience made him Admiral-Commander-in-Chief of all the forces of the Empire.

His wife was daughter of Alderman Augustine-Hicks Lawrence of New York City. (N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Rec. 29: 178; Hist. of Montville, p. 568.)

Child, born at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.:

7400 i. AUGUSTINE-DAVID-LAWRENCE[7], D.D., b. 12 Jan. 1830; d. at New York, N. After preaching at Piermont, N. Y., and Throggs Neck, N. Y., he was pastor of the First Congregational Church at New Brunswick, N. J., from 1868 to 1874. A sunstroke led to effects which incapacitated him for pastoral work. Of a sympathetic nature, and possessed of ample means, he was able to dispense a bounteous charity. He purchased the beautiful property known as Mont-Lawn, at Nyack-on-the Hudson, which in 1894 he placed at the disposal of the Christian Herald in its work of providing "summer outings" for the poor children of New York City. Through the kindness of his son, Major Jewett, the privileges of "The Christian Herald Home" for these children were continued after his death.

* The only son was (Maj.) Richard-Dickinson Jewett, a lawyer of New York City.

2052. Sarah[6] Isham (Sarah[5], Oliver[4], John[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Colchester, Conn., 23 Nov. 1771, died in 1793; married (Gen.) Ebenezer Huntington, born at Norwich, Conn., 26 Dec. 1754, died there 17 June 1832.

He was graduated at Yale College in 1775, and, like his elder brothers, enlisted all his energies at once in the service of the Revolution.

In the obituary notice which follows, notice is made of the refusal of the faculty of Yale College to grant him an honorable dismissal before the end of his senior year, to enable him to enter the army then about Boston. The following extract from a letter to his father, will explain the method by which he secured his diploma. Its date is, Roxbury Camp, September 25, 1775. "I should be glad if you would get me a certificate from President Daggett that I am in regular standing in college, and likewise a recommendation, as I imagine I can have a degree without going to Commencement for it; as Dr. Langdon has given me encouragement that he will give me one if the New Haven President refuses it—if I am denied it, only because of my tarry from college this summer, and my leaving it without liberty, and in the alarm last April."

At the close of the war in 1783, he retired to private life, and in 1792, congress having appointed a system for the militia of the states, his excellency, Gov. Huntington, appointed him a general for the State of Connecticut, which situation he held under the successive governors, Wolcott, Trumbull, Treadwell, Griswold, Smith, and Wolcott, enjoying their entire confidence.

In 1799, in consequence of our relations with France, congress deemed it expedient to raise a body of troops for discipline, in case of need, and having given the command to Washington, with a request on the part of the then president, John Adams, that he would designate such officers as he should consider best qualified for the service, Washington named Gen. Huntington, who received a commission as brigadier.

During the War of the Revolution, Gen. Huntington was considered one of the best disciplinarians of the army. He enjoyed the personal friendship of Knox, Humphries, Jackson, and Trumbull, and at its close, in private life, was deemed a gentleman of strict integrity of character, and was honored by the suffrages of the people with a seat both in the national and state legislatures.

Very few living men know anything of the embarrassments attending the officers who served in the War of the Revolution, much of which arose from the depreciated and finally worthless paper currency. The writer of this notice has heard Gen. Huntington say that he had given a month's pay for merely crossing a ferry.

Gen. Huntington was elected a member of the United States House of Representatives in 1810, and again in 1817.

The following obituary notice is taken from the Norwich Courier of June 25, 1834.

"When the battle of Lexington was fought, he was a student at Yale College. Young, ardent and ambitious, he made application to be discharged from his duties there, declaring at the same time his intention of commencing a military life. The Faculty having refused his petition, he left New Haven and joined a company of volunteers to march to Boston. Soon after he was appointed first lieutenant in a regiment of Connecticut troops commanded by Col. Samuel Wyllis; and in June, 1776, he was promoted, receiving a captain's commission, and near the close of the campaign did the duties of brigade major under Gen. Parsons. Soon after this he was appointed deputy adjutant general to the troops stationed on the North River, under Maj. Gen. Heath, for the defense of the Highlands. He also received the appointment of deputy paymaster.

"In 1777, Congress authorized Gen. Washington to raise sixteen regiments, in addition to those which were to be raised by the respective states. In one of these, commanded by Col. Samuel B. Webb, he received the commission of major, and in 1778, Col. Webb and the lieutenant colonel of the regiment having been made prisoners, the command devolved upon Major Huntington, who was ordered to march to Rhode Island to reinforce the troops which were directed to attack the British army then at Newport. Major Huntington continued in command till 1779, when, the lieutenant colonel, having been exchanged, resigned, and Major Huntington was promoted to a lieutenant colonelcy, to take rank from June, 1778.

"Soon after this he joined the main army, when he was appointed to the command of a battalion of light troops to reinforce the army then acting against Cornwallis at Yorktown, where he continued until near the close of the siege, when he joined Gen. Lincoln as a volunteer aide, acting in that capacity during the rest of the siege, and up to the time of the surrender of Cornwallis and his army."

2191. (HON.) JAMES[6] KILBOURN (Josiah[5], Josiah[4], Grace[3], Peter[2], Peter[1]), born at Farmington, Conn., 19 Oct. 1770, died at Worthington, Ohio, 24 Apr. 1850; married first, at Simsbury, Conn., 8 Nov. 1789, LUCY FITCH; married second, at Worthington, in 1808, CYNTHIA GOODALE.

His father was impoverished by the Revolutionary War, which had resulted in the death of three members of the family. In 1783 the family had to give up their fine farm and a small farm of thirty acres was purchased, mostly new land. In 1786 it was necessary to part with twenty-five acres and mortgage the remainder. The father advised James to leave home and do the best for himself that he could. After a sleepless and tearful night, he bade farewell to his parental home. Not yet sixteen years of age, poorly clad for summer and without winter clothing,—without coat or shoes, and so illiterate that he could scarcely write his name,—with a sad but resolute spirit he set out with no specific destination. The first day he walked about thirty miles but did not succeed in getting employment. On the next day he let himself to a farmer for the procurement of necessary clothing for the approaching winter, and soon after apprenticed himself to a clothier. Seven months of each year for four years, he devoted faithfully to his master, with no other compensation than his board and instruction in the trade; during the summer and autumn he hired himself to farmers to procure the means to defray his other expenses. With an industry and perseverance seldom surpassed, he labored in the shop or on the farm during the day and spent at least half of every night in study and writing.

During the first three summers of his apprenticeship, he was principally employed as a farm hand by Mr. Griswold, whose son became Bishop Griswold. The future Bishop befriended the boy and aided him in his studies. James acquired a knowledge of English, Latin and Greek from Mr. Griswold, as well as mathematics. At the age of 19, his master relinquished all claims to his further services provided he would take charge of the establishment. James immediately added new machinery paid for out of his summer earnings, and the same year married a daughter of John Fitch, the inventor of the first steamboat.

Mr. Kilbourn was remarkably successful in this business, and having obtained from an absconded English dyer a knowledge of all the permanent dyes then made in England, his business extended and his profits increased. Within a short time he erected two other establishments, and superintended them in person, riding, and laboring so constantly that he frequently went two days at a time without sleep. Inhaling the fumes from the dyes affected his lungs and he suffered a breakdown. In September he was confined for eight months with a painful disease in the back and hips, and for a year and a half had to use crutches,

Being unable to follow his trade, he sold his factories together with his knowledge of dyeing, and engaged in mercantile business in Granby. In this he was eminently successful, became wealthy, and in addition to mills and stores owned five farms.

During this period he originated and carried through the great Turnpike Road from Hartford through Granby and Pittsfield to Albany, formed a literary society among the young people of the town, commenced a public library, and was agent for building the Episcopal Church.

Having secured the means of ease and comfort, Mr. Kilbourn decided to retire from business. Amidst his herculean labors, he had found time to study theology and ecclesiastical history. Brought up in the Congregational church, he had early become an Episcopalian. He was now often called upon to officiate as lay-reader in the church, and was urged by his friends to take orders. He was ordained at Middletown by the Rt. Rev. Abraham Jarvis, officiated in several vacant parishes, and received offers to settle. He declined these invitations, as he had then formed a project of western emigration.

He had made two tours of exploration through Western New York, but was advised by his father-in-law to turn his thoughts to Ohio, which was then regarded as the utmost verge of the West. Late in the winter of 1801-2 he obtained seven associates who desired him to explore the country and to purchase land enough for forty families. The following spring, he made his first expedition to Ohio, in the course of which he walked over a thousand miles. His old disease of the back and hips returning, he had to delay a few days and continue on horseback. He found a desirable location, returned and formed the "Sciota Company" of forty members, and closed the contract for a township of 16,000 acres.

On 7 Apr. 1803 he again started for the west, followed by a mill-wright, a blacksmith and nine other laborers, and a family in two wagons. He cut the first tree on the purchase, thus beginning the settlement at Worthington, near the city of Columbus. Land was cleared for planting and structures were erected. Later he returned and conducted his own and ten other families to the purchase.

Mr. Kilbourn was appointed Minister of the St. John's Parish which this colony constituted. He visited many of the neighboring settlements and other parts of the state, preaching and organizing societies, many of which became permanent churches. The thought of leaving the clerical office never occurred to him, but his fellow citizens began to urge upon him the importance and necessity of taking the lead in civil affairs. Many duties devolved upon him besides those of his profession. Besides superintending the affairs of the colony, he had personally made a complete survey of the township and divided to each of the proprietors their rights. After making suitable arrangements, he resigned his place in the church and devoted himself to public duties and his private occupations.

Upon the organization of the State Government of Ohio, he was appointed a civil magistrate, and Captain of all the militia on the North-West Frontier. The Indian Line was but twenty-eight miles from their settlement and it required vigilance and decision to manage the savages. In addition to the erection of mills and stores, he opened an Indian trading house. In the spring of 1806, he explored the south shore of Lake Erie and selected the present site of Sandusky City for the northwest commercial metropolis. About this time he received by Act of Congress the appointment of United States Surveyor of an immense tract of Public Lands and executed the duties of the office for nine years.

In 1806, he was appointed by the Legislature, one of the first trustees of Ohio College, at Athens, and after holding this office for several years resigned because of pressure of other duties. In 1808 he was elected by the Legislature one of three commissioners to locate the seat of Miami University. About this time he was elected Major of the Frontier Regt. and was soon after chosen Lt.-Col. and subsequently Colonel. The last office he declined, and resigned his former commissions. On the organization of Worthington College in 1812, he was elected President of the Corporation and was re-elected to this office during his life. During the same year he was appointed by the President of the United States, a commissioner to settle the boundary between Public Lands and the Great Virginia Reservation. This duty was performed at great peril because of the hostile Indians.

A few days after completing this service, which Congress ratified, he was elected a Member of Congress and served through the two regular sessions and two extra sessions of the 13th Congress. He was also re-elected Colonel and accepted the appointment. In the fall of 1814, he was re-elected to Congress by a vote of more than two to one, but at the end of the 14th Congress declined a re-nomination.

In 1823-4 he was a member of the Ohio Legislature, in which body he served on fourteen committees, one of which was for the revision of the general statutes, and he formed a glossary of the new revised code, defining all the Latin, Greek, and obsolete English words and technicalities contained therein. Soon after this he was appointed by the Governor of Ohio to select the lands granted by Congress towards the Ohio Canal. In 1838-9 he was again a member of the Legislature, and rendered great service in condensing and simplifying the laws.

At the time of the War of 1812, because of his knowledge of manufacturing and dyes, he was urged by the President and his Cabinet to embark in the manufacture of woolen goods for clothing the army and navy. He well remembered the total ruin of those who were engaged in similar enterprises during the Revolution, but the promises were now so fair that he invested $10,000 and incurred liabilities to the amount of $57,000. He prosecuted his new enterprise with his accustomed energy. Peace came in 1815, but with it no protection of woolens. At the age of fifty, with a large family, he found himself deprived by creditors of the last farthing which he had accumulated by enormous sacrifices. Finding himself thus destitute of means, he took up his surveying apparatus again and went into the woods. For more than twenty years he was much of the time busily engaged in his calling, and surveyed more townships, highways, turnpikes, railroads and boundary lines than any three other men in the State. By the practice of his wonted industry and enterprise, in a short time he again acquired a good degree of independence and was enabled to educate his family in business, science and literature.

He was the presiding officer at the great State Convention held at Columbus on 4 July 1839 for laying the corner stone of the Capitol, also at the Whig Convention of 22 Feb. 1840. He also presided in more than half of the many conventions and meetings which he attended during the course of fifty years.

In 1840, having arrived at the age of 70, he declined all public offices except that of Assessor of real and personal estate for the County of Franklin, the duties of which station he performed until 1845. But though retired from public life, he still felt a lively interest in public affairs and during the six years ending with 1848 he delivered over a hundred addresses on State and National policy.

The Kilbourn Genealogy says of him that he was more extensively known and more distinguished in public life than any other American of his surname. Andrews's New Britain calls him "in several respects the most distinguished man New Britain ever raised."

He left school at the age of thirteen, and after three years as a clerk in his father's store, during which time he further educated himself, he engaged in surveying. In 1823 he entered the service of the State of Ohio as an engineer, and was engaged in the construction and superintendence of the canal system. In 1835 he purchased a large amount of land in Milwaukee. In 1840 he was a candidate for Delegate to Congress, but was defeated by a small margin. In 1845 he was elected to represent the County of Milwaukee in the Territorial Legislature. In 1846 the City of Milwaukee was chartered, and he was chosen a member of the first board of Aldermen, and was re-elected in 1847, being also chosen a delegate to the convention which met at Madison that year to form the State Constitution. In 1848

8385 viii. Eliza, b. ———; m. Roderic Hunt.

* A son, Franklin-Seth Dewey, went to California in 1849, returned with a fortune, and settled in North Hartford, Conn. A grandson, Franklin-Seth Dewey, of Westfield, Mass., was in the drug business, firm of Dewey & Parsons, and was Representative to the State Legislature.

2209. George[6] Kilbourn (Joshua[5], George[4], Grace[3], Peter[2], Peter[1]), born at Farmington, Conn., 19 Nov. 1769, died after 1854; married at Farmington, about 1791, Almira Wilcox, born ———, died after 1854.

Left a young orphan by his father's death, he lived with Col. Isaac Lee until he was 15, then chose his uncle Joseph Mather for guardian. From Mr. Mather he learned the tanning and shoemaking business. He commenced business in Farmington, but after his marriage removed to Goshen, Conn., where he remained eight years. During this time, he purchased 15 acres of land, built a house and tannery, and prospered.

In 1801 he disposed of his property without sacrifice and joined a company in the settlement of Hudson, Ohio. He cleared 25 or 30 acres, but in 1803 his thigh was broken by a falling timber, which, together with the ague, incapacitated him from farming for two years. His wife attended to the cultivation of the land in addition to her domestic duties, with the help only of the eldest son, a boy of seven. In 1805, because of his misfortune, he resumed his trade, so sold his farm in Hudson and removed to Newburgh. Here he prospered, but after three years and a half removed to Tallmadge where the Rev. David Bacon was building up a moral and religious society. Again he and his family were subjected to the hardships of the wilderness. In nine years of residence he cleared his farm, built a good house and barn, and won a comfortable living. Through the influence of his son-in-law, Capt. Oviatt, he returned to Hudson, where he spent the rest of his life as a well-to-do farmer.

He was strongly religious, and active in building up church and literary institutions.

When completed, he turned his attention to the lumbering business, north of Madawaska Rapids, now Arnprior, where he also kept a general store, and placed the first steamboat ever run on the Chats Lake. As the country began to be opened up, he pushed still further north, and opened up what became known as Gould's Forwarding Line, having first surveyed and built a road, despite almost unsurmountable obstacles, from Gould's Wharf to Cobden. When the road was completed, he placed a steamboat at that point on Muskrat Lake, which plied to within two miles of Pembroke. Stages were placed on the new highway, and a connection completed between upper and lower Ottawa. This line was kept in operation by Mr. Gould until within a few years of his decease, when it was incorporated into a company which built a new passenger boat, named after him The Jason Gould. Mr. Gould, by his energy and perseverance, assisted greatly in the opening up of the Ottawa Valley. "An affectionate parent, a warm friend, a consistent politician, and a man of the strictest integrity."

I. Unplaced Families

JOSEPH BUCKLEY OF BOSTON

Joseph Buckley, a merchant, of Boston, Mass., born about June 1659, died at Boston, 1 Jan. 1701/2; married at Boston (bond 16 Nov. 1687), Joanna (Shute) Nichols, born about June 1662, died at Boston, 4 Mar. 1716/7.

He was Master of The Pink Eagle, eighty tons, which, laden for Jamaica, was burned in Boston Harbor, 1 Dec. 1690.*

Mrs. Buckley was widow of Nathaniel Nichols of Charlestown, Mass., who died before 21 Aug. 1687; by him she had two daughters, Hannah who married at Boston, 7 Jan. 1702, Jonathan Mountford, and Elizabeth who married at Boston, 29 May 1712, Joshua Pitman.

Joseph's will, made 24 Nov. 1700, proved 19 Mar. 1702, provided for his wife Joanna, to have the dwelling house which had been given him by his father-in-law; sons Joseph, Richard, and Thomas, £300 to each as he comes of age.

The will of Joanna Buckley, dated 7 Feb. 1716/7, proved 30 Mar. 1717, called her relict of Mr. Joseph Buckley of Boston, merchant; mentioned the will of her deceased father; her three sons, Joseph, Richard, and Thomas; her five grandchildren,—Elizabeth, Hannah, Sarah, and Jonathan Mountford, and Joshua Pitman; her two daughters, Elizabeth Pitman and Hannah Mountford, they to be Executrixes.

JOHN BULKELEY OF NEW YORK CITY

Deposition of Lieut. John Bulkeley dated New York, 4 July 1698, relating to muster roll of Col. Benjamin Fletcher's company taken in Jan. 1696/7, explaining how he was "circumvented and deceived not being ever before required to sign a muster roll till that time." A copy of the muster roll, dated New York, 12 Jan. 1696/7, and sworn to by Jno. Bulkley, Lieut., includes ninety-eight men in addition to officers, and the last name on the roll is "Ben. Bulkeley, Lieut.'s man."†

Mary widow of Joseph Grigg of New York City in her will, 26 Oct. 1695, gave her wearing apparel to Mary Holland and Elizabeth Bulkeley; and all her realty in New York to Lieut. John Bulkeley and William Bickley, executors, to enable them to pay debts and legacies. On 20 Jan. 1699, John Bulkeley sold to William Bickley half of the house and lot bequeathed to them by Mary Grigg.‡

Administration on John Bulkly's estate was granted, 19 Nov. 1702, to his widow Elizabeth.*

John Bulkely witnessed the will of John Pine of Hempstead, N. Y., 21 Feb. 1702/3, but did not join the other two witnesses in acknowledging it, 20 May 1703.†

JOHN BUCKLEY OF SAYBROOK

John[1] Buckley or Bulkley married at Saybrook, Conn., May 1714, Deborah Shipman. He was probably a sea-faring man, and no connection with the Rev. Peter Bulkeley family is known. On 16 Apr. 1728, John Buckley, late of Saybrook, having been long absent and reported to be deceased, his minor son John Buckley chose his father-in-law [stepfather] John Atwell of said Saybrook for guardian. The name of this family is usually spelled Buckley in the public records relating to the early generations, though many later descendants employ the spelling Bulkley.

Children, born at Saybrook:

i. John[2], b. 5 Mar. 1714/5; served from Sept. to Nov. 1755 in 3d Co. (Maj. William Whiting of Norwich), 4th Regt. (Col. Elihu Chauncey); from Apr. to Dec. 1756 in 2d Co. (Lt.-Col. William Whiting), 2d Regt. (Col. David Wooster).

+ii. Job, b. 23 Feb. 1718/9.

Job[2] Buckley (John[1]), born at Saybrook, Conn., 23 Feb. 1718/9, died there May 1756; married at Saybrook, Feb. 1738/9, Dorcas Conkling, who died at Saybrook in 1770. His will, 3 May 1756, proved 17 May 1756, named his wife and all his children (except Mary); James Bayley and wife Dorcas, Executors.‡ The will of Dorcas, 26 Mar. 1770, proved 2 July 1770, named her daughters Dorcas and Amey Buckley, son William Buckley, and "all my children" (without naming them). Distribution of her estate was made to Job, Conklin, Anne [sic], Dorcas, William, Abraham, Daniel, and Joel Buckley. This family were among the early Baptists of Connecticut.

ELIZABETH BULKLEY OF SAYBROOK

Elizabeth "Buckly," in 1654, wilfully burned the barn of William Lord of Saybrook, and it is probable that she was then an apprentice girl living in Saybrook. She married (recorded at Branford, Conn.), 2 Dec. 1662, MICAH PALMER, who died at Branford in 1682. A great-grandchild in 1771 named a son Bulkley.

Children, born at Branford:

i. ELIZABETH, b. 13 Oct. 1663.

viii. JOSHUA, b. 25 Dec. 1677; d. at Branford, in 1731; m. MERCY SANFORD, b. at Milford, Conn., 1 July 1679.

AZEL BULKLEY

The connection of Azel Bulkley with earlier families of the name has not been traced. He lived in Syracuse, N. Y., and served in the War of 1812. He removed to Indiana, and about 1840 to Missouri, where he died about 1844/5.

His grandson, Dr. James-Franklin Bulkley, published at La Plata, Mo., in 1911, A Genealogical Record of the Bulkley Family, in which the descendants of Azel, together with certain branches of the Rev. Peter Bulkeley family are set forth. The line of ancestry there assigned to Azel cannot be accepted as correct.

MISCELLANEOUS

HANNAH BULKLEY married at Goshen, Conn., 6 June 1748, ELEAZER BARRETT. He was from Plainfield, Conn., where he had married first, 25 Dec. 1730, Catherine Williams; removed to Cornwall, Conn., where his wife died 8 May 1746. The second marriage is recorded at Cornwall; Hannah may have been a widow.

Sarah Bulkley married at New Milford, Conn., 11 Jan. 1779, Timothy Cole, and had a daughter Hannah, born 30 Aug. 1779. Her identity has not been proved; she may have been No. 304.

Aaron Buckley married 28 Oct. 1761, Lydia Luddington [East Haven Church records]; according to Branford Vital records, William Bulkley was the bridegroom.

The Goodrich Genealogy, p. 36, stated that Ephraim Goodrich married, 25 Oct. 1726, Susanna Bulkley, daughter of Dr. Daniel. There was no such person. She was Susanna, daughter of Dr. Daniel Hooker.

Capt. John Buckley, died at Boston, 9 Aug. 1799 ae. 58. John Buckley, Jr., son of John of Saddleworth, near Manchester, England, merchant, died at Boston, 23 Aug. 1798 in 23d year. [Copp's Hill Epitaphs.]

Jane Buckley "of New England" married at First Church, Morristown, N. J., 7 Feb. 1749, Edward Riggs "of Roxiticus."

Edward Bulkley, born about 1778, died in the West Indies, 22 July 1801; and George Bulkley, born about 1786, died in the West Indies, 1 July 1805; deaths recorded at Stepney (Rocky Hill) Church; doubtless belonged to the Wethersfield branch, but their parentage has not been ascertained.

Ezra Bulkeley, born in or before 1775, is listed in the 1820 Census at Sangerfield, Oneida County, N. Y., apparently with wife of similar age and nine children or grandchildren.

"Mr. John Bulkely" of Newburyport, Mass., married at Hanover, N. H., 28 Sept. 1783, Deborah Langford, of Gloucester, Mass.

John Bulkeley was listed at Jaffrey, Cheshire County, N. H., in the 1790 Census, with two boys under 16 years and two females in his family; and Nathaniel Bulkeley was listed at FitzWilliam in the same county with two males over 16 years (including himself), one male under 16 years, and one female. The History of Jaffrey states that John Buckley, born at Stuttgart, Germany, in 1756, came with the British army, deserted, settled in Jaffrey, N. H., and died 13 June 1817 aged 61; married Peggy Dunlap, and had children, John (N. Y. State), Frederick, James (Cape Vincent, N. Y.), Samuel (Waterloo, N. Y.), and William (Buffalo, N. Y.).

"Mr. Buckley" had children buried at Boston on 30 Aug. 1703 and on 21 Aug. 1704.

BUCKLEY AND OTHER FORMS

During the Nineteenth Century, many immigrants named Buckley came to America, most of whom were of Irish extraction. Through the carelessness of clerks, and sometimes of members of the family, the name Bulkeley or Bulkley was often written as Buckley. The name Beckley has sometimes been misread as Buckley, and then converted into Bulkley.

II. Late Additions

1540. Mabel[6] Hurlbut (Mabel[5], Katharine[4], Katharine[3], Gershom[2], Peter[1]), born at Wethersfield, Conn., 20 June 1769, died there 11 Aug. 1854; married at Wethersfield, 23 Nov. 1803, John Loveland, born at Wethersfield, 11 Apr. 1770, died there 14 May 1834.* His first wife was Rebecca Deming (No. 1552), see page 644.

Children, born at Wethersfield:

i. Rebecca[7], b. 19 Oct. 1804; d. 30 Sept. 1882, unm.
ii. Child, b. Feb. 1806; bur. 11 Mar. 1806.
iii. John, b. 23 Oct. 1808; d. at Wethersfield, 5 June 1872; m. (1) 11 Mar. 1832, Elizabeth-Howard Sebor, born at Wethersfield, 23 Nov. 1807, d. 1 Aug. 1854; m. (2) Sarah-Treat Talcott, b. 21 July 1809, d. 5 Dec. 1873.
iv. Lucy, b. 25 Aug. 1810; d. 3 July 1893, unm.

* This family was omitted in its proper place because some authorities (such as Hist. of Wethersfield, vol. 2, p. 451) identify John Loveland's second wife with a Mehitabel Hurlbut who was born 19 June 1764. But John Loveland's wife Mabel died 1854 aged 85, which would seem to identify her with our Mabel Hurlbut above. Furthermore, the marriage on 18 Oct. 1787 of Mehitabel Hurlbut to Ezekiel Sibley of Ashford is recorded at Wethersfield Church.

III. The Will of Rev. Peter Bulkeley's Grandfather

Because of the serious illness of the gentleman who was commissioned to copy the will of Rev. Peter Bulkeley's grandfather, Thomas Bulkeley of Woore, Shropshire, the copy was not received in time to be printed in the account of the Bulkeley family on page 5. The document is so interesting that we are printing here a very full abstract. The original was probated at Lichfield, but is now kept at the Probate Registry at Birmingham.

The above will and the inventory of the estate of Rev. Peter Bulkeley's grandfather are of great interest as indicating the social status of the family and the social conditions of the period. It will be noticed that the lands were not appraised for inclusion in the inventory. The landed estates were entailed for the benefit of Mr. Bulkley's eldest grandson, William, whom he calls his "nephew." This term was then used in that sense, in strict conformity with its derivation from the Latin "nepos." The term "cousin" in the will refers to nephews of Mr. Bulkeley or of his wife, or to the husbands of nieces.

The will does not add very greatly to our genealogical knowledge, and its chief importance is that it verifies many of the statements made in the early pages of the present volume. It is interesting to note that Thomas named his son Edward and daughter-in-law Olive, who were the parents of the Rev. Peter Bulkeley; also, that he mentioned the names of his own wife Elizabeth, and those of his parents and of his maternal grandfather. The cousin Robert Grosvenor whom he mentioned was doubtless a nephew of his wife, Elizabeth Grosvenor. The cousin Thomas Duffield was husband of his niece, Jane Miles.

The sister who was called Helen Mills in his will was identical with the Elianor Myles of London, widow, whose will dated 5 Nov. 1594, proved 13 Nov. 1594, directed that she should be buried in the church of St. John's Walbroke near the corpse of her late husband William Myles, pewterer. Mrs. Miles gave twenty shillings for a ring to her cousin [nephew] Mr. Edward Bulkley, D.D., and the same to her cousin [nephew] Rowland Bulkley, and named her cousin Mr. Doctor Bulkley as an overseer of her estate, the chief legatees being her four children, Rowland Myles, William Myles, Alice wife of John Leverton, and Jane wife of Thomas Duffield.*

* An abstract of the will of Mrs. Miles was published in Waters' Genealogical Gleanings in England, vol. 2, p. 1061.

This index includes all names that appear in the volume except those of persons to whom acknowledgment is made, and those of military officers under whom Bulkeley descendants served.

Bulkeley descendants have been indexed individually, with year dates of birth added in italics. Those not of Bulkeley descent have not been indexed individually, and two or more individuals of identical name have been combined. Women of Bulkeley descent and those who married Bulkeley descendants are indexed under both their maiden and married names; other women are indexed as a rule only under their maiden names, but under their married names when the maiden names are not known.
